CHIEFS AGREE TO REWRITING OF EXCISE TAX

Senate Defeats Move to Boost Levy on Autos 42-29 Vote.

WARNING FOLLOWS ON GOLD-RUN PERIL

Beer-for-Revenue Plan Is Beaten Again, 55 to 26; Tariff Row Ends.

By J. R. M'DONNELL.

Hard-pressed Republican and Democratic leaders in charge of the billion-dollar tax bill, which has been advertised as a measure which shall balance the Federal budget, agreed last night to rewrite the harshly belabored excise tax section of the measure.

Their decision came at the close of a day in the course of which it seemed, at times, opponents of the bill at last were on their way and the measure would be rewritten on the floor, as it was in the House.

The automobile industry had made the first breach in the committee bill the day before when the Senate disregarded the finance committee proposal to increase the House rate on automobile trucks from 2 to 3 per cent of their sales value.

Auto Rate Rise Beaten.

Fear spread when consideration of other automobile taxes was resumed late in the day and the finance committee recommendation that the House rate of 3 per cent on passenger automobiles be increased to 4 per cent was voted down, 42 to 29.

Senator Reed Smoot (Republican), of Utah, chairman of the finance committee, who has charge of the bill, warned that defeat of the committee proposal for a 4 per cent tax would mean a loss of $14,000,000 from the $1,030,000,000 necessary revenue the committee bill was estimated to raise.

It was the second serious defeat of the finance committee and Senator Pat Harrison (Democrat), Mississippi, rose and challenged advocates of the general manufacturers sales tax to bring their measure to an immediate vote. He said that the sales tax advocates and the advocates of higher income taxes were seeking to scuttle the excise tax section of the committee bill in the hope that the Senate would have to turn to the proposals of one or the other group.

Plea Made by Reed.

Senator David A. Reed (Republican), Pennsylvania, who is an open and ardent advocate of the general manufacturers' sales tax, probably saved the committee's day.

Analysis of the vote by which the committee passenger automobile tax had been defeated, Senator Reed said, showed that 16 of the 29 who voted to support the committee were advocates of the general sales tax. He intended to support the commit-

Crash at 70-Mile Speed Kills Driver

Car Operated by Man, 24, Hits Van; Is Listed to Woman.

The driver of a speeding car which smashed into a parked moving van at Bladensburg road and South Dakota avenue northeast died last night in Casualty Hospital, a few minutes later, from a fractured skull. He was Thomas Wilbur Wright, alias Thomas Willard Wood, 24, of 2611 Brentwood road.

A Maryland operator's permit found in Wright's pocket gave his address as Hyattsville. The moving van, which was from Asheville, N. C., was in charge of E. Allen, of that city. He, with Fred Douglass, of Asheville, was in a restaurant when the crash occurred.

Police Private K. P. Greenlow, who was off duty, said he saw the car traveling at an estimated speed of 70 miles an hour just before the accident. He said the automobile, a heavy coupe, was listed to Mary V. Perry, of 4109 Illinois avenue. Persons at that address said they knew the woman, adding that she had never lived there and they did not know where to find her.

Widow of Consulting Engineer Causes Arrest of Shoreham Guest, Alleging She Was Victimized by Treasure Story, Related by Dr. Purdy.

A fantastic story of how the widow of a Washington consulting engineer was allegedly fleeced out of $19,128 in cash through a story of a chest containing $60,000,000 in gold awaiting her in London, England, was revealed yesterday through service of a warrant charging larceny after trust on Dr. Frank L. Purdy, a resident of the Shoreham Hotel.

Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Fields Purdy, wife of the man held, is also being sought in the case. She had eluded a score of United States marshals last night.

The charges against Dr. Purdy, formerly of California, were sworn out Tuesday by Mrs. Florence Means Kay, of 1804 Mintwood place northwest, widow of Edgar B. Kay, consulting engineer. It was served only after greatest difficulty. Assistant Chief Deputy Marshal John J. Clarkson and Deputy Marshal Gus Cerimele gained entrance to Dr. Purdy's apartment to serve the warrant as he was telephoning the hotel clerk to "protest against this unwarranted intrusion."

The Purdys allegedly obtained the $19,128 from Mrs. Kay last January. According to her story, the couple made her acquaintance and then unfolded the story of the mysterious $60,000,000 trunk.

The trunk was supposedly in possession of an aged woman in London. The woman was to send the chest to the Purdys, but to defray the expenses a large sum of cash was needed. This was obtained from her, according to the Washington widow's story.

The chest was to have been shipped to the Chase National Bank in New York City, and its safe arrival here would have entailed considerable expense. After its arrival the $60,000,000 was to have been distributed to charitable causes in the United States, according to Mrs. Kay's story.

Mrs. Kay swore in her warrant that she contributed $19,128 for the removal of the money to the United States, but did not disclose the terms

BLACKMER'S ARREST UNAFFECTED BY FINE

Missing Oil Witness May Be Seized in Spite of Millions Paid.

(Associated Press.)

Henry M. Blackmer, missing witness in the Teapot Dome oil trials, has paid the Government $3,670,784 to settle civil tax evasion charges and $60,000 in fines for contempt of court, but still faces arrest should he return to the United States.

Indictments charging tax evasion are pending against him in the United States court at Denver and Treasury officials said yesterday they would be pressed hould Blackmer return. George Gordon Battle, Blackmer's attorney, said yesterday he had received no intimation that the wealthy Colorado oil man would break his exile and come back from France.

Battle paid the fines to the United States court yesterday and received from the United States marshal $100,000 in 3½ per cent Liberty bonds which were seized by the Government in 1927, when Blackmer was adjudged guilty of contempt of court for failure to appear at the Fall-Sinclair conspiracy trial.

It was Liberty bonds traced by the United States authorities which first connected Blackmer with the oil lease scandals in which the Government charged that Albert B. Fall, Secretary of the Interior, had conspired with Harry F. Sinclair, wealthy oil man, to defraud the Government of the Teapot Dome naval oil reserves. The bonds, it was found on investigation,

HAMLET IS CHOSEN COAST GUARD HEAD

Is Nominated by Hoover to Succeed Billard; Entered Service in 1894.

A veteran member of the United States Coast Guard, Capt. Harry G. Hamlet, was nominated yesterday by President Hoover as commandant of the service in which he started as a cadet 38 years ago.

Capt. Hamlet will succeed the late Rear Admiral Frederick C. Billard, who died recently at his home here. He will be promoted to the rank of rear admiral and take charge of the Coast Guard headquarters in Washington.

Born in Eastport, Me., August 27, 1874, Capt. Hamlet entered the coastal service in 1894. His period of cadet training was aboard the practice ship Chase and he was transferred to the historic cutter Bear upon being appointed an ensign in 1898.

Capt. Hamlet is at present superintendent of the Coast Guard Academy at New London, Conn. He was appointed to that position in 1928.

During the World War Capt. Hamlet was assigned to the Third Naval District and took an active part in organizing personnel training. He later joined the United States naval forces at Brest, France, and was

Youth Missing Since Crash Killed Mother Found Here

Hyattsville Boy, 18, Disappeared After Fatal Accident May 6; Welcomed Back by Family After Being Discovered in Auto on Downtown Street.

An 18-year-old youth—who ran dazed and frightened from the scene of an automobile accident in which his mother was killed and his father seriously injured—last night was back in the family circle that he feared had cast him out.

The youth is Allan Gruver and the Gruver family lives on Queens Chapel road near Hyattsville. On May 6 Mr. and Mrs. Ira K. Gruver, a girl friend of Allan, his sister and the youth himself were bound in the family car for the Winchester apple blossom festival.

Three miles west of Fairfax Courthouse, Va., the car, driven by the youth, swerved in front of a bus, became uncontrollable and leaped an embankment turning over three times. Mrs. Gruver was instantly killed.

The boy was slightly cut and was given treatment at a nearby house. Then he slipped away into the woods. He was seen again about an hour later but disappeared anew. Since then until late yesterday afternoon the boy has been missing.

Yesterday afternoon, Private Bruce Black, Ninth Precinct station clerk, off duty, was informed by a bystander that Allan was sitting in a car parked near Strayer's Business College on Thirteenth street northwest. Black informed police headquarters and Detective Sergt. Gene Davis came and took the boy to headquarters and members of the family were notified. They quickly came to town and took the boy back into their midst and home.

Allan said that during his absence he had made his way to Jacksonville, Fla., hitch-hiking and doing odd jobs to earn money for food. Finally after a week he decided to come back to Washington. He has been here several days, he said.

Friday night, Allan said, he made his way to his home and went to sleep in the barn there. There he slept since his return. But he carefully kept his father and seven

$2,300,000,000 AID IS SPEEDED BY DEMOCRATS

Reaches Floor in Senate, Despite Hoover's Dislike for Bond Issue.

HOUSE GETS GARNER RELIEF PLAN TODAY

Republicans Determined on Compromise Acceptable to President.

(Associated Press.)

Senate Democrats pushed their $2,300,000,000 unemployment relief bill forward yesterday despite President Hoover's emphatic opposition to its provision for a $500,000,000 public works bond issue.

The bill was formally introduced after receiving the unanimous approval of the combined Democratic steering and policy committees. It was referred to the banking committee.

Chairman Norbeck announced that committee would begin consideration of the bill next Wednesday and probably would hold brief hearings, at which administration officials and proponents of the measure would be called.

Garner's Program Ready.

At the same time Speaker Garner said his $2,100,000,000 program had been drafted into a bill and would be introduced today.

Republicans on both sides of the Capitol waited for the Democratic bills, determined if possible to reach a compromise acceptable to the President.

The Democratic bill, which was presented to the Senate by Chairman Wagner of the subcommittee which drafted it, provides, in addition to the bond issue, an increased capitalization of $1,500,000,000 for the Reconstruction Corporation for loans on self-liquidating projects and $300,000,000 for direct relief of loans to States.

Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, who helped to frame the bill, said he would not agree to a recess for the convention in June unless the bill was acted upon.

Wagner in presenting the bill denied President Hoover's contention that a bond issue for public works would result in the building of unnecessary and wasteful projects.

He said the Government is spending annually $4,495,740 for postoffices on which the leases will expire before July 1, 1934. The average rental for each building, he added, was more than $6,000 a year.

Hits President's Criticism.

"By every proper test," he said, "there is ample justification for a program of construction which would

U. S. Airmen Kill 17 in Nicaragua

Guard Patrol Also Clashes With Sandinistas in Land Combat.

Managua, Nicaragua, May 25 (A.P.).—National Guard headquarters reported today that United States Marine airmen serving with the guard killed seventeen Sandinistas with bombs in an action Monday near the Neptune mine in the department of Prinzapolka.

While the airmen were operating, the headquarters communique said, a guard patrol, commanded by Lieut. Gray, attacked the insurgents on the ground. The guard suffered no casualties. Earlier in the day there was a half-hour engagement between Lieut. Gray's detachment and rebel troops, commanded by Pedro Altamirano, one of the lieutenants of Gen. Augusto Sandino.

(Associated Press.)

Secretary Stimson said yesterday that if any Marine reinforcements are sent to Nicaragua, they will go as election clerks and not as combat troops. The Secretary said he could not make any announcement of plans for supervision of the November elections until he has completed conferences with Admiral Clark Howell Woodward, who will direct the supervision.

HOOVER CITES RECOVERY NEED TO PUBLISHERS

Means of Aiding Trade Situation in Nation Are Discussed.

LEGISLATIVE JAM'S BREAKINNG WANTED

President Plans Rallying of Public Opinion to Back Program.

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover, turning to the press of the Nation, last night discussed means of aiding the Nation's economic situation and rallying public opinion in local communities behind a breaking of the legislative jam in Congress.

Various opinions upon the course and effect of the conference came from the 39 leading publishers or their representatives as they emerged after midnight from a three-hour meeting in the President's study.

Publishers' Views.

From one of those at the conference came a definite statement that the sales tax was presented as the one best means of breaking the legislative jam in which Cingress now finds itself, and that President Hoover himself held this view. Others, however, disputed this, and maintained that although the sales tax was mentioned among other topics, there was no agreement upon it, and that the Chief Executive did not commit himself to its revival in the pending revenue bill.

Although the administration never has sponsored it directly, the President received reports from all sections of the country—following the overthrow of the proposal in the House—that many favored such a levy rather than those imposed by the House.

The Chief Executive felt, it was known, that if there was sufficient time and the pressure became strong enough there was a chance that the sales tax might be revived.

The President was quoted as saying last night that he believed strongly that if the sales tax ever came to a vote again in the House there would be a far larger number voting for it than at the time of its overthrow.

Conference With Crisp.

President Hoover was quoted as saying, further, that Acting Chairman Crisp, of the House ways and means committee, would confer with him at the White House today. It was asserted that Crisp had been assured

Bandits Kidnap 4 In Bank Robbery

Cashier and Family Freed 150 Miles From Home; $9,769 Stolen.

Portland, Ark., May 25 (A.P.).—After a harrowing 150-mile automobile ride with two bandits who had robbed the Bank of Portland early today, R. P. Harvey, cashier of the bank, his wife, 18-year-old son, and a woman guest in their home were released late today near Vicksburg, Miss. They returned here in Mr. Harvey's automobile. The robbers obtained $9,769 from the bank.

Mr. Harvey and his wife were forced to ride in Harvey's car on the long trip, while the son, R. P. Harvey, jr., and Mrs. Ellen Vann rode with the other bandit in an automobile reported to have been stolen recently from North Little Rock.

After releasing their prisoners unharmed a few miles from Vicksburg, the robbers continued their flight in the stolen car.

$4,000 Gems Lost By Woman Golfer

Wife of House Member From Colorado Left Jewelry in Auto.

The loss of jewelry valued at $4,000 was reported to police yesterday by Mrs. Roberta E. Timberlake, wife of Representative Charles B. Timberlake, of Colorado.

Mrs. Timberlake said she missed the jewelry when she returend to her home, 1801 Sixteenth street northwest, after playing golf with a group of friends at the East Potomac golf course.

The jewelry, two diamond rings, valued at more than $1,800 each, and a wedding ring, valued at $250, was left in Mrs. Timberlake's automobile while she and her companions played golf. Their disappearance was not noticed until they had left the course. Mrs. Timberlake said the windows of the machine were all locked and her jewelry was wrapped in a handkerchief.

MAYOR WALKER BARES $246,692 STOCK PROFIT WITH NO INVESTMENT

Mayor James J. Walker of New York City photographed on the stand at the county courthouse in New York City yesterday as he was questioned by Samuel Seabury, chief counsel for the Hofstadter legislative committee investigating New York City. Mayor Walker, quick thinking, and Seabury, slow and cautious in the questioning, were the central figures in the courtroom.

Executive Denies Use of Improper Influence in Bus Case.

TILTS WITH SEABURY TO CHEERS OF CROWD

Signs Waiver of Immunity as He Takes Stand to Defend His Acts.

New York, May 25 (A.P.).—Mayor James J. Walker, in a fiery, spectacular appearance as a witness today before Samuel Seabury, acknowledged realizing $246,692.76 without investment from a brokerage account with Paul Block, the publisher, and denied he influenced improperly the granting of a bus franchise.

The tracing of the brokerage transactions came as the mayor completed a full day on the stand of the Hofstadter legislative committee, which has been engaged in a sweeping fourteen-month investigation of the municipal government, with Seabury as counsel.

The entire morning session was devoted to questioning Walker about events leading up to the granting by the city board of estimate of a franchise to the Equitable Bus Co. to operate in three of New York City's five boroughs.

$10,000 Letter of Credit.

Previous witnesses had told how J. Allan Smith, promoter for the bus company, had purchased, a day before the franchise was granted in 1927, a $10,000 letter of credit made out to Walker, which the mayor used on a European trip.

The committee also had been told Smith had made good a $3,000 overdraft Walker had incurred on the trip.

The mayor denied he knew the backers of the bus company. He said he had not campaigned among board of estimate members for the support of the franchise. Then he gave his own explanation of the $10,000 letter of credit.

The usual "Jimmy Walker smile" wreathed the face of the world's best-known mayor as he stepped from his automobile at the entrance to the somber Court Building. He wore a tightly-fitting blue suit, a blue tie and a blue shirt.

Through a solid black mass of his friends and supporters, a squad of police forced a way for him.

Impressive Hearing Scene.

Inside the courtroom the scene had been set for his appearance. On a raised dais sat the committee.

Senator Samuel H. Hofstadter, chairman, had been rapping with his gavel for nearly ten minutes in an attempt to obtain quiet.

Before him, with a sheaf of papers in his hand, stood Seabury, the bespectacled counsel who has questioned hundreds of witnesses since the inquiry began.

At a long table were the dozen young lawyers who make up his staff.

Nearly 100 reporters, many of them representing foreign newspapers, sat at tables and in a jury box which had been converted into a press stand.

Below the witness stand sat the court stenographers, who have taken down enough words of testimony to fill a library full of volumes.

As the mayor, followed by a group of friends, lawyers and associates, came in a rear door, the spectators ignored the warnings of court attendants and burst into prolonged cheers.

After the mayor had mounted the witness stand and smiled down at the crowd, he was asked to sign a waiver of immunity. He pulled a pen from his pocket and put his name to the paper without hesitation.

For the mayor the opportunity had

HAND-TO-HAND FIGHT MARKS DIET SESSION

Nazis Attack Communists as Prussian Body Meets; At Least Six Hurt.

Berlin, May 25 (A.P.).—Smoldering political passions in the new Prussian Diet broke out in hand-to-hand fighting between National Socialists and Communists today with a violence unprecedented in the parliamentary history of Germany.

The legislative hall was wrecked and at least half a dozen members, including neutrals, were injured. Deputy Juergensen, a leader of the Social Democrats, who took no part in the fray, was carried unconscious to a hospital, one side of his face ripped open.

With fists, inkwells, chair legs and water bottles, the legislators fought their battle to the bitter end without police interference, Gen. Karl Litzmann, senior member of Adolf Hitler's National Socialist party, having declined the services of the police several days ago.

The trouble started after Hans Kerri, a National Socialist, had been elected president of the Diet, and Ernst Wittmaack, a Social Democrat, had been elected first vice president. The session had been in an uproar since it opened for the second day of parliamentary business.

Wilhelm Pieck, a Communist deputy, rose to a point of order and at the top of his voice shouted that there were murderers on the Nazi benches. The Nazis jumped up and

DRYS MEET TUESDAY TO MAP 1932 BATTLE

Hoover Reported to Believe More Liberal Plank of Party Is Necessary.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

With both the Republican and Democratic parties threatening to take a liberal stand on prohibition, the country's dry leaders will gather here next week to plan for a last ditch fight.

These leaders are members of the National Prohibition Board of Strategy, a sort of war council representing the Antisaloon League and 38 other dry organizations. They will meet Tuesday in the National Press Building.

For the dry organizations the crisis is at hand. Each day sees the wet wave mounting higher.

President Hoover, so it is reported at the Capitol, now is convinced that the Republican party must take a more liberal stand than in 1928.

That the Democratic party will pledge itself to a more liberal stand is a foregone conclusion.

In Texas, the home of Senator Morris Sheppard, father of the eighteenth amendment, and of Speaker John N. Garner, who won the California presidential primary as a dry, the Democratic State convention on Tuesday urged a referendum on prohibition.

In the House on Monday Representative Paul Kvale (Farmer-Labor), of Minnesota, voted for beer. He represents the district once represented by

Glassford Moves to Limit Veterans' Stay to 48 Hours

Police Head Believes That Washington Should Not Be Called Upon to Provide for Jobless Other Than Her Own.

Decision to care for the veteran cavalcades, heading here to make personal soldiers' bonus plea, for only 48 hours was made yesterday by Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, superintendent of police, after a long conference with other officials and representatives of social welfare agencies.

The police head believes that the constant drain upon relief funds here and the continual calling upon other Washington agencies to care for large groups coming here fundless to present legislative views is unwarranted. He indicated yesterday that while he maintained no opinions pro or con as to the justness of causes of groups, he did think it unfair that the citizenry of Washington should indirectly be called upon to care for them in addition to their own needy.

The police chief said virtually all publications devoted to veterans' interests have been against the journey here. Nothing can be gained by it, they have claimed. Newspapers and other agencies along the route of the veterans are being telegraphed requests to point out the futility of the trip.

The police chief does not look for any organized unlawful demonstration by the veterans.

Included in the conference yesterday, besides Brig. Gen. Glassford, was Commissioner Herbert B. Crosby, several police inspectors and heads of social welfare organizations. Plans were discussed for housing and feeding the veterans.

Washington, Ind., May 25 (A.P.).—The "bonus brigade" has thumbed another ride.

Gov. Harry G. Leslie today acted to provide Indiana National Guard motor trucks for the 300-odd World War veterans en route to the National Capital to ask cash payment of their adjusted service certificates.

Twenty-six trucks were brought here tonight and are expected to move out tomorrow for the Ohio State line with the "brigade" aboard.

VOTE ON FILIPINOS' FREEDOM FORECAST

Bingham Makes Prediction After Borah Demands It as Aid to Farmer.

(Associated Press.)

A Senate vote on Philippine independence this session was predicted yesterday by Chairman Bingham of the Territories committee, following a demand by Senator Borah (Republican), Idaho, for such action as an aid to the American farmer.

Bingham was joined by Senator Hawes (Democrat), Missouri, who said he had been unable to find a single senator who opposed freeing the islands and expressed the view that a bill will be passed "in the next two or three weeks."

"I can not believe it is possible the Republican Senate would adjourn without passing upon the Philippine question," he said, pointing out that the Democratic House has approved an independence measure by an overwhelming vote.

"Only Fair," Bingham Says.

Bingham said he would "gladly join" Hawes "in any effort to bring the bill before the Senate and get it passed."

"It seems to me only fair to the Philippine Islands that this question be settled, and not left up in the air," he added.

Bingham expressed the view that it might be taken up in night sessions immediately after the tax and economy legislation is enacted.

Democratic Leader Robinson, of Arkansas, joined those urging a vote on Philippine independence before the session ends.

If a vote is taken, he said, independence would be granted "by an overwhelming majority," and expressed the view there is "practically no opposition" to the pending proposal to free the islands.

Senator McNary, of Oregon, assistant Republican leader, said he would do everything he could to bring about early consideration of the independence bill.

"I will give it my loyal support," he said.

Broussard's Amendment.

Senator Broussard (Democrat), Louisiana, introduced as an amendment to the Hawes-Cutting Philippine independence bill a proposal to apply tariff rates to sugar from the Philippines ov r a period of years.

An exemption of 00 long tons of refined sugar and 800,000 tons of unrefined would be allowed the first years after the acceptance of the act by the island government, with the exemption decreasing on a sliding scale until at the end of ten years the tariff would apply on the entire quantity imp rted.

Californian to Offer Hoover Nomination

Party Leaders Announce They Have Selected Joseph L. Scott.

San Francisco, May 25 (A.P.).—Appointment of Joseph L. Scott, Los Angeles attorney, to place President Hoover i nomination at the Republican national convention was announced by party leaders here today. Word came from the White House that the President desired to be nominated by a member of the California delegation.

Mark L. Req ia, Republican national committeeman for California and friend of the President; Marshal Hale, chairman of the Republican State central committee; Louis B. Mayer, vice chairman, and John L. McNab, San Francisco attorney, made the selection.

McNab, who presented Mr. Hoover's name to the Republican national convention of 1928, suggested Scott. It was the latter who seconded the nomination of Charles Curtis for Vice President four years ago. It was said President Hoover, if renominated, would return to his home in Palo Alto to receive the official notification and make his acceptance speech.

U. S. to Accept Passports Of Menocal, Sought in Cuba

Former Island President Given Papers and Asylum in Brazilian Legation at Havana; Accused of Revolt Plans Against Machado.

Havana, May 25 (A.P.).—The newspaper El Pais tonight said American authorities had agreed to accept Brazilian passports to embark former President Mario Menocal for the United States.

A few hours before the newspaper Informacion quoted Octavio Averhoff, the Cuban secretary of state, as saying the Cuban government did not intend to permit Gen. Menocal to leave Cuba.

The general is a fugitive, sought in connection with a movement labeled by the Cuban government as a campaign of terrorism intended to pave the way for a new revolution. Gen. Menocal sought and received asylum at the Brazilian legation when the government announced its intention to arrest him.

Secretary Averhoff told the Associated Press last night that the Brazilian minister was within his rights in sheltering Gen. Menocal as long as he wished to, under the "asylum treaty" agreed on at the sixth Pan-American conference in Havana in 1928 and ratified by Brazil and Cuba among other Latin-American nations.

But the government surrounded the block in which the legation is located with troops, and also guarded Gen. Menocal's home.

El Pais also said the government was preparing passports for Gen. Menocal and others, after asking American authorities if the documents would be acceptable. The reply, the paper said, was in the affirmative.

Meanwhile government officials were on guard against any revolutionary attempt against the regime of President Gerardo Machado in reprisal for the killing of four political prisoners by their military escort yesterday. The general said the prisoners were shot as they attempted to escape.

Some 250 oppositionalists were imprisoned on the Isle of Pines after the government discovered what it declared was a gigantic terrorist plot by revolutionaries. Among those in prison are three leaders of the abortive revolt last August. They are Lucilo de la Pena, Col. Carlos Mendieta and Col. Carlos Penate.

THOMAS AND POPE SWELL IDAHO LEADS

All but Fifth of Vote Cast in Primary Tabulated; Little Change Likely.

Boise, Idaho, May 25 (A.P.).—Both Republican and Democratic tickets were definitely shaped tonight on returns from all but one-fifth of the vote cast in the Idaho primary election.

Tabulators turned in 611 precincts of a total of 819 in the State. Those unreported were, in most instances, small precincts in outlying districts with few voters. Election clerks said their returns probably would not change the results.

The tickets stood:

For senator, John Thomas, Republican; James P. Pope, Democrat. For First District representative in Congress, Burton L. French, Republican; Compton I. White, Democrat.

For Second District representative, Addison T. Smith, Republican; T. C. Coffin, Democrat.

For governor, Byron Defenbach, Republican; C. Ben Ross, Democrat.

The gubernatorial candidates and Republican representatives in Congress who were candidates were unopposed.

The campaign was marked by some heated debate over prohibition, but the issue apparently had little effect on the voters.

The outstanding advocates of the opposing beliefs received the least votes in the Democratic senatorial race.

The vote: Pope, Mayor of Boise, 12,844; G. P. Mix, 6,853; Orr Chapman, 7,265; Harry S. Kessler (dry), 4,200; Owen T. Stratton (wet), 3,827.

Senator Thomas, seeking reelection, got 27,650 votes to 14,531 for his opponent for the Republican nomination, J. Wesley Holden, of Idaho Falls. Holden declared for a prohibition referendum. Senator Thomas is a dry.

SHOUSE SAYS RITCHIE COULD WIN IF NAMED

Congress Work Will Not Be Finished by Convention, He Tells Women.

Special to The Washington Post.

Frederick, Md., May 25.—Jouett Shouse, Washington, chairman of the executive committee of the Democratic national committee, expressed the belief here today that while the work of Congress will not be completed in time for the national convention in Chicago in June it will pass a revenue bill which will be fairly adequate and will result in practical economy. Mr. Shouse was the principal speaker at a luncheon and meeting of the United Democratic Women's Clubs of Maryland, attended by about 100 leading women Democrats of the State.

Mr. Shouse was introduced by Mrs. Charles Roach, Chevy Chase, president of the clubs. He said the nominee selected at the convention and the platform adopted will have the backing of a militant party array. He thinks the platform will be based on practical means of economy and that it will contain a plank calling for a referendum on prohibition.

"Congress isn't through yet, and I think it would be unfair to predict the ultimate outcome of its work," he said. "I am definitely opposed to the inclusion of tariff items in the revenue bill. They don't belong there."

He said there is no break between Speaker Garner and members of the party. He added if Gov. Ritchie of Maryland is nominated, he could easily become President. He declared that a platform would be worked out that will give the people a comprehensive program of relief.

PRESIDENT AND PUBLISHERS CONFER ON ECONOMIC POLICIES

by 42 Democrats who refused to support the sales tax that they are now prepared to accept it should the Senate place it in the revenue bill now being considered in that chamber.

A majority of the publishers, as they left the White House, declined to discuss the conference. Col. Frank Knox, publisher of the Chicago Daily News, one of the first to leave, said to newspapermen:

"Listen, boys; there isn't a thing I can say."

Others were equally close-mouthed as they scattered to their hotels, most of them walking, although the White House had provided a number of cars.

Walter Newton and Theodore Joslin, two of the President's secretaries, attended the session.

The newspapermen, most of them in dinner coats, went to the White House after being dinner guests of Col. Knox. A number of them made speeches at the Knox dinner, but Col. Knox declined to say what they were about.

Cooperation by Press.

It was learned, however, that an effort was initiated at this earlier meeting to rally support not only among the publishers present, but throughout the press of the Nation generally, for a concerted move to break the legislative jam on Capitol Hill.

Although no definite agreement was reached, there was definite support for an idea that not only the publishers present, but the press of the Nation generally should endeavor to rally public pressure behind an early passage of budget-balancing measures.

The publishers accepting the White House call came from various sections of the East and Midwest. So far as political beliefs were concerned, the makeup of the parley was strictly along nonpartisan lines.

Those who had accepted, in addition to Knox, are: Howard Davis, of the New York Herald-Tribune; Roy Howard, of the New York World-Telegram; R. R. McCormick, of the Chicago Tribune; E. Lansing Ray, of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat; E. D. Stair, of the Detroit Free Press; Elbert H. Baker, of the Cleveland Plain Dealer; Walter Harrison, of the Daily Oklahoman; George B. Longan, of the Kansas City Star; Gilbert N. Hitchcock, of the Omaha World-Herald; J. E. Ridder, of the Staats-Zeitung, New York City; Harry Grant, of the Milwaukee Journal; Harry P. Wolfe, of the Columbus (Ohio) Evening Dispatch; Henry T. Claus, of the Boston Transcript; Joseph Medill Patterson, of the New York Daily News; Carl Jones, of the Minneapolis Journal; F. E. Murphy, of the Minneapolis Tribune.

John Cowles, of the Des Moines Register and Tribune; Frank P. Glass, of the Montgomery (Ala.) Advertiser; R. W. Bingham, of the Louisville Courier-Journal; Clark Howell, of the Atlanta Constitution; R. B. Choate, of the Boston Herald; Warren C. Fairbanks, of the Indianapolis News; Maj. Robert McClean, of the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin; Paul Patterson, of the Baltimore Sun; John Day Jackson, of the New Haven Register; J. D. Barnum, of the Syracuse Post-Standard; E. H. Butler, of the Buffalo News; Fleming Newbold, of the Washington Evening Star; Ira E. Bennett, of the Washington Post; Hulbert Taft, of the Cincinnati Times-Star; Willis J. Abbot, of the Christian Science Monitor; Frank Gannett, of Rochester, publisher of the Gannett papers; L. K. Nicholson, of the New Orleans Times Picayune; Victor H. Hanson, of the Birmingham Age-Herald; Sevellon Brown, of the Providence Journal, and Charles A. Webb, of the Asheville, N. C., Citizen.

It was understood that Adoph Ochs, publisher of the New York Times, had been invited, but could not accept. Late in the day White House officials announced that the name of Ogden Reid, of the New York Herald Tribune had been added to the list. This brought the number of publishers to 38, two of them from the Herald Tribune.

RAINEY NEW TARGET FOR ATTACK BY LONG

Support Oil Tax or Lose 8 Louisiana Votes, He Tells House Leader.

(Associated Press.)

Huey Long yesterday extended his battle with congressional leaders of the Democratic party to Representative Rainey, of Illinois, majority leader of the House.

The Louisianian, who has fought the Senate leadership of Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, issued a formal statement saying he had threatened to turn Louisiana's House delegation against Rainey's control if the latter did not support the oil tax in the revenue bill.

"The statement credited to Mr. Rainey, of Illinois, does not state the facts," Senator Long said. "I never told him that if the Democrats of the House did not vote for high tariffs the Louisiana delegates would quit the party.

"What happened was that I asked the Democrat conferees to stand by the House Democratic provisions for 1 cent a gallon tax against slave oil imported by the trust.

"Brother Rainey took occasion to spread himself when I made the request on behalf of Louisiana school children, whereupon I told the brother we had eight votes in Congress that it took to keep him where he was, and a little sassy talk from him and those eight could take him out; and, further, that Louisiana's eight votes would stand for Louisiana, including moving his kind out if he tried to serve the oil trust any further.

"We are tired of Hoover and Standard Oil Democracy by the House leaders."

DRYS MEET TUESDAY TO MAP '32 BATTLE

Andrew J. Volstead, father of the national enforcement act.

The task of the National Prohibition Board of Strategy is to map plans for halting this wet wave in the Republican and Democratic national conventions, and, failing in that, to decide what is to be done in the ensuing presidential campaign.

Warning Is Expected.

At their meeting the dry strategists are expected to warn the two big parties that there must be "no backward step toward repeal or modification."

Dr. Edwin C. Dinwiddie, secretary of the board of strategy, said last night either of them would be "foolish" to make prohibition a party issue. What right, he asked, had the Republican party or the Democratic party to try and bind a senator or a representative hailing from a dry State or district.

"There will be trouble if they try it," Dr. Dinwiddie said.

The expectation had been that President Hoover would maintain a hands-off policy with respect to prohibition; that he would let the Republican national convention decide on what kind of a prohibition plank was to go into the platform.

Taking Part in Row.

Now it is revealed that the President is taking an active part in the prohibition controversy. He talked the matter over last week with Senator William E. Borah, Republican dry, of Idaho, and discussed it again Tuesday evening with three members of the Republican high command—Postmaster General Walter F. Brown, James Francis Burke, counsel of the Republican national committee, and Charles D. Hilles, Republican national committeeman from New York.

The President himself has made no important announcement on prohibition since he vetoed the Anderson liquor plan in the Wickersham report, but at the Capitol this is reported to be his position on the question now:

That the people ought to be given a chance to express their opinion on prohibition.

That whatever plan may be submitted to them should clearly bar the saloon.

That until the people decide on a change, there should be strict enforcement of the dry laws.

Naming of Chairman.

In addition to the thorny prohibition question, President Hoover is troubled by many problems dealing with the forthcoming campaign, foremost of which is the selection of a chairman for the Republican national committee.

It is understood that for the time being, the plan to draft Postmaster General Brown for the job has been abandoned. Brown doesn't want it. The Republican high command now is said to be seeking an influential business man for the post, one who will be in a position to coax money into a badly dented treasury.

If such a man can not be persuaded to take the job, it is possible that Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley may be asked to take it over. Hurley had a talk with President Hoover yesterday, but he denied later that this matter was discussed.

Many Conferences Due.

From now until the Republican national convention meets June 14, the President is expected to hold many conferences with Republican leaders.

The question of who is to place President Hoover in nomination at Chicago has been settled, Joseph L. Scott, a Los Angeles attorney, having been selected for the task. Vice President Curtis will be placed in nomination by a man with the same surname—Charles F. Scott, a former member of Congress from Kansas and publisher of the Iola (Kans.) Register.

The action of the Texas Democratic convention in urging a referendum caused great surprise here. In 1928 Texas bolted the Democratic party and voted for Hoover. At the time Texans said it was because of Alfred E. Smith's wet position. Now, however, they have abandoned this fiction, and say frankly that it was Smith's religion and that they are thoroughly ashamed of themselves.

Sheppard to Stay Firm.

Senator Sheppard said yesterday that, notwithstanding the action of the Texas convention, he would adhere to his position against submission of the eighteenth amendment for another vote.

"Prohibition," he said, "has not had a fair trial."

Speaker Garner, whose position on prohibition is a mystery, is expected to maintain his silence until Congress adjourns. So far he has never even admitted he is a candidate for President, consequently he sees no reason why he should make his views known.

AIR PARLEY OPENS AT LANGLEY FIELD

Many From Washington Are Present at Seventh Annual Conference.

Special to The Washington Post.

Langley Field, Va., May 25.—Three hundred leaders of the aviation industry gathered here today to attend the seventh annual aircraft engineering research conference and to view the year's progress of the national advisory committee for aeronautics, a Government foundation.

One hundred and fifty of the visitors arrived this morning by steamer from Washington while the remainder came chiefly by airplane from New York, Philadelphia and Washington. In the morning the visitors inspected the laboratories of the national advisory committee, where detailed analysis of the work done during the past year was presented. A special conference was held in the afternoon, at which time representatives of the industry presented outlines and suggestions of constructive work that might be done during the coming year.

Demonstrations of new flying equipment were made in the afternoon.

Among the delegation attending from Wasington were Clarence M Young, Assistant Secretary of Commerce for Aeronautics; Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, U. S. N., chief of the Bureau of Aeronautics of the Navy Department; Representative Royal C. Johnson, William P. MacCracken, former Assistant Secretary of Commerce for Aeronautics; Commander Norman B. Hall, in charge of Coast Guard aviation, and Maj. Gen. George O. Squire.

Others attending the conference included Orville Wright, Luther K. Bell, of New York, and Harold F. Pitcairn, of the Pitcairn Autogiro Co.

Langley Field, Va., May 25 (A.P.). Orville Wright, first man to fly in a powered heavier-than-air machine, today realized a year-old ambition when he took a ride down the seaplane testing channel here.

Nearly 200 delegates to the seventh annual Aircraft Engineering Research Conference of the national advisory committee for aeronautics looked on as the pioneer flier made the half-mile journey aboard a monster car which straddles the channel and attains a speed of nearly 60 miles an hour as it tows models under test.

With Mr. Wright on the ride was Dr. C. F. Marvin, chief of the Weather Bureau, and also a member of the committee.

Former Governor Heads Baylor.

Austin, Tex., May 25 (A.P.).—Pat M. Neff, former Governor of Texas, resigned today as a member of the State railroad commission to become president of Baylor University, at Waco. Ernest O. Thompson, of Amarillo succeeds Neff on the commission.

J. F. HOOD RETIRED BANKER, DEAD AT 81

Former Secretary and Director of American Security Had Notable Career.

James Franklin Hood, 81 years old, a leading banker of Washington for more than 40 years, died yesterday at his home in the Ontario Apartments.

Mr. Hood, who was secretary of the American Security & Trust Co. for 30 years, had been in failing health. Although retiring from his position in 1926, he was a member of the board of directors of the trust company until his death. Until a few months ago he attended board meetings.

He was born in Gratiot, Licking County, Ohio, August 2, 1851. He attended the public schools of Newark and Mount Vernon, Ohio, and was graduated from high school in 1869.

In 1870 he came to Washington. He was graduated from Columbian College Law School in 1876. While he attended law school, he was employed in the Department of Interior as a clerk.

Data concerning early Washington interested Mr. Hood. His collection of old prints, maps, directories and other information of the period of 1800-1840 was extensive and valuable.

Mr. Hood was the founder of the Columbia Historical Society. He was a member of the Ohio Society, the Military Order of the Loyal Legion, a charter member of the University Club, and a charter member of the Blue Ridge Rod and Gun Club.

For 9 years he was a trustee of the All Souls' Unitarian Church and for 3 years he was a trustee of the National Homeopathic Hospital.

SENATE CHIEFTAINS AGREE TO REWRITING OF EXCISE TAX

tee amendments, he said, in the hope that when the Senate saw what it had done in approving the excise taxes proposed by the committee it would turn to the general sales tax. It would be a wrong policy, he warned sales tax advocates, to attempt to slaughter the committee program in the hope that their proposition might be accepted in extremity.

"This is a sales tax bill we have before us now," he said. "It is a bill which could have been written better by 50 of the occupants of St. Elizabeths.

Warns of Gold Run.

"The eyes of the world are upon this Senate. What we do will determine the standing and the financial integrity of the currency and the credit of this Nation. America stands almost alone in adhering to a sound gold basis. Other nations have gone off the gold standard. France now is on the gold standard, but in effect France repudiated 80 per cent of her currency before she went on the gold standard for the remaining 20 per cent of her currency.

"The world is cynical of our ability to stay on the gold basis. Our foreign creditors are withdrawing gold. Last week $127,000,000 was taken out of this country. Our foreign creditors are like a frightened queue of bank depositors. They are making a run on our bank. We can stand the run a much longer time than our depositors think we can, but there is a limit. There is a limit to the ability of any bank to withstand a run. Not the greatest bank in the world could withstand the run if every one of its depositors appeared before its doors on a particular morning and demanded 100 per cent of their deposits.

"This process of withdrawal will stop the very instant the world knows we have the will and the ability to balance our budget on the gold basis. What we do in this room shall determine the outcome."

Calls for Showdown.

Senator Harrison challenged the advocates of the general sales tax to bring their proposition to an immediate vote.

"We can't write a tax bill here on the floor of the Senate," he said. "The way we're going we may have to raise $100,000,000 or $125,000,000 from other sources than recommended by the committee. Present your sales tax amendment now before we proceed further with consideration of the excise taxes so we can know where we stand. Let's get that tax behind us. Advocates of the sales tax and those senators who hope for higher income-tax rates are willing to see this bill riddled. Let us have a decision on this sales-tax proposition now."

Senator Robert M. La Follette (Republican), of Wisconsin, denied the bill as reported by the committee was a committee bill. The committee didn't spend any time considering the various items it now advocated, he said.

"The Secretary of the Treasury came up here with a typewritten slip of paper," Senator La Follette said. "We weren't permitted separate votes on the various items on that slip of paper, but had to vote on the program en bloc.

Immediate Vote Refused.

"The bill which had been worked out by the committee before the Secretary of the Treasury came before us with this program was more equitable than the measure which was approved after a few moments conference with the Secretary of the Treasury."

Senator George H. Moses (Republican), of New Hampshire, said he recognized the persuasiveness of the smiling senator from Mississippi, but he did not propose to accede to the demand for an immediate vote on the sales tax amendment. Senator Simeon Fess (Republican), of Ohio, said that he was voting for the committee excise taxes not because he approved of them especially, but under protest.

Senator Harry B. Hawes (Democrat), of Missouri, said that it was all right for the committee to make its decisions, but what individual senators did on the floor was another matter. He said he favored the general sales tax and predicted that if the Senate approved such a tax it would find there had been such a reversal of sentiment in the House it would be accepted.

"The sales tax can't possibly pass the House," Senator Harrison disagreed. "Let us have a vote on this sales tax now. Why spend the balance of the week on these excise taxes when the committee is repudiated each and every time?"

Resents Criticism.

Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg (Republican), of Michigan, who led the partiall successful assault on the automobile excise taxes recommended by the finance committee, apparently was stung by the criticism.

"I am willing to vote for taxes to balance the budget," he cried with feeling. "But I am not willing to vote for special and exorbitant taxes which will do great harm to the one key industry through which we may hope for a business resurgence. I know the automobile industry saved the country in one period of depression. There is no other industry which is so vitally important to so many collateral industries as the automobile industry.

"This industry is not asking for any special favors. It is asking only that it be left free to go ahead with its plan and if it is permitted to go ahead with its plans it will mean more to stimulate business and provide employment than any measure we can pass in this chamber."

Senator David I. Walsh (Democrat), of Massachusetts, who is fathering a general sales tax amendment of 1¼ per cent, with exemptions of moderate priced articles, said he resented the implication that only those senators who were willing to accept the Treasury Department program were patriotic.

He could not bring himself to vote for the unfair indefensible and unjust special sales taxes in the bill, he said, although he had begun consideration of the measure opposed to a general sales tax.

The day was begun with another beer battle, in the course of which Senator Hiram Bingham (Republican), of Connecticut, tall, gray-haired and quiet-voiced, had administered such a debating-licking to Senator William E. Borah (Republican), of Idaho, prize orator of the Senate, that the Senate laughed aloud and the galleries broke into such a spontaneous outbrust of laughter and applause that Vice President Curtis banged and banged with a loud-banging but futile gavel and warned that any further demonstrations would be followed by a clearing of the galleries.

Bingham Defends Plan.

Senator Borah, who is in the midst of trying to decide whether he shall repudiate the Republican President for whom he stumped in the last national campaign, attacked the proposal of Senator Bingham to put a tax of 24 cents a gallon on 2.75 per cent beer. Senator Bingham said his proposed tax would yield $375,000,000 in revenue and permit elimination of special taxes on radios, telephone and telegraph messages, furs, jewelry, candy, sporting goods, cameras, soft drinks, cosmetics and others.

Senator Borah scouted the idea of beer as likely to reduce consumption of hard liquor, reading a diatribe from England which likened beer consumers to maggots. Intoxication was steadily increasing in England, he said.

"How about the City of Washington?" queried Senator Bingham.

"They don't arrest persons for intoxication in Washington," Senator Borah opined.

"The senator says that," countered Senator Bingham, "yet police statistics show that there were only 50 arrests in Washington of persons between 18 and 21 years of age for intoxication the year before prohibition. Last year there were 600."

"I don't think they got drunk on beer," Senator Borah said.

"That is exactly the point I make," shot back Senator Bingham. "Persons don't get drunk on beer."

Plan Defeated, 55 to 26.

There was an outbreak, and Vice President Curtis jumped to his feet and banged and banged his gavel, and though Senator Borah said a few more words, the great Senate orator had been stopped cold, and he quit talking as soon as he gracefully could. It was his first indulgence in the beer fight and it marked the most severe defeat he has sustained in debate on the Senate floor.

Senator Bingham's amendment, of course, was beaten. The vote was 55 to 26. Last week the vote on the Tydings' beer amendment was 64 to 24. The vote on the Bingham beer proposal last week was 60 to 23.

The proposal of Senator Henrik Shipstead (Farmer-Labor) to put a tariff on vegetable and fish oils was beaten, 48 to 33. A proposal by Senator Cordell Hull (Democrat), of Tennessee, that the United States should not increase any of its tariff rates for a period of two years if other nations agree not to increase theirs, was beaten, 42 to 34.

The proposal of the finance committee to increase the tax on passenger automobiles from the 3 per cent in the House bill to 4 per cent was beaten, 42 to 29. Proposal of Senator Vandenberg to strike the tax out of the bill was beaten, 52 to 18.

The finance committee tax of 2 per cent on automobile accessories was approved by a vote of 38 to 34.

Levy on Boats.

Subsequently the Senate voted into the bill House tax of 10 per cent on boats and yachts and decided to reconsider several of the excise taxes which had been eliminated from the House bill, although approval was given to elimination of the taxes on matches and candy and voted a 2 instead of a 3 per cent tax on chewing gum.

A short time before recess was taken for the night agreement had been reached on a motion by Senator Tom Connally (Democrat), of Texas, to abandon night sessions and agree to meet from 10 o'clock in the morning until 7:30 at night.

There were open and sarcastic references to the night sessions as affording crowded galleries before which various oratorical "prima donnas," as Senator Robinson described them, had to talk at length.

WAR DEBT PROMISE BARED IN COMMONS

Foreign Secretary Says Ten Equal Annuities Will Be Paid U. S.

London, May 25 (A.P.).—Sir John Simon, foreign secretary, told the House of Commons today that a formal agreement to repay in ten equal annuities the British war debts of $160,000,000, which were suspended by the Hoover moratorium, would be signed soon at Washington.

He described it as a "purely formal step" to give legal effect to the moratorium, involving no decision on any question of principle. Thus the British recognition of America's contention that war debts and reparations are separate problems remained unaffected.

The foreign secretary said he did not expect the agreement to have any effect on the conference which will attempt to settle the reparation and war debts problems at Lausanne, Switzerland, next month.

Great Britain had arranged last summer to repay the suspended portion of the war debt in ten annual installments, Sir John explained. He revealed that the United States Government had requested the British government to sign a formal agreement regarding this portion of her obligations.

The portion of Britain's war debts to the United States to be repaid over the ten-year period are the payments that were due in the year covered by the Hoover moratorium, which expires at the end of next month.

The text of the agreement has been mailed to Sir Ronald Lindsay, British ambassador at Washington, and will be signed there when it arrives in a day or two. Officials said the terms of the agreement could not be made public until it was signed, but it was learned on good authority it would not make necessary supplemental provisions in the British budget to take care of the suspended payments.

Winston Churchill, former chancellor of the exchequer, asked Sir John whether carrying out the formality of signing the agreement might not prejudice the judgment of the Lausanne conference.

"No, I don't think so," the foreign secretary said.

It was understood that the beginning of the repayment of the unpaid annuity would be subsequent to a resumption of normal annuity payments.

When it was found that provision for the payment of war debts, including the annuities, was omitted from the budget presented to the House of Commons in April, Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer, explained that the future status of the debts was too uncertain to include allotments for them.

When the marshals gained entrance to Dr. Purdy's apartment, he denied any knowledge of the affair, but told Marshal Clarkson that his wife, who was not there, might be able to shed some light on it.

Dr. Purdy is about 60 years old and is of aristocratic appearance. He was arraigned before United States Commissioner Needham C. Turnage immediately after his arrest and held under $5,000 bond. He arranged for bond through a professional bondsman.

U. S. PRESBYTERIANS TO CONVENE TODAY

Meeting to Open in Denver; Seven Are Candidates for Moderator.

Denver, May 25 (A.P.).—With seven candidates in the field for moderator, the highest office in the Presbyterian Church in the United States, a tangled political situation tonight confronted the general assembly of the church which convenes here tomorrow for its 144th annual meeting.

Dr. Charles W. Kerr, who has been pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Tulsa, Okla., for more than 33 years, was regarded as the leading candidate, but there was an undercurrent of opposition to him because of his position as a member of the general council of the church.

Some leaders among the commissioners viewed a movement of opposition to the general council as an element unfavorable to Kerr's candidacy. Overtures are on file, for action at the general assembly, for abolition of the general council, or for change in its organization.

Sponsors of these overtures were said to be opposed to methods of the general council as contrary to the democratic spirit of the Presbyterian Church in the United States.

Other candidates for moderator are Dr. David de Forest Herrell, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Williamsport, Pa., since 1923; Dr. Dirk Lay, of Sacaton, Ariz., who has been a missionary pastor to the Pima Indians; Dr. Leon Decatur Young, pastor of the Abbey Presbyterian Church of Dallas, Tex.; Dr. William Hallock Johnson, of Lincoln University, Pa.; W. Alexander Alison, jr., who has been pastor of he First Presbyterian Church of Bridgeport, Conn., for fifteen years, and Dr. Joseph A. Vance, of Detroit, president of the board of national missions.

More than 700 of the 930 commissioners to the assembly had enrolled this afternoon and the remainder were expected on night trains.

The general council, with Dr. Lewis Seymour Mudge, of Philadelphia, moderator, presiding, was in session today, rounding out its report. Dr. Mudge will open the general assembly tomorrow morning with his sermon. Choosing of his successor will be the principal business of the afternoon meeting.

Methodists Vote Budget Of $375,000 for Year

Columbus, Ohio, May 25 (A.P.).—Authorization of a $375,000 annual budget and creation of two new organizations prolonged the closing session of the General Conference of the Methodist Protestant Church, scheduled to end at noon today. Tonight delegates still were engaged in working out financial and disciplinary problems, with prospects that the conference would not be adjourned until tomorrow.

The greatest part of the budget will be spent in promoting the work of the boards of missions and education, delegates said.

BUDGET CUT SLATED BY PRESBYTERIANS

Church Session Opens Today in Carolina; Reentering Council Studied.

Montreat, N. C., May 25 (A.P.).—How to meet a $615,000 deficit, whom to elect to succeed Dr. R. A. Dunn, of Charlotte, as moderator, and what action should be taken toward a proposal to reenter the Federal Council of Churches are among the problems facing the seventy-second general assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States when it convenes here tomorrow.

The deficit, to which every agency of the church except one has contributed, has prompted the committee on stewardship and finance to propose a budget of $2,400,000 for next year, a reduction of 20 per cent compared to the last budget.

Dr. Dunn, one of the few laymen ever elected moderator of the Southern branch of the Presbyterian Church, has served one year. His successor will be chosen tomorrow afternoon. Candidates for the office are forbidden by church custom to campaign for election.

Among the nominees for the office last year besides Dr. Dunn were the Rev. William Crowe of St. Louis, Mo., who will deliver the assembly's opening sermon tomorrow; the Rev. J. L. Mauze, Kansas City; the Rev. D. W. Richardson, Richmond, Va.; the Rev. B. F. Wilson, Harrisonburg, Va., and the Rev. John Shaw Forster, Winston Salem. The Rev. Ernest Thompson, Charleston, W. Va., is expected to be nominated tomorrow in addition to some of the 1931 nominees.

The general assembly voted last year to withdraw from the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America after a number of presbyteries had vigorously protested the council's pronouncement favoring birth control. Since that time, several presbyteries have overturned the assembly in affirmative and negative papers regarding its withdrawal.

A special committee headed by Dr. Dunn today completed a report upon a proposal for organic union of Presbyterian and Reformed Churches, and will make it public tomorrow.

BLACKMER'S ARREST UNAFFECTED BY FINE

were part of the proceeds of an oil deal in which Blackmer, Sinclair and other oil men participated in the purchase and resale of oil.

The oil men formed the Continental Trading Co. for handling their transactions. The Secret Service traced some of the bonds from the company to Sinclair and Fall. Blackmer, summoned as a Government witness in the Fall-Sinclair trial in 1927, failed to appear. Contempt proceedings and seizure of the $100,000 in Liberty bonds followed.

He was found guilty of contempt of court a second time when he refused to appear at the trial of Sinclair in 1928.

Later the court imposed a fine of $30,000 on each of two charges under a newly enacted law giving the courts authority to seize up to $100,000 of the property of any person who refused to return from abroad and testify in a criminal trial.

Other oil men involved in the Continental Trading Co. deal paid to the Treasury the tax and penalties assessed against them on their unreported profits. Blackmer was assessed a total of $8,498,985 by the Internal Revenue Bureau for back taxes, penalties and interest. A short time later he was indicted in Denver and the Government placed liens on all of his property it could locate, but could find only $1,589,398 worth.

Blackmer appealed to the Board of Tax Appeals for a redetermination of the amounts and the Government compromised assessments for 1916, 1917 and 1919, which amounted to $2,626,354 for $1,500,000 and collected the tax, penalties and interest for 1920, 1921, 1922 and 1923. The tax amounted to $1,049,254, while the penalties and interest amounted to $1,121,530.

METHODISTS URGE U.S. HELP FOR IDLE

Stock Exchange and Present Industrial Order Flayed as Session Closes.

Atlantic City, N. J., May 25 (A.P.).—Sweeping reorganization of the present economic system, immediate Federal aid for the unemployed and enforcement of antigambling laws "from dice games to the stock exchange," were demanded today by the Methodist General Conference in its final session.

The demands, made in a series of official pronouncements on economic, social and industrial problems, were prefaced by a vigorous denunciation of modern business. They were adopted shortly before the conference adjourned its 25-day session.

"The present industrial order is unchristian, unethical and antisocial because it is largely based on the profit motive which is a direct appeal to selfishness," the conference stated.

"It is now clear that this moral defect produces functional incapacity by throwing the forces of consumption and production out of balance. A satisfactory organism can not grow out of an unsocial seed."

Immediate Survey Urged.

The creation of a commission by congressional authority to start an immediate study of present conditions and their causes, and to find their remedies and embody them in legislation was recommended.

The immediate need, however, a statement declared, "is for Federal unemployment relief." The conference directed Bishops W. F. McDowell, E. H. Hughes and F. J. McConnell, as a committee, to urged upon President Hoover and the Congress the "imperative necessity for action, now that private charity and State relief funds are reduced almost to starvation level."

The commission to study economic reorganization, the conference recommended, should be composed of Government officials; labor, industrial and agricultural leaders and economic and social experts.

Other Recommendations.

Other points included: Shorter working hours; unemployment insurance and old-age pensions; complete abolition of child labor; a turning of public income from "economic waste" of armaments; a planned program of State and Federal works for periods of slack employment and business instability.

In its pronouncement against gambling, the conference condemned all stock speculation, short selling and pool manipulation and appealed for State and Federal statutes to prevent these practices by restricting the use of credit to "legitimate business."

The statement on social problems, which was approached, appealed for the "end of race discrimination," stamping out of lynch law and the elimination of slums. It also declared for the repression of radio broadcasting of "a degrading nature."

reduce this type of expenditure for the Federal Government."

Wagner told the Senate "there is no merit in the President's criticism that public works provide but transitory employment."

"Surely," he said, "transitory employment is better than none. Furthermore, Federal public works do not differ in that respect from local toll bridges and tunnels which are agreed to by the President."

Wagner said the bill he was offering for the Democrats "is as conservative a program of legislation as the severity of the present emergency will permit."

He pointed out that Labor Department figures show 700,000 families are living on charity in 123 cities. He predicted the bill would "quiet apprehension of actual distress during the coming seasons."

"As the Federal and local construction programs get under way," he added, "they will release a stream of orders for merchandise and commodities which can confidently be expected to bring into activity the recuperative energies resident within industry itself."

CURTIS' INDICTMENT IS CONCEDED NEAR

Hopewell, N. J., May 25 (A.P.).—Speedy grand jury action in the "enormous deception" perpetrated by John Hughes Curtis, hoax negotiator, was near tonight as negative developments impeded the progress of the main hunt for the kidnapers and killers of the Lindbergh baby.

Prosecutor Anthony M. Hauck was ready to lay the Curtis case before the Hunterdon County grand jury tomorrow morning and W. C. Pender, attorney for Curtis, conceded in Norfolk, Va., there was little doubt his client would be indicted. Any indictment, however, would not be reported formally until Saturday.

On the time of a trial of the charges of obstructing justice and furnishing false information the prosecution and Pender were in disagreement. Hauck said he hoped to conclude the case before the end of June, but Pender asserted preparation of the defense, including probably a legal attack on the old statute involved, would require more time than that.

Meantime, Dr. John F. Condon, the ransom payer, remained in New England while one of the clews he supplied police collapsed. "Jafsie" had picked out a picture as the likeness of "John" to whom he paid $50,000 April 2. Investigation of the subject disclosed, authorities related, "no possible connection with this case." The exact source of the picture was not divulged.

Dr. Condon will continue his inspection of rogues gallery photographs later and will visit the State Bureau of Identification at Trenton, N. J.

Police bulletins also told of the temporary detention of a man subsequently turned over to Federal authorities on a narcotics charge.

Mrs. Lindbergh remained in seclusion at home after making a brief visit yesterday to her mother's Englewood, N. J., residence.

Becket, Mass., May 25 (A.P.).—A telegram from an undisclosed source reached Dr. John F. Condon here late this afternoon, and the elderly New York educator said he considered its contents "of importance" in his quest for the return of the $50,000 ransom money, given him by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and paid to the kidnaper murderers of the famous flier's infant son.

Dr. Condon said the information was supplied by a former pupil as a result of an appeal broadcast from Becket this week that former students under him in public schools in the Bronx in New York City join in the search and send any developments to him at his retreat here.

The educator said the details in the message checked with information received earlier in the case, but credited with little value at that time. He added that it placed further developments in an "easterly" direction.

Hearst's Son Is Sued For Divorce at Reno

Reno, Nev., May 25 (A.P.).—William Randolph Hearst, jr., was sued for divorce here today by Alma Walker Hearst, whom he married in Piedmont, Calif., March 24, 1928.

The complaint charged cruelty and said a property settlement had been arranged. Mrs. Hearst is the former Alma Walker, member of the wealthy Minnesota timber family, which also owns the Red River Lumber Co. in California.

FRED J. RICE AGAIN K. C. DISTRICT HEAD

State Convention Reelects Other Officers to Plan Golden Anniversary.

Fred J. Rice, State deputy and supreme knight of the District of Columbia, was reelected to that office at the State convention held last night at the Knights of Columbus Hall, 920 Tenth street northwest. Other officers reelected were Edward L. Tucker, State secretary; Manning J. Wilcoxen, State treasurer; Charles Dean, State advocate; William Mulligan, State warden, and the Rev. Francis X. Cavanaugh, State chaplain.

All elections were unanimous because the present roster of officers has already started plans for the golden anniversary national convention of the order in Washington next August.

Resolutions on Departed.

Resolutions were adopted in memory of the late Charles W. Darr, past State deputy and supreme knight of the District of Columbia; Albert McCarthy, past State deputy and supreme knight of the District of Columbia; and Maj. C. Eugene Edwards, past grand knight, all of whom have died during the last year. Special tributes were paid to each.

Plans for the coming national convention were discussed. The local arrangements will be entirely in the hands of the District of Columbia Knights of Columbus, and in view of the fact that this is the first national convention of the order to be held in Washington, the local knights are planning to make the program eventful.

One of the main features of the convention will be the unveiling of the memorial to the late James Cardinal Gibbons, which will be erected in front of the Shrine of the Sacred Heart at Sixteenth street and Park road northwest. This unveiling will take place on Sunday, August 14, and is expected to attract 100,000 or more visitors to Washington, including those who attend the convention.

Bicentennial Field Mass.

Plans for the participation of the local councils in the Bicentennial field mass to be celebrated at Catholic University next Monday were also discussed. The councils will meet at North Capitol street and Michigan avenue, from which point, headed by the George Washington University Band, they will march to Catholic University, joining in the regular procession there. Mr. Rice stated that he had invited councils from Maryland and Virginia to join with the District of Columbia knights in this procession, and that a number of acceptances had been received. The fourth degree of the District organization will act as guard of honor at the ceremonies.

Mr. Rice is a former assistant District attorney and has taken an active part in various civic activities. He is a past president of the Cosmopolitan Club, past governor of the Capital District, Federation of Cosmopolitan Clubs, and was three times president of the Columbia Heights Citizens Association.

Flying Field Here Is Offered to U. S.

Owner Would Lease Double Tract for $25,000 Rental Annually.

The National Aviation Corporation, owner of the Washington Airport property, announced yesterday through its representative here, S. J. Solomon, that proposals have been made to lease the combined Washington-Hoover Airport areas to the Federal Government for operation as a model municipal airport under the jurisdiction of the Department of Commerce.

According to Solomon, the corporation is offering to lease the two tracts to the Government for $25,000 a year, with the option of purchase at any time. This would require the closing of Military road, but a new road could be built around the combined fields on ground the Washington Airport will offer to the Government.

The creation of the model airport is not a new idea, as Senator Hiram Bingham has pending in Congress now a bill to acquire this land. According to the National Aviation Corporation, the operation of the field would not cost the Government a penny. Revenue from air transport operations, hangar rentals and service charges to visiting planes would probably be more than $25,000 annually.

Honolulu Retrial Is Delayed Again

Kelley Not Ready to Ask for Definite Date in Massie Case.

Honolulu, May 25 (A.P.).—On motion of Prosecutor John C. Kelley, the notorious Ala Moana assault case involving Mrs. Thalia Fortescue Massie as complaining witness was removed today from the trial calendar for setting at some future date. The second trial of the four youths of mixed races was to have started today. The jury disagreed in their first trial.

Although subpenaed to appear in Territorial Circuit Court today to testify against the four, Mrs. Massie sailed a fortnight ago for the mainland and is in Kentucky, the home State of her husband, a Navy lieutenant.

Mr. Kelley informed Judge Albert M. Cristy he was not ready at this time to ask for a definite date for the retrial. William H. Heen and William B. Pittman, defense attorneys, announced their withdrawal from the case, saying they had not been assured of their compensation. Both said they would reenter the defense if their fees were assured.

Kiwanis Addressed By Lieut. Massie

Tells Winchester Friends Kentuckians Are Best People in World.

Winchester, Ky., May 25 (A.P.).—All reference to the recent Honolulu "honor slaying" was omitted when Lieut. Thomas Massie, one of the principal figures of the Hawaiian affair, addressed the Kiwanis Club of his home town here today.

The naval officer confined his five-minute talk to remarks on his pleasure at once more being in his native city, and expressions of gratitude for kindness shown him and his wife by Kentuckians.

"Kentucky is the finest place in the world," he told his fellow townsmen. "If you want to find better people than Kentuckians, you can travel all your life, but when you reach the end of the trail be prepared for disappointment."

Meanwhile, at another luncheon here, a private social affair, Mrs. Thalia Massie was guest of honor.

NEW TOKYO CABINET FORMED BY MAKOTO

Policies of Former Group Are Expected to Remain; Installation Today.

Tokyo (Thursday), May 26 (A.P.).—The combination cabinet, lined up by Admiral Makoto Saito for presentation to the emperor today, underwent an eleventh-hour shake-up to include the strong Nationalist leader, Gen. Sadao Araki.

Gen. Araki was minister of war and dominant figure in the cabinet which was overthrown by the assassination of Premier Suyoshi Inukai.

The imperial war council took Gen. Araki out of the cabinet picture soon after the Inukai assassination, and it was said this stroke was a severe blow to what is loosely known as Fascism in Japan.

Gen. Araki accepted reappointment as minister of war, and therefore the army's representative, in the National Coalition government of Admiral Saito. Gen. Senjuro Hayashi yesterday was announced for the war portfolio. (There was no explanation of his sudden withdrawal.)

Installation Arranged.

Admiral Saito today announced to the emperor the completion of a government, and installation was scheduled at the imperial palace late this afternoon.

Thus the admiral succeeded in forming a "crisis" cabinet to succeed that of the late Premier Inukai, who was slain ten days ago in an outbreak of terrorism.

Both major political parties were given p'aces in the new cabinet, in which the majority, including the premier, are nonpartisan.

Premier Saito will hold the portfolio of foreign affairs for the time being, with no change in the foreign or military policies of the last six months in prospect.

The financial policies of the last cabinet likewise are expected to remain in force as a result of Finance Minister Korekiyo Takahashi having been retained in the new cabinet. Among these policies are tariffs, increased control over foreign exchange and higher limits for the Bank of Japan's note issue.

List of Cabinet.

The full cabinet, which will be inducted into office at a ceremony tomorrow, is:

Premier and foreign minister—Admiral Saito.
War—Gen. Sadao Araki.
Navy—Admiral Keisuke Okada.
Home affairs—Baron Yamamoto.
Overseas (colonial) affairs—Ryutaro Nagai.
Commerce and industry—Baron Kumachi Nakajima.
Railways—Chuzo Mitsuchi.
Justice—Matsukichi Koyama.
Education—Ichiro Hatoyama.
Agriculture and forestry—Funio Goto.

made a mass attack on the Communist members, whom they outnumbered 162 to 57, meanwhile singing their battle song, in which their sympathizers in the gallery joined.

Tops were broken off desks, drawers were pulled out and upholstering was ripped. Piles of books, card indexes and fragments of furniture blocked the entrances from the lobbies after the air cleared over the Communist sector, where most of the damage was done.

Forced From Hall.

The Communists were forced out of the hall during the battle, at the conclusion of which numerous deputies on each side were lying on the floor, bleeding profusely. Dr. Wester, Catholic Centrist deputy from Cologne, who is a surgeon, bandaged the injured.

Three Communist deputies, Kraemer, Kuntz and Gohlke, were seriously hurt. Some time after the fight was over Herr Kraemer returned with bloody bandages about his head. Turning toward the Nazi members grouped at one side of the hall, he shouted: "Twenty to one! You'll pay for this!"

A renewal of the fight was threatened when partisan spirit flared up in the public gallery. Spectators rushed down to the main floor, but were ejected by officials.

During the tumult Herr Kerrl, the Legislature's new president, left the hall, automatically closing the session. Members of the various parties gathered in their conference room to discuss the happenings.

In the council of elders after the affray both the Nazis and Communists declared their respective parties were disinterested in fixing the blame and neither wished to drag the police into the affair. The Social Democrats, since one of their members—Herr Juergensen—was injured, objected to that attitude as did the Centrists, but the council took no further action.

Before the fight started the Diet had voted to adjourn until June 1, pending negotiations over the ticklish problem of electing a new state premier to succeed Otto Braun, who resigned with his cabinet after the recent election of the new Diet.

brothers and sisters unaware of his presence. Several times he slipped into the house, he said, and obtained food and fresh clothing.

The youth was loath to discuss the accident and its tragic consequences and he was not pressed on this score. He still appeared somewhat dazed by the tragic event.

During the absence of the boy, volunteer firemen, police and citizens have searched repeatedly near the accident scene for some trace of the boy. Posters have been broadcast informing him that his family holds no ill will toward him and beseeching him to come home.

Last night members of the family told a Post reporter on the telephone that Allan appeared to be happy to be home again and that the family was greatly relieved to have him back. Mr. Gruver is still confined to his bed as the result of the accident.

Sentence of Lima Assassin Commuted.

Lima, Peru, May 25 (A.P.).—President Luis M. Sanchez Cerro today commuted the death sentence of Jose Melgar, who attempted to assassinate him March 6 to 25 years in the penitentiary. Juan Seone, an alleged associate, drew the same commutation.

WALKER BARES STOCK PROFIT WITHOUT CASH INVESTMENT

arrived to answer charges which may be made the basis of demands for his removal.

For Seabury it was the climax of an investigation of alleged graft, political corruption and maladministration to which he has devoted all his energies for more than a year.

As soon as Walker had signed the immunity waiver the committee counsel began a series of complex and detailed questions about events leading up to the granting of the Equitable franchise.

Walker, in 1927, had moved in a board of estimate meeting, that the franchise be granted.

After the franchise had been issued, permission to operate the buses was denied by the State transit commission. The franchise, therefore, has never been used.

Calls Fund "Pin Money."

"Keep in mind that it takes twelve votes to vote a franchise," Walker said.

"And was it not because the mayor had only three votes that he urged other members of the board to agree with him in his view?" Seabury asked.

"No, it is not true that the mayor urged his colleagues to vote with him," Walker replied. "The mayor never has in six years asked a member of the board to vote for or against anything."

He denied he knew Smith at all. Later he said that although he had never seen Smith, he had heard of him vaguely. He added he did not know Smith was connected with the bus firm.

His own explanation of the $10,000 letter of credit was that he had been told it was bought for him by members of the Democratic party to be used "as pin money on a trip to Europe." He contributed $3,000 to the fund himself, he said, and gave most of the money to his wife.

"Aided Smith's Prestige."

Senator John A. Hastings, he said, had told him he let a friend (presumably Smith) buy the letter of credit because of the prestige it would give this friend at the bank where he purchased it.

"Did you know J. Allan Smith had paid for that letter of credit?" Walker was asked.

"I didn't know it at the time. Since then I read it in the papers."

Walker added he had contributed his share and left the whole matter to Senator Bernard Downing.

"Did you get a receipt for it from Senator Downing?"

"I wouldn't have asked for it. We weren't that kind of friends."

He said he left the $3,000 for Downing in bills in an unsealed envelope with his secretary.

"Although Downing is dead," he added, "there are plenty who know about that letter of credit. Mr. Stanton is not dead. Mrs. Walker is not dead. Miss Wagner (his secretary, who went on the trip) is not dead."

Denies Paying Overdraft.

Testifying about the $3,000 overdraft, the mayor said the matter never was brought to his attention and he knew nothing about it "until I heard somebody testified about it here." He said he had paid nothing on the overdraft and did not know whether Smith made it good.

In discussing the merits of the Equitable bid for a franchise as compared with other offers to run buses in New York, the mayor said:

"Why, the best offer * * * the city ever had for bus operation came from a company located in Long Island and upon investigation it turned out they were in the hay and feed business, and yet in their communication they made the most attractive offer."

The spectators burst into a prolonged laugh. At times like this a smile played on the mayor's face as he leaned back and watched the chairman attempt to restore order.

But throughout most of his hours on the stand his face wore a serious, determined mien. Frequently he grew angry and, leaning forward, waved a finger in Seabury's face.

Score Seabury's Questions.

At other times he toyed with a pair of horn-rimmed glasses he held in his hands, or mopped his brow with a deep blue handkerchief.

When it was pointed out one of the other companies seeking a franchise had posted a certified check for $100,000, the mayor smiled and said:

"Well, a $100,000 check from one man to fulfill a $20,000,000 contract mightn't be as good as J. Pierpont Morgan's mere promise to fulfill."

"But the Equitable didn't have J. P. Morgan's promise, did it?" Seabury shot back.

"We know that," the mayor said angrily.

"Why did you as mayor urge the passage of the franchise?" Walker was asked.

The mayor wheeled away from Seabury and addressed Senator Hofstadter.

"Mr. Chairman, I don't believe that your counsel or you have any legal right to inquire into the operations of an executive's mind or to cross-examine him about why he reaches his conclusions, his official conclusions, any more than I have a right to examine the governor as to why he makes an appointment, or why the President vetoes a bill."

Wrangling Delays Hearing.

As applause swept the courtroom, Seabury smiled and told Walker he had "an appreciative audience."

Senator McNaboe, Democrat, pointed at the committee counsel and said:

"You have had your appreciative audiences for six months. You have had Communists and reds in here."

"I don't have to come here for an appreciative audience," Walker interjected.

Wrangling between Seabury, the chairman, and Democratic members of the committee interrupted the hearing every few minutes. Senator Hofstadter had his gavel in operation most of the time, either seeking to stop the demonstrations of the spectators, or trying to silence the Democratic committee members.

While Seabury and Assemblyman Irwin Steingut were arguing over the details of recent testimony before the committee, Walker leaned forward and said:

"You ask me to remember details of a report six years old (on the bus situation) and you can't agree about what happened here last week, can you?"

"Remember, I'm Still Mayor!"

At another point several of the minority committee members were besieging Seabury with objections.

"I am perfectly willing to meet one of you at a time," the counsel said.

"Give me the preference, will you?" Walker said, as the crowd roared its amusement.

When Assemblyman Steingut objected that every question he asked was termed an "interruption," Hofstadter explained, amid laughter, that "interruption means an interpolation in the interrogation."

Frequently the mayor criticized Seabury for "trying to testify for me," and the Democratic members accused the counsel of "leading with witness" and "trying to put answers in his mouth."

On one occasion the mayor half rose from his chair during a fiery exchange and shouted at Seabury:

"Remember, I'm still Mayor of the City of Nek York."

At another point he said:

"You don't need to worry about whether I am going to answer questions. I am not going to meet them in your distorted way."

Accuses Seabury of Fear.

When Seabury cut short one of the mayor's replies, Walker shouted:

"Don't you dismiss it in that way. All you're interested in is one thing. I am interested in the people of the city."

"Oh, I know how philanthropic you are," Seabury replied.

"You bet you know, and you have evidence of that," Walker retorted.

A few minutes later Walker protested:

"I refuse to answer a question that amounts to a speech."

Confusion broke out a few minutes later when Walker asked Seabury:

"Are you afraid of my answers?"

"Not at all," the counsel replied, "but are you afraid to answer?"

"I guess you're sorry you called him," some Democratic member shouted.

Others of the minority members took up the cry and soon there was a chorus from one end of the dais of such remarks as:

"You've got him here now, but you don't know what to do with him."

"You're sorry now."

Exchange of Amenities.

In the midst of this confusion, Seabury said:

"Mr. Mayor, notwithstanding these statements, I am very pleased to see you here."

"Judge," replied Walker, "I am pleased to see you. It is a deferred pleasure for fourteen months."

In less than two minutes, however, Walker was protesting:

"I didn't expect much courtesy here, but——"

He was cut short by Seabury.

Walker started to tell of a "campaign of propaganda" started by opponents of the Equitable, notably "certain traction interests."

"Never mind the propagandists," Seabury counseled.

"I will mind," Walker shot back. "This is only an annex to it, in my opinion. At that very time you were appearing for the traction interests."

"No, that is false," said Seabury, "and you know it. You can not draw a red herring like that over it."

Lawsuit Threat Uttered.

"And you have not heard the last of it," Walker continued. "There are a couple of lawsuits that will familiarize you with it, and your participation."

(What lawsuits Walker referred to was not made clear.)

"We'll come to attacks on me later," Seabury said in ending the exchange.

In protesting he could not remember the details he was asked about, Walker told Seabury:

"You had fourteen months and $750,000 to run into each one of these details, while I had no opportunity to do it, with a thousand other things every day."

"Do you think you're answering questions now?" Seabury asked.

"We want to hear the mayor," went up a chorus of voices from the Democratic members.

A few minutes later one of them angrily jumped up and said:

"Don't forget, Judge Seabury, you're just an employe of ours."

Walker still was on the stand when the hearing recessed until tomorrow.

'Cyclone' Davis Granted Legal Right to Nickname

Greenville, Tex., May 25 (A.P.).—"Cyclone" legally became a part today of the name of J. H. Davis, of Sulphur Springs, candidate for the Democratic nomination for representative at large, place No. 1.

Davis, a former United States representative, known widely as "Cyclone Davis," took court action to have the name made legal in order to get in on the ballot. He was nicknamed "Cyclone" years ago. After a debate with a Kentucky politician, newspapers referred to him as having "wiped up his opponent like a Texas cyclone."

STEP TAKEN TO CUT VETERANS' SOJOURN

Ohio authorities have indicated that they will provide transportation across that State.

Gov. Leslie at Indianapolis made it plain that it was a "one-way trip" insofar as Indiana authorities are concerned.

The governor indicated he was anxious to avoid any disorder such as occurred at Caseyville, Ill., where the bonus expedition recently captured a Baltimore & Ohio freight train and held it until local officials arranged for the motor trucks that brought the veterans to Indiana. They reached here early today after a tiresome trip across Illinois.

The men made camp in a grassy plot along the Baltimore & Ohio tracks, rolled up in their blankets and slept late. Shortly before 9 o'clock their commander, W. W. Waters, of Portland, Oreg, gave the order to "fall in."

The campaigners for the cash bonus shuffled into line and Waters issued the orders of the day.

"We don't want any cussing of the railroads," said Waters. "We don't want any disorder. Arrangements have been made for transportation across Indiana. Don't give up the idea of going to Washington and demanding the bonus. This fight has just begun."

The brigade was dismissed until 1 p. m., when it was assembled again for a parade through the main streets of the city. Several veterans with tin cups solicited contributions from the crowd along the line of march.

The money was turned over to J. B. Hosey, as there was no necessity of expending any of the $32.10 collected here, since the city provided the veterans with all their meals. Hosey said the mess fund now contains about $90.

SOCIALISTS HOLD UP WET PLANK DECISION

Dry Leader Says Majority Favors Vote on Action, Despite 3 Ballots.

Milwaukee, Wis., May 25 (A.P.).—Efforts to insert a wet plank in the Socialist party's national platform today were blocked for the time being by a last minute maneuver of dry adherents to refer the question to a vote of party members.

The convention, which adjourned last night, yesterday voted three times to enter the presidential campaign with a wet plank calling for Government ownership of breweries and distilleries and for State option on prohibition.

But George Goebel, of Newark, N. J., a dry leader, announced today he had signatures of 48 per cent of the convention's delegates asking for a referendum on the wet plank. Only 25 per cent of the delegates need sign to make such a referendum mandatory, so it was presumed the national executive committee would order the vote.

Committeemen said ballots could be mailed to members within ten days and must be returned by August 15.

LET'S BE SANE ABOUT THE ONCOMING HEAT-WAVES

This is going to be a hot summer. All the weather forecasters say so—but as if that weren't enough, there's going to be a terrible heat-wave of politics all summer long

It's going to be a time to try men's sanity. It's going to demand cool heads in comfortable bodies

Every year, we all say: "By gosh, I'm never going through another hot summer dressed in spring-weight clothes. I'm going to get into one of those wool substitutes. I know they look like the dickens, but I'd rather be ridiculous than suffer again." So we flirt with the idea of ice-cream suits—in spite of the looks of the things—and seersuckers, and goat's hair (mohair)

And then shortly most of us lose our nerve. We'd rather swelter than be conspicuous. So we broil through, in a cloud of steam from our own steam-plant, in a suit too heavy, or too slow to evaporate body-heat to the outer air

Well—good-bye to all that

We needn't swelter any more

And we can look as trim as we do on a bright May morning, whether the mercury reads 75 or 90. Yes—90! And in pure wool, too—the one known fabric that every tailor agrees drapes, wears and looks best on man

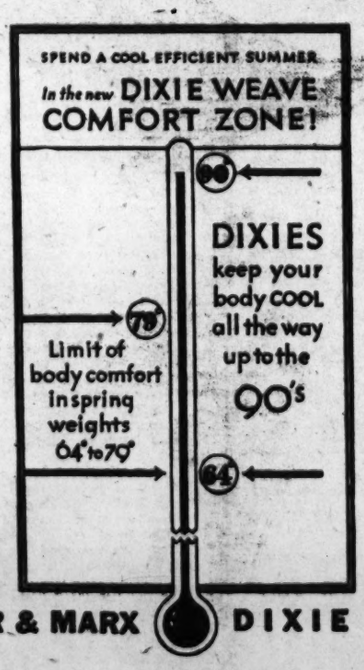
There's a new type of mid-summer fabric created by Hart Schaffner & Marx, scientifically made to keep men comfortable in extreme heat above 79, where the comfort of spring-weights stop

They are called Dixie Weaves. They're all-wool, but twice as light as spring-weight, lighter even than linen. They take away 150% to 300% as much hot body-moisture as substitutes; they evaporate it to the air 155% as fast as spring-weights. Facts, tests—no guesswork

What do these figures mean? Just this:

The summer-comfort zone, from 64 to 79 degrees in spring-weight or wool substitutes, is now broadened for all of us from 64 to 90

And Dixies look as smart as the handsomest spring-weight you ever have tried on. They drape well. They tailor well. They keep their shape beautifully. They never have to be washed. They're priced at the levels of 1916



SPEND A COOL EFFICIENT SUMMER
In the new DIXIE WEAVE COMFORT ZONE!
DIXIES keep your body COOL all the way up to the 90's

MOTION OVERRULED AT COBLENTZ TRIAL

Cumberland Judges Refuse to Strike Out Testimony of Depositor.

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., May 26.—A full bench of the Fourth Judicial Circuit of Maryland, sitting as a jury in the case of State Senator Emory L. Coblentz, of Frederick, president of the Central Trust Co., Frederick, charged with accepting a deposit in the Washington Trust Co. of Ellicott City, a branch of the Central Trust Co., knowing the institution to be insolvent, late this afternoon overruled a motion to strike out testimony of the first two witnesses and the trial proceeded.

The judges deliberated nearly four hours and Judge Sloan, in giving the decision on which the case would either fall or proceed, said they had made an exhaustive review of the authorities in this country and without statement of reasons, regarded unnecessary and inadvisable, the motion was overruled.

The motion had been based on the testimony of Isaac H. Taylor, president of a corporation by that name in Ellicott City, who sent a deposit of $316.50 to the bank by his bookkeeper, Miss Hilda Shipley, on September 2, 1931, the day before the trust company was closed. Miss Shipley, who followed him, testified she made the deposit. The defense raised the question as to whether she knew Coblentz or had seen him at the bank. State's Attorney James Clark, of Howard County, who is leading the prosecution, said the State admitted Coblentz was not in Howard County at the time, and that Coblentz had no personal knowledge of acceptance of the deposit.

Chief Judge D. Lindley Sloan said the court would at once look into the question "whether the acceptance as charged against the defendant must be personal" and called for all the authorities possible in the matter. When the court announced it had overruled the motion to strike out, the defense reserved an exception.

William Milne, employed as clerk and paying teller in the Ellicott City branch, testified as to having received instructions at the Central Bank in Frederick on the morning of September 3 from Thomas Summers, an official, who, with three other officers, has been indicted with Coblentz in another case, to mail letters given him by Summers, addressed to each and every depositor.

In each envelope was a circular letter dated September 3, signed by Coblentz, in which he stated after announcing that the affairs of the bank had been placed in the hands of the bank commissioner and that the "bank finds itself with too large a proportion of its assets in a 'frozen' condition. This is particularly true with reference to the loans of several borrowing companies which have large holding in Washington real estate, where values have been abnormally depressed. Another contributing factor has been the miserable publicity to which I have been personally subjected in connection with the investigation of the affairs of a Washington real estate firm, while the bank in itself was in no wise connected with the matter. The attendant and unfair publicity affecting me as president very naturally disturbed public confidence and caused a slow but steady seepage of deposits. In my judgment the assets of the bank are sufficient, if liquidated in normal times and in an orderly manner, to pay all depositors in full and leave a substantial sum for the stockholders."

The circular was admitted as evidence, but the defense filed an exception.

John D. Hospelhorn, deputy bank commissioner, who took charge of the affairs of the closed bank, read a detailed statement showing assets at the time of closing of $21,676,910.77.

There are nearly 50 witnesses and the case promises to be long drawn out. State's Attorney Clark made the opening statement for the prosecution. He told of rapid increase of capital stock, which was syndicated, sale being made to a Baltimore banking house and then resold to the Blue Ridge Securities Co., one of two subsidiaries of the Central Trust Co. that had shortly before been formed at a profit of $60,000. The bills payable of the company gradually increased, while Baltimore banking groups refused loans, Clark declared. The company had a hard time to meet its obligations. It sold mortgages and was continually liquidating its assets, Clark said he would show by testimony.

George M. Brady, of Baltimore, for the defense, declared the indictment in no way disclosed personal corruption or gain on the part of Coblentz. He said the main factor of the indictment was insolvency and the question of insolvency, based upon assets and liabilities was widespread, but Coblentz was prepared to meet it in his behalf.

POLICEMAN ROWS WITH PROSECUTOR

Prince Georges Officer Gets Rest of Day to "Cool Off" After Clash.

Ralph Brown, Prince Georges County policeman, was sent home "to cool off" by Sergt. H. G. Machen yesterday after a controversy between the policeman and State's Attorney Alan Bowie in the hall of the County Building at Hyattsville.

Sergt. Machen said that Policeman Brown would be back on duty today. The difficulty between the two men arose during the trial in police court of Charles Burke, proprietor of the Chillum Manor Club, when Bowie told Brown to be "careful about the dates on the warrant." Brown is reported to have grown angry and requested Bowie to come outside. Bowie continued with the trial of the case and Brown left the courtroom.

The policeman then went to police headquarters in the same building and left his gun, cap and badge. It was reported. Bowie came out of the courtroom about this time to apologize to Brown, but the policeman brushed him aside and went into the courtroom.

Decision on the charges against Burke, who is accused of violation of the roadhouse law and the law against Sunday dancing, was deferred until next week, due to the large number of cases which were tried yesterday. More than 100 cases were heard, and the court sessions did not end until 8:30 last night, setting a new record for long sittings of this court.

Piano Tuners Sound Note Of Cheer Amid Discord

By JOHN J. DALY

YEARS ago, in every town and hamlet, in every American city, the piano tuner went the even tenor of his way, putting in place the refractory members of the pianoforte, keeping the keyboard in harmony.

With his little black bag, carrying his precious tools, the piano tuner was a familiar sight on the streets. He hurried hither and yon, answering the frantic calls of fond parents who wanted pianos tuned so that the little Maries and Willies of the land might pound out solos and duets "Hearts and Flowers" and excerpts from "William Tell"—when company called.

Sometimes it happened that this serious-minded little man, the piano tuner, was mistaken for the family physician. Neighbors rushed out to greet him in an emergency, so intent was he on his mission, so professional-like in his appearance. Like the good old gentleman, the family physician, also gone the way of the world, the piano tuner brought surcease from sorrow to many homes, mending as he did the metallic ills of the old parlor grand.

* * * *

ALAS, the piano business being what it is, and where it is, in the doldrums, the piano tuner has almost faded from the national picture. Only a few of the species remain.

Just the other day, for instance, the National Association of Piano Tuners held their annual convention in Washington, and scarcely a soul knew they were in town, what with all the noise on Capitoline Hill, the ballyhoo about balancing the budget, and the laughter of the lobbyists, swarming over the Capitol grounds like grasshoppers on the Nebraska plains. There are lobbyists for everybody but the poor old piano tuners.

The National Association of Piano Tuners even held a banquet, as most national associations do, in annual convention. Instead of having the popular jazz band, the piano tuners brought along their own pianos. There was a double purpose in this.

* * * *

BACK home, each piano tuner keeps in condition by tuning his own piano. It becomes monotonous, of course, as most any work does that entails going over the same old ground, constantly, like a slave on a treadmill.

The annual convention of piano tuners, however, offers an outlet for all this pent-up energy. On these occasions the national association members bring along their own pianos, tune them for each other, and thus get variety in the work. Also, they are prepared, in case the piano business comes back.

"If children were taught to develop their music talent, crime would be lessened in this country, especially if pianos were in use, and in tune," the president of the National Association of Piano Manufacturers told the assembled hosts of the National Association of Piano Tuners. Then and there the piano tuners pledged they would stick together till the last piano tuner turned in his checks, keeping the last piano in tune—hoping somebody might be able to play it.

NO RELIEF IN DEBTS.

Democratic leaders of the Senate made a mistake by rushing forward with a relief bill which, though partisan in nature, does not represent the views of the entire Democratic party. It differs considerably from Speaker Garner's plan on which the House ways and means committee is working. Some provisions of the Wagner-Robinson measure are not acceptable to President Hoover and Senate Republicans. It is a pity that the leaders did not recognize the emergency character of this proposed legislation and iron out their differences before introducing the bill.

The plan of the Senate Democrats involves three distinct proposals. The first would make $300,000,000 available to the States as loans to provide relief to destitute families. The second would extend the authority of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to lend $1,500,000,000 to States, municipalities and public corporations for construction of revenue-producing projects. The third would set in motion a program of public works to be financed with a $500,000,000 bond issue.

No relation exists between these different proposals, except that they all contemplate relief to the unemployed. Consequently, the different measures should be separated, and each should be allowed to stand or fall upon its own merits. When a question so vital to the welfare of the country is being discussed, the real issue at stake ought not to be obscured by grouping unsound with sound methods of relief.

Controversy will center about the proposed $500,000,000 bond issue. It is strange to find a Senate committee recommending $16,000,000 for emergency construction of public roads, $30,000,000 for river and harbor projects, $15,500,000 for flood control works, and $100,000,000 for emergency construction of public building projects. Congressional committees have spent months eliminating similar items from the appropriation bills. Because of the limited revenue at hand Congress has been forced to postpone construction activities and to curtail governmental functions. Now it is proposed to carry out those very projects that the taxpayers can not afford, by the issuance of bonds that would eat up interest for 25 years.

By all means this provision should be eliminated from the relief bill. It is not compatible with the proposal to make credit available for self-liquidating projects. It would put on taxpayers a new handicap that is out of proportion to the relief which might be expected from it. The people can not squander themselves into prosperity; neither can the Government. A bond issue for unproductive works at this time would only add fuel to the fire of depression.

With some modifications to include industry within the benefits of the additional credit to be advanced through the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, the Democratic program is adequate without the proposed bond issue. Why do Senators Wagner and Robinson insist on this method, when the same results can be achieved more effectively without imposing a new debt on taxpayers? Before this matter comes actively before the Senate it should have more thoughtful consideration.

AMERICANS IN RUSSIA.

Many citizens of the United States are stranded in Soviet Russia. Most of them entered under the auspices of the Soviet tourist organization, with permission to remain one month. If, during that period, the bearer has been able to secure a job, the permission to stay is extended six months.

The great difficulty is that while Russia has a demand for skilled workmen, common laborers from abroad soon find it impossible to live on the wages they can secure. One of the chief difficulties is the great shortage in housing facilities. Even when workmen are willing to sleep on the floor of a crowded room, such space is not always available, and congested conditions are unbearable according to Anglo-Saxon standards.

Many Americans who have secured minor situations have found their existence so unsatisfactory that the Russians are not encouraging this class of immigration. Frequently the foreign worker, once engaged, is sent into the interior, where big construction work is in progress and he is compelled to live the same life as the Russian worker. The diet, consisting of black bread, soup, potatoes, and a small amount of meat and fish, satisfies Russians who have been raised on it, but Americans sicken on the fare.

Professional men who have gained positions in the cities have not always found their situation much better, particularly since the Soviet authorities have ceased paying salaries in foreign money. A young American architect who was provided with a hotel room and 300 rubles a month found it difficult to exist. When meals cost 5 rubles two such daily would take his whole salary. According to reports from actual experience, Americans so employed use all their earnings for the purchase of food. It is obvious that the Soviet is only interested in specialists who can train Russian workers. Unskilled laborers accustomed to American standards of living should understand that Russia offers them no satisfactory openings today.

THE TAX BILL BOGGED.

Continued disappointment follows the snail-like progress of the Senate with the tax bill. For a week the public has been waiting anxiously for the Senate to return to a consideration of the revenue producing sections. But the Senate has only prattled about beer, farm relief, the Norris export debenture nostrum, tariffs, inflation, remonetization of silver and a dozen other irrelevant subjects. The Senate is utterly oblivious to the impatient demands for action that are pouring into Washington from every State.

A few days ago the Senate refused by an overwhelming vote to legalize and tax 2.75 per cent beer. Yet Senator Bingham, who is a member of the finance committee and therefore shares the responsibility for getting the bill through the Senate, occupied a considerable part of the time yesterday on virtually the same proposition. His motion was likewise defeated by a vote of more than two to one after many precious hours of the Senate's time had been wasted.

Senator Walsh, of Massachusetts, also a member of the finance committee, is ready to revive the sales tax issue in spite of the fact that it was turned down by the House, and after the finance committee has spent several weeks framing its program on the assumption that the sales tax can not be enacted. Here is another source of delay.

The first definite break away from the finance committee's bill came on Tuesday, when the Senate reduced the proposed tax on trucks from 3 to 2 cents. Since that time the committee has voted to reduce the levy recommended for tires and to revive the cosmetics tax. In short, the compromise agreed to by both Democrats and Republicans in the committee and the Treasury Department has been broken, and there is grave danger of the tax fight descending into a free-for-all as it did in the House.

Every hour of delay adds to this menace. If the tax bill is to be completed by the Senate, rushed through conference and sent to the White House before the end of the fiscal year, there is no time for the Senate to indulge in a riot and rewrite the bill. Minor points can be settled without scuttling the committee's work. But if the excursions into debate on tariff items, beer and other issues are to continue, the chances of getting the bill through in substantially the form which the committee gave it will be very slight.

Senators who are indulging in petty squabbles should know that every day of inaction gives the country great uneasiness. Every fresh delay is a blow to national confidence.

THE GLASS INFLATION PLAN.

Senator Glass' proposed substitute for the Goldsborough price-fixing bill is not impressive. Indications are that the senator intends only to forestall action on the Goldsborough measure and does not contemplate the enactment of his substitute. If that is the purpose of his suggestion, it may be useful.

The plan of "diffused inflation" brought forward by the senator from Virginia is designed to extend the volume of currency in circulation by allowing national banks throughout the country to convert certain Government bonds into bank notes. Every national bank would thus be able to expand and contract its currency in accordance with local business demands. But that authority would be granted for a limited period only, as a means of raising prices and stimulating business activity.

It may be suggested by critics of this scheme that it would diffuse control of the inflationary movement among hundreds of banks. At present the Federal Reserve banks are purchasing Government bonds so as to increase the volume of credit available for business purposes. But these operations are under rigid control. If undue inflation should result therefrom, the open market committee of the Federal Reserve system could immediately reverse its tactics and thus prevent drastic fluctuations. Under the Glass plan there would be no central control over the inflationary movement. Each national bank would be a law unto itself.

Another criticism may be made as to the time limit that would be placed on the privilege of converting bonds to notes. No one can foretell how long emergency action of this kind will be necessary or advisable. If the time should be made short, nothing could be accomplished. If the time limit should be extended, there might be danger of unwarranted inflation.

It should be evident to Congress that any attempt at inflation by law is extremely dangerous. Credit expansion can be handled successfully only by a body of experts which is in a position to control the process at all stages. The Goldsborough bill would be a futile gesture toward a goal that may be impossible of attainment. The Glass substitute might bring about abrupt jumps from deflation to inflation and back again. Neither is acceptable in a country where the people are striving to get their feet on a solid foundation for the march back to normal conditions.

Senator Glass' proposition may be unnecessary, because Congress recently granted to banks the privilege of issuing notes with Government bonds as collateral in place of commercial paper. The banks began to use that privilege only a few weeks ago.

IN AUSTRIA AND HUNGARY.

Facing the probability that there will be no further loan forthcoming from the League of Nations, Austria is preparing to announce a moratorium covering even interest payments on foreign debts. This step is found necessary to protect the currency from the drain of transfers in foreign exchange. Provision will be made for deposit of interest due creditors in local currency in the national bank. These accounts can be utilized for the purchase of Austrian goods which will be of benefit to Austrian industry as well as allowing foreign holders indirect use of their funds.

The resolution of the league postponing action on further loans has made Hungary as well as Austria fall back upon her own resources and necessitates still further increase in the already heavy taxation rates. The blanket authority received by the Hungarian government from Parliament last year has already been exercised to raise the tax on corporations 25 per cent, and to continue for another year the increase of 100 per cent on incomes.

It has been found that the increase in postal, railroad and telegraph tariffs resulted in less rather than more revenue, while the tobacco monopoly, the State's surest source of income, showed poor returns after the increase in prices of tobacco products. With the aid of the other extraordinary measures, however, Finance Minister Koranyi announces that he will be able to balance Hungary's budget at $161,000,000.

The most encouraging feature of Hungary's financial future is seen in her recent treaty with France. In exchange for concessions on champagne, perfume and other goods, France has agreed to buy 10 per cent of Hungary's total wheat imports, and grants to Hungary a tariff rebate of 33 1-3 per cent. This provides a market for 88,000 tons of the 700,000 ton surplus. Hungary's efforts to make up the deficit within her own borders is causing no little hardship, particularly among the heavily taxed peasants, but it is generally felt that ultimately she will be compensated for having avoided further foreign indebtedness at this time.

Representative Fred Britten is absolutely certain that Hoover will run on a wet platform—taking Ruth McCormick as his model, perhaps.

Only fifteen more days, and some of the Democrats have not yet introduced their $2,000,000,000 bond bills.

That new planetoid need not try to float a loan in the United States.

CRISES AND TIMES

From the New York Times.

Today's economic crisis is "worse" than any that have preceded it because its savage blows have fallen upon a more sensitive social organism, upon a public opinion more susceptible to shock. A million unemployed today is worse than a million unemployed 40 years ago because our social conscience today is more awake to the reproach of willing workers who can find no work to do. We can no longer think with equanimity of a "labor reserve," to be mobilized when needed and turned out without provision when production slackens. Unemployment and public relief used to be accepted not so many years ago as essential in a social scheme with its "lower orders" seldom rising above the level of bare subsistence. The industrial nations of the West have built up in the last 50 years ideals of human worth, of social justice, of standards of living, of channels of opportunity which render us more keenly aware of failure in these respects than was the case less than a hundred years ago when Disraeli wrote of the England of "the two nations," the rich and the poor, living without human contact on the English soil. It is well enough to tease Mr. Hoover about his crusade to abolish poverty just before the bull market died, or to remind Mr. Ford of his board of experts to set up the $5 a day wage in Europe just as prosperity was about to explode in his face. The mere fact that the ideal should have been stated and the attempt made is enough to show how far we have moved from the "iron law of wages."

Because we aimed higher than ever before, today's hard times are worse than they were in days when men were not so tender-minded. But that is only to say that we perhaps feel the depression worse, not that we are really worse off than before. To say that our social organism today is more responsive to pain is not to say that it is an organism less capable of resistance to attack. Because we have cut down infant mortality, reduced the ravages of disease, sent the children of the plain people into school by the scores of millions, and into the high schools by the millions, and into the colleges by the hundreds of thousands, any check we encounter in these processes is felt more acutely now than when Thomas Gradgrind was defining the whole duty of social man. But because of these same things the social organism today is much more capable of bearing up under shock and strain. We may feel worse, but we are healthier.

Heidelberg discovers another planet. Germany, of all places, ought to realize there is enough trouble in this world without looking for new ones.

Senator Walsh's proposal for a sales tax of 1¾ per cent must be with the idea that the fraction will necessitate employment of more mathematicians and increased purchases of adding machines.

The Senate has arranged to have its day of frolic in the froth of distant beer.

Portugal supported the United States contention at Geneva that airplane carriers are not offensive weapons. France and England politely abstained from voting, so the friendly ballot was only 16 to 2.

If any Congressman has overlooked introducing his two-billion bond issue bill he is reminded that there are only 20 days before the conventions begin.

Speaker Garner's relief measures would empower the President to distribute nearly 5 per cent of the fund. Such confidence is touching.

The DO-X got back to Europe, completing its transatlantic round trip in a year and a half, almost matching Columbus' record.

Congress is getting a first-page advertising and editorial notice worth a million dollars a day. There has never been such unanimity in advice, and if Congress will but heed, it will be worth many millions a day to the country.

The attempts at government by parade, whether for bonus, beer or bond bunk, are getting very tiresome.

JUST FOLKS

BACK TO OLD DAYS.

They want to get married some day!
Ah, me.
And they've little to start with and times are slow!
But how like us they appear to be
In our courtship days of the long ago.

They are counting cost as we used to do,
The youngsters eager and strong and brave.
The harum-scarums we thought we knew
Are actually thinking of ways to save!

Now they must start in our humble way,
For the mad extravagant years have gone.
And the pleasures and cares of our yesterday
Are being lived over by Jane and John.

I hear them talking their little schemes.
Some day they'll get married and I am glad
They must work and plan for their little dreams,
For they'll know the joy which their parents had.

If You Cry Wolf Too Often, None Will Heed You When the Wolf Comes

By ROBERT QUILLEN

UNTRUTH serves its purpose only so long as it preserves the masquerade of truth. The moment a liar is known to be a liar, the thing he says is contradicted by what he is and truth itself is made suspicious by his defense of it.

These, you will say, are platitudes—undisputed facts that require no support of evidence or argument; but something has happened in America to make falsehood respectable, and men skilled in the art are practicing it with cynical frankness, apparently convinced that repetition of an obvious lie will give it the force of truth.

Incredible sums are spent each month to broadcast and solemnly repeat absurd falsehoods that are jeered at the world over.

The art of publicity has become the art of deceit.

What has happened to degrade us?

There was a time when "the lie" was a fighting word anywhere n America; now Big Business envies a competitor who thinks up a new one to multiply sales.

Untruth has become as American and as commonplace as ham and eggs.

Celebrities and "social leaders" testify to benefits they have received from products they never have used.

Magazine advertisers prostitute science to support absurd claims of merit.

Men trusted to provide news of the stock market accept bribes o exaggerate the worth of stocks.

Publicists admitted to the columns of many papers deliberately warp the truth and distort facts to support their prejudices.

Men in public office resort to falsehood, deliberate and unashamed, to win the favor of organized minorities.

Political parties avoid truth as a pestilence and rest their hopes on pious generalities so manifestly insincere that the world guffaws in derision.

Lying has become a racket.

Yet the very fact that it is tolerated affords proof of its failure. As laws that have outlived their usefulness are violated without offense by the best of citizens, so the practice of lying no longer disgraces the politician and the propagandist because nobody is deceived.

But the wages of sin will be paid, never fear. When people have learned to discount lies, they play safe by discounting truth as well. Being fooled too often, they doubt everything.

And then they run wild for want of a leader, for one who tells them the truth seems merely a new kind of liar.

Mr. Strawn Touches the Button.

Detroit News.

Silas H. Strawn, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, says the conduct of affairs of Government too frequently is left to those who have no qualifications for the job; to men who frequently have no education, who know nothing about Government finance, budgetary control, economics, sanitation, city planning or anything else that is vital to the governmental and financial soundness of a great city and the welfare of its citizens.

"How many mayors of our cities," he asks, "measure up to the task, and how many of them would business men select as the president of a private corporation?"

Mr. Strawn, out of the wealth of his experience, should explain that the method of selecting presidents for private corporations differs from that of choosing mayors. The head of a corporation is not chosen from a group of self-boosters who take a notion they would like the job and proceed to put themselves in by campaigning. He did suggest, however, in his recent speech before the annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce, that "the time has come when we must, if we are to save our property from confiscation, give more of that intelligence and industry which we have manifested in the development of our great business and commercial enterprises, to the administration of our governments."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Germany Prepared for New War, Brace on Guard; Let America Beware, Says Alden Ward.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The literature of a new world war appears to be accumulating. Books, pamphlets, and magazines and newspaper articles flow from apprehensive pens today just as they did in the decade before the catastrophe of 1914-18. The latest contribution is an article appearing in a French periodical and supposed to have been written by Gen. Weygand, chief of staff of the Army of the French Republic. It is a cry to arms, a summons to militant preparedness.

The direct charge is made that the military organization of Germany is not at all the purely defensive machine it has been supposed to be. It is alleged that it actually is designed as an attacking force and trained for rapid invasion of foreign territory.

Under the Versailles treaty the German army establishment was limited to 100,000 men, but the German general staff has interpreted this restriction to mean 100,000 new men every year since 1920, with the result that Germany now has an army of 1,200,000 men ready to be called to the colors at a moment's notice. In the general staff itself there are now four times as many technicians, strategists and chemists as was the case in 1914.

The anonymous French publicist says that the chief threat of this resurrected German war machine will be in its extreme mobility. It will move with far greater speed than any other army in history. Air transport will be largely used, and the attack upon France, if it ever is made, will come from within, rather than from without, the new circle of forts upon which France has been depending for security.

Critics of the article have said it is merely an alarmist attempt to stimulate French military spirit and antagonism to Germany. But it is not denied that something has been happening in preparation for a possible renewal of the ancient struggle between the two countries. The Versailles treaty settled nothing; both sides have been frank to admit the likelihood of another clash, and both sides, as now appears, have been getting ready.

The spectacle is not cheering. The two dominant peoples of the continent ought to be able to work together. Many of their differences are minor and could be eliminated. The major issues should be subject to compromise and adjustment in the spirit of "live and let live."

Meanwhile, it is not merely France and Germany that are threatened. It is the whole world. War, once loosed, sweeps wide. Now would be a good time for the United States to decide not to be involved in any further European conflict.

ALDEN WARD.

Congress Should Not Be Hurried, Says Counsel for Movie Exhibitors.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Might it not be well to leaven your criticisms of Congress for alleged delay in passing the revenue bill for a franker acknowledgment of the immensity of the problem involved?

As counsel for the independent motion picture theaters, I have endeavored to get before the proper committees information as to effect of the proposed admission tax on this class of theaters.

The theater owners know from the manner in which business has fallen off in the past few months that the proposed admission tax will not provide the estimated revenue, and will only have the effect of closing additional houses. This may be true of other items included in the bill. There is great danger, therefore, that in insisting on the immediate passage of the present bill you will defeat your declared purpose, namely, the balancing of the budget.

The mischief to be apprehended from a failure of the bill to provide needed revenue is greater than that which can result from taking time thoroughly to consider all items included therein. Congress, when it adjourns, will not reconvene until December, and then only for a short term, and it would be disastrous if Congress then had to set about balancing the budget all over again.

Congress, left to its own resources, frequently is trying, but always is patriotic, and generally does the sensible thing. After all it has had a more recent mandate from the people than any other branch of the Government. My hope is that it will take whatever time is necessary to enact a fair bill that will accomplish its purpose so that we will have the disturbing tax situation definitely and finally behind us.

ABRAM F. MYERS.

Observer Thinks Cost of Mr. Heflin's Speech Justified by Exposure of Machine Politics.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The expense of printing the speech of former Senator J. Thomas Heflin, made in his own behalf before the United States Senate recently and mentioned in the public prints, can not be called excessive in view of its exposure of methods employed by machine politicians in Alabama in the senatorial election in that State. When similar methods have been used in some Northern States the elections have usually been branded as illegal, if not fraudulent, and the claimant barred from the Senate. A large portion of the public is curious to know why the same rule was not applied in the Alabama case. At all events, the thanks of patriotic citizens throughout the country are due Mr. Heflin for his candid statements in the Alabama case.

OBSERVER.

U.S. AND PARIS NEAR SOLDIER CUT ACCORD

Progress Reported to Arms Parley President; Meeting Not to Adjourn Soon.

Geneva, May 25 (U.P.).—The American and French military staffs were reported tonight to have "practically reached an agreement" on a method for reducing military forces.

It was understood members of the United States delegation had informed Arthur Henderson, president of the disarmament conference, of this progress. At the same time the American and Japanese delegates obtained Henderson's promise that he would not adjourn the conference for the summer until July 15, if then.

The Franco-American agreement was said to be based on the American suggestion for a ratio between the forces needed to maintain order within national frontiers, as prescribed by the peace treaties for the defeated powers, and the number of soldiers needed for protection of frontiers and colonial possessions.

It was disclosed that a special committee on effectives had been created upon the suggestion of the United States. It is making marked progress at private meetings and promises soon to evolve a plan for definite action.

It was said on high authority that if the continental powers adopt the formula to be advanced and agree to reduction of effectives, the United States will be disposed to accept the plan for budgetary limitation of war material expenditures.

Germany supported Japan and the United States in their campaign to prolong the conference sessions. Almost all other delegations favored a comparatively early adjournment for the summer.

The chief pressure for immediate adjournment came from French sources, due to the French and European political situation and the failure of the technical commissions of the conference to make much progress.

The United States delegates feared, however, that they would not be able to return to Geneva if the conference is adjourned and they go home.

Gilbert to Marry Movie Newcomer

Will Wed Virginia Bruce After Final Divorce From Ina Claire.

Los Angeles, May 25 (A.P.).—A slip of a blonde girl may become the fourth wife of John Gilbert, screen lover, when his divorce from Ina Claire, film and stage beauty, is made final next August 15.

The engagement of the veteran actor and Virginia Bruce, his leading lady, was learned in the film colony today. The couple tentatively set the wedding date for immediately after the recording of the Gilbert-Claire divorce.

Miss Bruce, a newcomer to films, and Gilbert fell in love while working on a recent picture. They began a new picture today, "Down Stairs," an original story by Gilbert, and, upon its completion, the actor hopes to become a film director. The announcement was somewhat of a surprise. Hollywood had believed Lupe Vales, fiery Mexican actress, with whom he was seen frequently in New York during a recent visit there, was the favorite in Gilbert's heart.

Shad-Roe Balls Order of the Day

NOW about Friday, the day of our fish dish menu. Since shad roe is one of the food delicacies which enjoys a relatively short season, let us again indulge our fancy in this direction. But a word, first, regarding this roe. It is a delicacy and we hesitate, I know, to indulge in more than one roe, but if we wish to ask guests to dine and wish to offer shad roe at this season, then we suggest shad-roe ball, "which spreads the affair out over a wide area," in a manner of speaking.

FRIDAY'S DINNER.

Cream of Lettuce Soup
Broiled Shad Roe or Shad Roe Balls
Riced Potatoes
Creamed Cucumbers
Stuffed Tomato Salad
Orange Souffle Pie
Coffee

Shad Roe Balls.

1 medium-sized pair shad roe
1 cupful thick white sauce
2 tablespoonfuls lemon juice

Parboil the shad roe. Remove the outer membrane and mash with fork. Add the lemon juice, then the white sauce. Chill thoroughly. Shape into balls, dip in egg and crumbs and fry in deep, hot fat. Serve with bacon.

Creamed Cucumbers.

Peel three or four medium-sized cucumbers, cutting just deeply enough to remove the green. Boil in salted water until tender, but not soft. Turn into a colander and drain thoroughly. When cool enough to handle, cut in halves lengthwise and scrape out the seedy pulp, throwing this pulp away. Cut the remaining cucumbers in dice, add to the white sauce made with a generous amount of butter, and season to taste with salt and pepper. Place in a casserole, cover with buttered breadcrumbs and brown in the oven.

Orange Souffle Pie.

1 cupful orange juice
Grated rind of one orange
Juice and rind of one lemon
¼ cupful cornstarch
¾ cupful sugar
3 eggs, separated
4 tablespoonfuls sugar

Heat the lemon and orange juice and grated rind in a double boiler. Mix three-quarters of a cupful of sugar and the cornstarch until well blended. Add to hot juice and cook until thick. Add beaten egg yolks slowly and cook five minutes. Add four tablespoonfuls sugar to the stiffly beaten egg whites. Fold into hot mixture and pour into previously baked pastry shell. Place in a slow oven and bake until top is a delicate brown. Cool thoroughly before serving.

Refreshing Summer Beverages.

Summer days are thirsty days! And there are so many occasions when a sparkling, icy drink is most refreshing and welcome. It may be after a tiresome shopping day in town, a brisk game of tennis, or, perhaps, when friends "drop in" of a hot afternoon or evening. It really doesn't matter, for in our new folder you will find many suggestions for easily prepared, appropriate beverages—all equally delicious.

Send your request and a stamped, self-addressed envelope, to Nancy Carey, The Washington Post.

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

Summer coat in light weight wool with separate scarf and twisted collar, and the delightful details of another woolen morning frock. (Courtesy of Barnard et Cie., Paris.)

NEW YORK, May 25.—With vacation time just around the corner, and finances maybe not so elastic—the mother is faced with a problem. Whether to try to stay in town and risk the ensuing bankruptcy of nerves on the part of all the members of the family, or to go to the country and risk a sad flattening of the pocketbook.

Wise mama will choose the latter. For pocketbooks can always be reimbursed—nerves not always.

Kiddies don't require anything elaborate in the way of a vacation, either. Even if they think so themselves. A kerosene cooking stove and a tent may give young sister something new in the way of a thrill—and her friends needn't have the slightest idea that any thought of economy is behind it at all. Many a farmer will be glad to rent you "tenting" space for $10 or $15 for the whole season! Of course, some one has to take a few days off in advance, and go and find him—the farmer, I mean.

The wise mama plans—the unwise mama gives up. You can manage a vacation for yourself and the children. And for the place I have suggested, clothes are not nearly the problem you imagine—if you aren't going where you have to be chic. Even if the budget includes a more elaborate vacation than a tenting one, you need not worry about clothes this year. For 'tis not the number of dresses that count, as the few well worn and cleverly chosen.

With all the sales of both ready-to-wear things and materials—with all Dame Fashion's economy hints right at your door—just, for instance, separate skirts and gay sweaters that cost a dollar apiece! It's all in managing, you see. So sit down and "manage" a vacation for yourself on paper, and then away!

* * * *

My idea of a perfect business outfit is a dark suit, not navy blue or brown, but some sort of a dark mixture which will not show shine and dust. And with the new combination evening gowns and combination sports dresses so popular in Paris—why not do this and that to our business outfit? "This" and "that" meaning hats, blouses, belt and other accessories for the one "foundation" jacket and skirt which will give it variety and change enough to look like several suits. This week's leaflet tells you how to do just this with not only the business suit but also with evening and sportswear. Better hurry, they're going fast! A stamped, self-addressed envelope sent to the Dare Department of The Washington Post will bring you the leaflet.

* * * *

There isn't anything left to say about Bernard et Cie. models! Because they are so wearable, so practical and yet so chic, managing some how to always have a distinctive air, that the best tribute today to the cleverness of this house would seem to be just silence—and a lot of pen and ink work. The coat has a clever rolled collar of its own, and a crepe scarf on top of that. And the frock is light weight wool, with a separate jacket, as you can see. Aren't they nice, really!

Au revoir,

How to Be Beautiful

By ELSIE PIERCE

Permanent and Temporary Methods of Removing Superfluous Hair.

JUDGING from the letters pouring in, superfluous hair remains one of women's gravest beauty problems. Nature has a way of doing queer things sometimes, and superfluous hair is just one of these. No rhyme or reason for it.

Elsie Pierce.

Electrolysis

If the superfluous hair on the face is really a dark and heavy growth and permanent removal desirable, electrolysis is the only method that has been proven satisfactory.

This method necessarily should be entrusted only to an expert. At the hands of a specialist it is safe, scientific, should leave no scars and should kill the hair at the roots. I am often asked how many treatments should be necessary and what the cost. The number of treatments depends entirely upon the individual case and the cost upon this factor, as well as upon the fee of the operator. Although the method is an expensive one, in the long run it is well worth the cost because it is quite permanent. A small percentage of the hairs may return so do not be discouraged if you find a few staging a comeback.

Bleaching

If the growth is not dark and not very apparent, try bleaching before attempting to have the hair removed. Peroxide and ammonia are effective for this purpose. The proportions are six drops of ammonia to six teaspoonsful of peroxide. Be sure the peroxide is fresh as it deteriorates very quickly. Also make the solution fresh each time you use it. Pat on with a pad of absorbent cotton, let it dry on the skin and latter massage lightly with a nourishing cream to offset any drying effect of the bleach. Also be sure to keep the bleach away from brows or lashes.

This is the bleach usually used. Some women, however, have very dry, sensitive skins and find the bleach slightly irritating. For them plain household baking soda is recommended. Mix a little baking soda with sufficient water to form a smooth paste and one that will stay on. Apply to the superfluous hair, allow to remain until quite dry, then remove with a soft cloth and lukewarm water. In addition to bleaching the hair, mildly, this preparation will in time also held to devitalize the hair.

A stronger bleach than the peroxide and ammonia is made by adding sufficient chalk of magnesia to the peroxide and ammonia to make a thick paste. Spread over the hair, allow to dry, remove with water and then massage with nourishing cream.

Depilatories.

To remove the hair temporarily, depilatories are available. There are four types: powder, liquid, cream or paste depilatories. These are quick and safe to use for removing hair from arms, underarms and legs. For hair on upper lip, chin and cheeks there are several wax preparations that are good. These depilatories or epilators have to be used as often as the hair returns, but isn't it all worth the trouble? Think how many rites we have to repeat daily in the name of beauty.

Elsie Pierce, famous beauty lecturer, will answer any questions on beauty you wish to ask her. Address Miss Pierce, in care of The Washington Post, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

SECOND FLOOR DRESS SHOPS

Radio Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL

THE attention of the radio industry has been focussed upon Chicago, where the R. M. A. trade show has been in session for the past three days. More than 100 manufacturers exhibited their latest models, including some television sets.

One of the principal speakers at the meeting was Commissioner Harold A. Lafount, who represented the Federal Radio Commission. He discussed several phases of the industry, including television.

"Ever since its creation," Mr. Lafount said, "the Federal Radio Commission has been frequently petitioned to put television on a commercial basis, as if the commission, by the passing of rules and regulations, could create for an industry a state of technical perfection which the best engineers of the country have not yet been able to achieve. As soon as the television art is perfected to the point where the average layman can expect a comparatively fair amount of entertainment from his television receiver, it seems reasonable to suppose that the commission will not arbitrarily bar the way to economic progress in this field.

"The commissioners and their engineers have traveled far and wide to see at first hand the latest developments of television in the laboratories. We are not yet convinced that television has emerged from the laboratory and is ready to matriculate into the more severe course of adult entertainment and education.

"True, most of us have seen remarkable pictures in the laboratory—pictures whose depth and detail compare not unfavorably with the amateur motion picture projection. While we may gaze in fascination for ten or fifteen minutes at a picture that has penetrated the mysterious ether through steel buildings and brick walls, to astonish the 'looker-in,' yet after a quarter of an hour of such pleasing surprise, the mind becomes impatient and critical. We not only have the three unities of Greek tragedy, time, place and action, but the actors themselves are limited to one, two or three persons at the most.

"We have all dreamed of the day when the complete action and crowds of a football game could be seen in every home simultaneously with their occurrence, through simple television apparatus. But this dream is a long way from present actualities."

The Shut-In Hour, presented weekly by the United States Marine Band, under the leadership of Capt. Taylor Branson, will be heard during the period regularly occupied by Dr. Damrosch's Music Appreciation Series, during the summer months (WRC, 11 a. m.) The hour was heard on Mondays previously.

Sir Edward Elgar, one of the most famous of living English composers, will conduct the best known of his works, "Pomp and Circumstance" as a part of a great charity concert to be broadcast from Albert Hall, London, by the British Broadcasting Corporation and rebroadcast over WMAL at 2 p. m. today.

A plea to the great American majority to rise up and make known its desires will be made by Richard Washburn Child, former United States Ambassador to Italy, over WRC this afternoon. Mr. Child's address will not concern itself with party politics, but with the interest and desire for the self-expression of the thoroughly American majority.

ARTHUR GODFREY, WRC announcer, will go on the air in a program of his own tonight at 10:15 o'clock. Godfrey will revive the "Warbling Banjoist" act which he had on the air for several years in Baltimore. He was formerly soloist with Rudolf Schramm's Orchestra during the Washington Gas Light Hour and with Otto Beck, during the latter's organ recitals at the Rialto last summer.

Cornelia Otis Skinner, offering two original comedy sketches for the first time on the air, will appear as guest of the Kodak Hour tomorrow night (WMAL, 8 p. m.). The new sketches are titled, "The Family Outing" and "Bon Voyage."

"Myrt and Marge," who leave the air lanes tomorrow night for a summer vacation, will return to their five-a-week schedule the latter part of August.

The radio show is scheduled for vaudeville and personal appearance tours during the summer months.

A new Lucky Strike Dance Hour, featuring Bert Lahr, Broadway comedian; Walter O'Keefe, night club and musical comedy master of ceremonies; dramatizations of actual criminal cases from the files of the New York City Police Department, and leading dance orchestras will be inaugurated about the middle of June.

Dance orchestras will be heard each broadcast; police dramatizations each Tuesday night; Walter Winchell each Thursday night, and Bert Lahr each Saturday night.

FOR the third year, the graduation exercises at the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis will be broadcast by WMAL next Thursday* * * Six of the nine musicians in Alexander Haas' Budapest ensemble are true-to-the-life gypsies, and all but one is a Hungarian* * * The Northern Dramatic Co. will be heard on Fridays hereafter (WOL, 8 p. m.) * * * A minstrel group of 10 singing German students, wandering around the world to carry the greetings of the German Youth Movement to the youth of other countries, will be heard over WJZ at 6:15 p. m. today. The group known as "Singschar Rheinischer Wandervogel" (The Wandering Songbirds of the Rhine), will be heard in a number of songs* * * Rose Chanelle will sing "What a Life" and "Love Me or Leave Me" during the broadcast with Rudy Schramm's concert orchestra tomorrow night (WMAL, 6:15 o'clock). * * * Richard Gordon (Sherlock Holmes) has a favorite fan letter. It came from three young women who teach on an Indian reservation in Oklahoma. They wrote that every time Holmes goes on the air they take a portable radio set out into the desert to listen to the programs while seated around a campfire. The girls said that the distant howling of coyotes lends atmosphere to the programs * * * Sven von Hallberg, whose "Desert Sanda" programs are heard each Sunday, is a master linguist. Born in Lapland, he speaks Lappic, Swedish, Danish and Norwegian. Through his associations with the Near East he speaks Arabic, Persian, Turkish, Greek and Syrian. In addition, he has a working knowledge of several Balkan tongues.

Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES McDONALD

Winning Him Back.

DEAR Frances McDonald: Do you think there is a way to win back your boy friend when there is another girl involved. I am 18 years of age and I go with a boy who is 24. We have been going together two years, though at times we have had quarrels, because he is jealous. I really don't enjoy going with anyone else, although I have plenty of chances. I am considered attractive and I have a very pleasing personality. I would do anything in the world for him. I know he thinks a lot of me and he respects me, which is more than he does some of the girls he goes out with. I know he tells me falsehoods at times, but I just leave them go, as I do so hate to doubt anyone. I try my best to believe him, which is more than some will do. He is a musician in a local band and, of course, is very much wrapped up in his music. He plays lots of jobs at night in different orchestras. I do know that sometimes he does not play as he says, and I will not make it my business to find out, as I do not think meddling in mother's affairs is right.

He met this other girl one night after we had a quarrel. She also is attractive. I have chestnut-color hair and a very fair complexion, but I do not paint my face up as she does. She is tall and thin and blonde. They have not been going together lately, as he and I made up two months ago. He doesn't seem the same, however. What should I do, keep on waiting on him, or forget him? I have tried it often but never succeeded. Help me to be happy. My mother and father are the most wonderful parents a girl could have and they seem to think he is not worthy of me. Please answer soon.

KITTY.

The best way to bore a man is to begin to take him seriously. While you register interest without perturbation, he is keyed up and at his best. When you become overconcerned, you lose charm, and his interest wanes. Be as nearly as possible what you were when he first knew you and you will quite likely reduce him to his original state of complete subjection.

But bear in mind that you are only 18. It may be possible but it is highly improbable that you have met your fate in this thin blond lad who punishes the public on a saxophone. So try to maintain an even keel as you sail the sea of youth's adventuring. Fly a gay flag as you go, and do not make for the very first harbor that offers—especially when it seems a rather doubtful sort of harbor. You know, my child, a man cannot be too eager or too proud. When he shows the faintest doubt, the least indifference, the woman should consider the matter closed. Few women have ever lived to regret the reluctant love. Thousands have thanked heaven on their knees that first love was not last love.

So do not waste too much thought on a youth who may some day in retrospect seem pretty raw material. Look the harbors over before picking a port.

Culbertson on Bridge

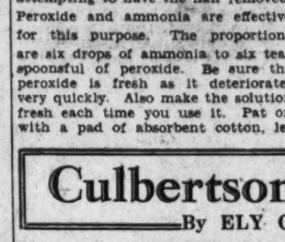
SHUTTING OUT YOUR PARTNER.

RECENTLY, in England, there was played a match of 100 boards at Duplicate, between teams representing the North of England and the South of England. Playing for the North of England were Capt. Ewart Kempson, Mr. Troldahl, Mr. Fox, Mr. Summerfield and Mr. Wraith (Reserve), while the South of England was represented by Col. Walter Buller, Mrs. Gordon Evers, Capt. Lindsay Mundy, Maj. Buckley and Mr. Mathieson (Reserve).

The South of England team used what they term "common sense" bidding, which is similar in its precepts to the more archaic forms of Contract bidding in America. The North of England players used the Approach-Forcing System as well as they knew it. Obviously, however, they were not acquainted with its finer points. Such matches as these are a splendid thing for Bridge, regardless of the system used by the players—or whether they use any system at all—because the hands they play are preserved with the bidding and results, and thus furnish splendid laboratory tests of the individual applied to the distribution of the cards around the table.

Hand No. 56 of this match demonstrated clearly the fault, common to many American players as well, of preventing partner from participating in the bidding. The hand was:

North—Dealer.
East and West vulnerable.



The bidding in Room No. 1 was: (Figures after bids in the table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

3♡(1)	Pass	4◇(2)	Pass
4♡(3)	Pass	Pass	Pass

1—A very bad bid, as its tendency is to prevent the unfolding of the hand pattern, and the trump suit, even though it contains four honors, is not strong enough to stand alone without some support from partner.

2—North has considerable strength, and must give his partner an opportunity to bid for game.

3—It is now too late for South to show that he also has a biddable spade suit.

The bidding above was that in the room where the North of England players sat North and South.

The bidding in Room No. 2, where the South of England players were seated North and South, was equally bad. It was as follows:

South	West	North	East
		1◇(1)	Pass
4♡(2)	Pass	Pass	Pass

1—The hand is too weak to bid. Basic bidding minimums should not be disturbed.

2—The South of England players have no Forcing Takeout available. Any other bid than a direct game bid risks the danger of a pass. The effect of such bidding, of course, is to keep the partner in the dark, while the correct basic principle of bidding is to give your partner as much information as possible, while conveying as little as you can to your opponents. When the bidding is over, North knows practically nothing of the general makeup of the South hand. The picture South has painted is entirely inaccurate.

More accurate bidding of this hand would be:

South	West	North	East
		Pass	Pass
1♡	Pass	2◇	Pass
2♠	Pass	3♠	Pass
3NT	Pass	Pass or 4♠	Pass

The decision as to whether the hand should be played in no-trump or spades is very close. Either contract can be made, but, in any event, accurate scientific bidding would have pointed out to the North and South partners the dangers of the partnership being wrecked on the reefs of distribution. The incorrect bidding concealed these dangers until too late.

Played in four hearts, one of the players made 9 tricks, while the other, adopting a different line of play, made 8. Thus both players failed to use the favors of high cards and distribution to win the game that was makable, but preferred an attempt at an impossible contract.

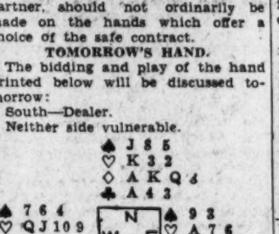
TODAY'S POINTER.

The object of constructive bidding at the Contract table is to permit the exchange of information at the lower stages, in order to determine the correct eventual contract and how high the bidding may safely be carried. Pre-emptive bids, which shut out the partner, should not ordinarily be made on the hands which offer a choice of the safe contract.

TOMORROW'S HAND.

The bidding and play of the hand printed below will be discussed tomorrow:

South—Dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.



Study the hand, decide how you would bid and play it, and then compare the results you obtain with those shown in tomorrow's article.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

PROS AND CONS OF BEVERAGES.

COCOA, chocolate, milk, buttermilk, tea, coffee, and water are in competition as table beverages. The more important advantages and disadvantages of each of these rank about as indicated below.

Water has no food value. We drink it because our bodies need it to dissolve our foods, on the one hand, and the tissue wastes on the other. The need of it is so fundamental that nature provides us with a special sensation devised to drive us to the water hole. It is thirst. We take it with our meals to assist in moistening our foods, that we may the better swallow them; and also that the stomach may the more easily grind and mix them and digest and pass them on. The best water is that which is neutral as to taste and medium as to temperature.

Tea and coffee, when unmixed with sugar and cream, are not much more than water holding in solution some stimulant and a little oils and tannic acid. The stimulant in coffee is caffein. Research has shown that an average healthy adult can take habitually about two average-sized cups of medium strength coffee in a day without harm. Nevertheless, caffein is a drug with definite powers for good as a medicine when it is needed, and just as definite powers for harm when it is taken when not needed, or when it is wrongly used in any way.

The average person who drinks coffee flavors it with sugar and cream. These are foods and coffee mixed with them has definite food value. When the drink which the French call cafe au lait, or milk with enough coffee and sugar to flavor, is dunked with bread the combination makes a meal containing a pretty good allowance of calories.

When persons complain of indigestion caused by coffee it is the aromatic oil that is the basis of their complaint. Over against the claim that coffee causes indigestion is the testimony of those who think coffee aids digestion. The latter claim is well founded when it applies to the small cup of black coffee taken without sugar or cream at the end of a meal, particularly if the diner has eaten rather too heavily.

Tea is not much more than water flavored with aromatics, containing a drug called theine and some tannins. It has no food value. The drug theine is almost identical with caffein, having the same advantages and disadvantage, the same uses and subjects to the same abuses. When persons complain of indigestion due to tea drinking they have reference to the effects of tannins. When the beverage is served with cream and sugar it acquires food values in proportion to the quantities of these ingredients. When it is served with lemon rather than with cream it gains some of the antiscorbutic properties of the fruit, but it loses those calories that milk or cream would have supplied.

As is the case with coffee, tea is less apt to be harmful when taken at mealtime. The people who take afternoon tea are wise if they eat as they drink, eating more food and drinking less tea than is the custom.

Advice on Gardening

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

DOES the garland flower (daphne cneorum) bloom in the fall as well as in the spring?

MRS. PHILIP H. F.

Yes. In this month the daphne cneorum is covered with flowers. In the fall it will again bear flowers, which will not be affected by frost. These blossoms can frequently be picked in early December. This is a wonderful little evergreen plant which has become very popular in the last few years, due to the pleasing fragrance of the blossoms and to their beautiful shell-pink color. It grows about 1 foot high, but spreads over a space of 2 feet.

Please tell me the time to plant pussy willows. MABEL H. K.

Pussy willows may be planted in the spring or in the fall. Most authorities feel that they grow better when planted in the fall. They do well in moist or moderately dry locations. The goat willow (salix caprea) produces the largest catkins and has also the most beautiful foliage. Should your pussy willow be attacked by borers try using large quantities of chimney soot about the roots.

Please tell me the formula for a reliable grass seed. I want to plant a little now, but in the fall I want to reseed my entire lawn. JAMES R. K.

Use the following mixture at the rate of three pounds to 1,000 square feet. Sow during September, before the 20th, if possible.

40 per cent Kentucky blue grass.
40 per cent chewing fescue.
10 per cent redtop.
5 per cent Italian rye.
5 per cent South German mixed bent or white clover, whichever preferred. Sow in two ways, preferably at right angles. Follow sowing by rolling.

I am anxious to have some peonies transplanted. When would you advise me to do this? Will they flower the followng season?

MARIE N. K.

Peonies may be transplanted in the early spring, but I should not transplant them in late May. The ideal time to move them is between mid-September and mid-October, and the reason for this is that peonies produce their feeding roots in the spring. Spring transplanting is bad in that these essential roots are destroyed. When planting, set the peonies two or three inches below the surface of the soil. Too shallow planting will cause them to be heaved out through the winter. Too deep planting results in the roots rotting or in small or perhaps no flowers. We have prepared a circular on peonies which we will be glad to send you if you will write again, inclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope. They rarely bloom until the second or third season after being moved.

What Today Means

"GEMINI."

IF May 26 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10 p. m. to 11:15 p. m., from 3:30 p. m. to 5 p. m. and from 10:45 p. m. to midnight. The danger periods are from 8:15 a. m. to 9:30 a. m. and from 7 p. m. to 8 p. m.

The planetary aspects for May 26 are such that the world will be in an irascible mood, with ears alive to the little jars, wrangling, spites and vanities, which are brewed each day of the year, but which usually die an easy and harmless death. Married couples should avoid open scrifes and steer carefully their matrimonial ship.

The child born on this May 26 will be a law abiding little individual, seldom getting into trouble. It will be very sensitive to reproofs, and severity in its case will be not only unnecessary, but harmful. It will be ambitious and desirous of excelling. It will be sociable and of good disposition, but shy.

Born on May 26, you have a positive, an aggressive, a somewhat hard, and jealous nature. You often let self-assertiveness and impulse override tact and diplomacy, and have the foolish trick of quarreling with all the people who might help you most. In some respects you only see as far as the lens of your eyes permit.

If you be a woman, and married, your husband will not be allowed much rope. Your love nature is too coupled up with jealousy to make it a blessing to the recipient of your affections. You intend to play square, never shirk your duties, and are full of domestic virtues. Deportment, however, is almost a religion with you, and it goes hard with those who outrage your own code of moral values. Your goodness, lacking tolerance and charity, is more repellent than lovely.

If you be a man, you are too domineering, to be popular as a leader. You are undeniably efficient, but you are so managing that you think nothing can be right, unless done by yourself. You have a good head about money matters and know how to lay out your income to good advantage. You are a man's man, and are diffident with women. You are fond of vigorous sports, but do not enjoy parlor games. Whilst you might be thought a tyrant at your work, you are very lamb-like within the domestic circle and extremely loyal to your kinsfolk.

MEMORIAL SERVICE CONDUCTED IN HOUSE

Tribute Paid 3 Senators and 16 Representatives Who Died During Year.

(Associated Press.)

Standing behind a clerk's desk banked with baskets of lilies, Representative Effie Gene Wingo, of Arkansas, yesterday placed in a vase a rose honoring each of the sixteen representatives and three senators who have died during the past year.

When the clerk had called the last name in this "last roll," reading the record of each, the members stood in final silent tribute to their former colleagues. One entire section of the floor was filled with relatives of those honored and many wore the deep veil of widowhood.

Mrs. Longworth Attends.

In a front aisle seat, Alice Roosevelt Longworth, widow of the late Speaker Nicholas Longworth, sat with slim hands resting in her lap. Her costume was of dull black silk, figure-fitting, matched with a narrow-brimmed black hat with soft crown, stitched in pattern. She carried a black bag and a scarf-end of her jacket was flung across her throat.

Behind her sat Secretary Hurley, paying personal tribute to his friends in the memorial list.

Almost at the rear sat Senator Hattie Caraway, still in mourning for the husband whom she succeeded.

There were no individual eulogies and so no special mention was made of the former Speaker except that Representative Scott Leavitt, of Montana, mentioned one who "descended from the Speaker's dais to stand among the rest."

Tributes Are Paid.

"They stand together for the honor we would pay them—even as they mingled with us here," said Leavitt.

In political analogy, Representative William B. Bankhead, of Alabama, paid his tribute to those "summoned by the grim sergeant at arms."

Mrs. Longworth was first to leave the chamber when the service ended. She was escorted as in the memorial custom, by the successor to her husband in the First Ohio District, John B. Hollister.

In presiding over the solemn service, Speaker John Garner wore cutaway garb far more formal than is his usual custom, and wielded a gavel with dark mahogany head.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

CONTRARY to all expectations, the Rialto Theater will again throw open its door to the public on Friday, June 3.

The occasion will be the world premiere of "Flame of Mexico," heralded as one of the outstanding film achievements of the decade, three years in the making and completed at a total cost in excess of $300,000.

"Flame of Mexico" is declared to be the first and only authentic story of Mexican life ever recorded in celluloid. It is enacted by a cast of Mexican and American artists and, strangely enough, was produced by an American. It was a woman, Mrs. Juliet Barrett Rublee, who conceived the idea of the picture, worked tirelessly for its production, and today finds herself acclaimed as a genius of cinematographic artistry.

Mrs. Rublee is the wife of George Rublee, legal adviser to the late Dwight W. Morrow, Ambassador to Mexico during the Coolidge administration. So enthralled did she become with the charm of life south of the Rio Grande that she determined to record it in a film.

It is the result of her effort that is to be revealed for the first time to an audience in a theater at the Rialto a week from tomorrow night.

The world premiere of "Flame of Mexico," as I understand it, will be much in the nature of the first presentation of "The Doomed Battalion," recently celebrated in the same house.

While the general public will not be excluded from the premiere, a considerable portion of the audience will be comprised of invited dignitaries of the President's Cabinet, the Government departments, the Diplomatic Corps and the leaders of Washington's literary, social and professional sets.

Preliminary arrangements for the reopening of the Ninth street playhouse are being made by E. L. Delaney, special representatives of the producers of "Flame of Mexico," who arrived in the Capital yesterday; Rodney Collier, house publicist, and the other local Universal executives.

They will have the aid of first-hand, head-office advice, since Carl Laemmle, jr., production chief of Universal, is in Baltimore at the bedside of his father the veteran Carl Laemmle, who recently underwent a major operation at Johns Hopkins Hospital and will spend the next several weeks there in convalescence.

This seems to be a week of vacillation among the higher-ups having the destiny of Washington theaters and players under their immediate control.

Hot on the heels of the announcement that the Rialto is to reopen—at least temporarily—after having been definitely closed for the summer, came the retraction yesterday afternoon of the termination of Wesley Eddy's engagement as master of ceremonies at Loew's Fox.

It was the first view of the New York executives of Loew's, Inc., that Mr. Eddy might advantageously be transferred to some other Loew theater in view of the presence in person among next week's stars at the Fox of both Johnny Weissmuller, who scored so decisively in the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production of "Tarzan, the Ape Man," and Jack Pepper, traveling with the "Dive In" stage unit as master of ceremonies. A wire was shot to City Manager Carter Barron to that effect. Then the wires began really to get hot!

Mr. Barron pointed out that Wes had demonstrated a local popularity that fully warranted his being carried on the program, despite the fact that the bill is topheavy with such names as Weissmuller, Pepper, Lampkin, Madeline Berlo and numerous others. He emphasized further that Eddy has been a business builder this trip on F street and is just getting into his stride. So the New York higher-ups broke down and Mr. Eddy is to continue his indefinite engagement at Loew's Fox just as was originally planned.

And a whole lot of people, including Wesley Eddy and his charming wife, both of whom love Washington so well, are singing hosannas and dancing in the streets about it!

There will be a revival of more than passing interest at the National next week, when the National Theater Players will be seen in "Captain Applejack," a romantic comedy-drama that has not been seen on the local boards since it served as a popular starring vehicle for the late Wallace Eddinger.

"Captain Applejack" relates the swashbuckling story of a mild-mannered gentleman who suddenly becomes apprised of the fact that his ancestors were pirates along the Barbary Coast. In the twinkling of an eye his library is transformed into the rolling deck of a pirate craft and what happens then is what swell theater is made of.

The players will find themselves congenially cast in this roistering drama that links the gay nineties with the ancient days on the Spanish Main. There will, of course, be the customary Wednesday and Saturday matinees.

Saturday is the big day at Glen Echo Park. It is then—just in time to get everything in apick and span working order for the Memorial Day holiday—that the new Crystal Pool, one of the finest and best equipped in the country, will be thrown open for the first time this year to inaugurate its second season of pure, fresh-water bathing.

In consonance with the trend of the times, there has been a readjustment of price scale for the pool. This year, weekday admission charges will prevail on both Sundays and holidays.

With the opening of the crystal pool, Glen Echo may be said to be in midsummer trim, the natatorium being merely a final addition to a long list of amusement devices, already running, that include the roller coaster, the airplane swings, the whip, the dodgem rides, the old mill and all the others.

Dancing is enjoyed every night except Sunday in the large ballroom, to music by MacWilliams and his band of eleven.

"The Rose and the Ring," world famous classic by William Makepeace Thackeray, will be presented by the Sock and Buskin Club of MacFarland Community Center tomorrow night at 8 o'clock in Gordon Junior High School auditorium, under the auspices of Georgetown Center. A series of dances by Georgetown groups, directed by Marjorie Schuster, will be a feature of the program.

Seaside Park, down at Chesapeake Beach, Md., is back to normal again after having undergone a severe test on its opening day last Saturday. It was then that approximately 4,000 Cabinet officers, legislators, governors and newspaper men attended the National Press Club's barbecue and demonstrated the park's ability to care comfortably for large crowds without a hitch or unpleasant incident of any kind.

While the barbecue will be lacking, week-end and Decoration Day crowds will find ample amusement in the various devices provided for their entertainment, the big salt-water swimming pool and the miniature railroad running out to the end of the half-mile pier.

And if you're lucky, you might even find a stray barbecue bone to gnaw on!

That is quite a lobby display that Manager Hardie Meakin has assembled to lend atmosphere to the presentation of "Cain" at RKO-Keith's. In it you will find pineapple clubs, war hatchets, potato-masher clubs, spears with expanding heads, tapa cloth, made from the bark of a tree, and other commodities of odd sorts used by the Nossi-Be natives in their warlike and domestic pursuits. Much of the material on display was secured from the Smithsonian Institution and is, therefore, absolutely authentic.

The new week's enticements in the motion picture theaters will be like this: Palace, Greta Garbo in "As You Desire Me;" Earle, Joe E. Brown and Ginger Rogers in "The Tenderfoot," and "Song Writers on Parade," headlining the vaudeville; Loew's Fox, James Dunn and Peggy Shannon in "Society Girl;" Johnny "Tarzan" Weissmuller, in person, and Wesley Eddy and Jack Pepper with the "Dive In" stage revue; RKO-Keith's, Lila Lee and Robert Armstrong in "Radio Patrol," and Amkino's "The Five-Year Plan;" Metropolitan, Barbara Stanwyck in Edna Ferber's "So Big;" Columbia, "Grand Hotel," at 2:30 and 8:30 p. m., all seats reserved, third week.

A little late in getting started, but the rose tournament is now on in the Gallatin street back yards. Those back fences, however, are still a tough order.

Not a watchdog has died!

Stafford and Edith Mirick made the decisions in poetry; Victoria Faber Stevenson was the judge for feature writing, and Azalea Badgeley was in charge of the art contest. A musical program will be given by Mary Deffinbaugh, vocalist, and Grace Powell, recently elected vice president of the club, who will play violin solos.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles G. Doak, of Raleigh, N. C., who attended the unveiling of the statue of the late Gov. Aycock, at the Capitol, were entertained while here by Mrs. Doak's cousins, Miss John Frances Steele, Potomac Park apartment, and Mrs. Stuart Sanders, Mayflower Hotel.

Mr. Doak has for many years been identified with the educational institutions of Chapel Hill and Raleigh. Mrs. Doak was secretary to Gov. Aycock at the time of his death. She is well known as a radio speaker throughout the South.

Mrs. Orville Smith, of Cleveland, is here to visit her daughter, Miss Marjorie Smith, at Wardman Park Hotel, where the latter is living while attending school.

CROWDER TO FACE YANKS IN FIRST OF SERIES TODAY

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

THE Yankees are in our midst for four games starting today and if the Nats are to revive and renew the confidence of the home folks they have an excellent opportunity in the series that will run through Sunday.

If the rampaging Yanks are to be stopped, the Nats shape up as the team to accomplish the feat, having a better record against the New York Club than any other team in the league, with five victories in nine games to show for the hand-to-hand battles.

The two-day lay-off has freshened Johnson's hurlers to the point where there will be no excuses in this series. Crowder, Fischer, Weaver, Marberry and Brown will not be able to complain of overwork and if the Yanks get by this pitching line-up of Johnson's, the Nats' pennant chances will have faded perceptibly.

The Yankees are the surprise team of the circuit, not by their victories and league lead, but by the manner in which their triumphs have been accomplished. It has been pitching more than any other single factor that has beaten back the New York opposition and, at the start of the season, the Yankee supporters wailed long and loud at the apparent absence of mound talent.

Manager Joe McCarthy apparently has picked up a real pitching find in young Johnny Allen, the International League recruit, and Allen has earned a shot at the Nats whenever the two clubs meet.

Allen, be it known, has shut out the Nats for fourteen consecutive innings, holding them to six hits in winning a shutout in the recent New York series, and allowing only one hit during a five-and-one-third-inning relief shift during the last series between the two clubs here.

McCarthy has developed what appears to be the league's best pitching staff with Gomez, Pipgras, Henry Johnson, Ruffing, Pennock and Allen rotating in order. It was four of these pitchers who last week equaled the American League record of four consecutive shutouts.

Slugging has been the chief characteristic of the Yankees ever since Babe Ruth was traded to them by the Red Sox in 1919, and home runs have been synonymous with the attack of the New York club since that date, but the honors this season go to the Yankee pitchers.

Two mighty factors in the success of the Yanks to date have been Bill Dickey, the catcher, and Tony Lazzeri, the second baseman. Their timely wallops have won more games for the Yanks than the slugging of both Gehrig and Ruth.

Verily, as the Governor of North Carolina said to the Governor of South Carolina, "If it's not one damyankee, it's another."

U. S. Golfers Downed in England

American Threat Ends With Defeats of Martin, Sweeney.

McRuvie Lone Survivor of British Walker Team.

MUIRFIELD, Scotland, May 25 (A.P.).—Another American quest for the British amateur golf championship failed today as the three survivors of an original delegation of eleven went down to defeat in the third round.

David Martin, stocky young California champion on whom the greatest hopes were based, was the first to fall and he was followed shortly by the Sweeney brothers, of Oxford, Charles and Robert.

Martin played two rounds today, defeating Bernard Drawin, the English golf writer, two and one in the morning, but lost his touch in the afternoon and fell before H. Shaw, a 25-year-old Manchester player who hasn't even a local reputation, two up.

Weather Turns Sour on Martin.

The weather, which had favored the Americans, went sour and the player from sunny California played his match with Shaw in a biting wind and with occasional rain flurries.

He gained and lost the lead three times in the first nine, then fell behind at the thirteenth for the first time and couldn't recover the lost ground. He had a medal score of 82, Shaw 81.

Charles Sweeney, golf partner of the Prince of Wales and captain of the Oxford team, lost to T. A. Bourn, well known English player, one up. His brother was eliminated by A. J. Peech, also one up.

The Americans were not the only ones to fail, only one of those already selected for the British Walker Cup Team surviving the third round. The survivor is Eric McRuvie, the Scotch internationalist.

T. A. Torrance, captain of the English team, was overwhelmed by 21-year-old Jack MacLean, of Bankhead, and Lister Hartley, another of the British standbys, was eliminated by Sam McKinlay, young player.

The failure of the Americans was not unexpected. Martin attracted little attention in the States and is not in the first ten or fifteen American amateur players. The other American entries were even less known, none of them holding even a sectional championship.

Only two native-born Americans have won the title, Jess Sweetser in 1926 and Bobby Jones in 1930. Walter Travis won the title in 1904 but he was born in Australia, and was only a naturalized citizen of the United States.

Shikat Faces M'Cready Tonight

Match Features Outdoor Program at Griffith Stadium.

Gardini, Stein, Szabo, Washburn, Manich to See Action.

OUTDOOR wrestling, as presented by the boys from old Curley College, will break out again tonight at Griffith Stadium with some of the best known boys in the business operating upon one another. In fact, Dick Shikat, whom most students of the game hand the mythical title of champion is on the bill, meeting Earl McCready.

Sammy Stein faces Renato Gardini in the semifinal. Stein is rated in the first six or so of the Curley boys. Gardini generally loses and makes rather eloquent speeches after the match, usually demanding a rematching and pointing out the unfair tactics used by the victor.

Two roughies, George Zaharias and Jack Washburn, have to do with each other in the main preliminary. Zaharias is one of the best in the business and rates high with Rudy Dusek as a dispenser of genuine agony. He hits with the sides of his elbows, and he really hits. Washburn is a prototype of the old alley fighters of the nineties.

Kirilenko Meets Manich.

Matros Kirilenko, who seems to be staging a comeback in the graces of both promoter and public, meets George Manich in the fourth match. Kirilenko assured his popularity last week by winning from Milo Steinborn, whose opponents always fare well with the galleries. Manich rated highly here some months back, when he was boosted into a match with Londos.

Sandor Szabo, whose alacrity is a relief from the steady diet of lumbering boys, meets the worst wrestler in the world in the opening match, none other than Benny Ginsberg, who has not won a match since shortly after the armistice of the Crimean War.

The main bout should show local customers why McCready is rated so highly in rassledom. In his previous showings here his opposition has been so bad that he was considerably hampered.

The customary "ladies free with escorts" will prevail.

CENTRAL WIN TO CLINCH TITLE

DEPRIVED for nearly ten years of the high school baseball championship, Central High School's nine has the pennant within its grasp today at 3 o'clock at Eastern Field, when Wild Bill Payne and the rest of the Western High Team are met in the most decisive game of the play-off for the championship.

A win today will clinch the title for Central, although the play-off series will continue on, with Eastern and Western meeting next Tuesday.

Abiding by the old adage of "Never change a winning combination," Coach Jack Ray, of Central, has named Jack DeBettencourt, his sensational young loose-limbed pitcher, to man the mound today to oppose Payne, who is expected to pitch as he has not pitched this year.

DeBettencourt pitched four-hit ball last Monday to beat Eastern, a defeat that definitely marked the downfall of that school after a dynasty that extended to within one game of five years. Almost unknown at the start of the season, DeBettencourt was looked upon simply as a relief pitcher for Emmett Buscher, who since has been relegated to the relief berth.

Backed up by a sterling infield, Central and DeBettencourt are favored to come through today, if they can bunch enough hits off the zooming delivery of Payne, who will not have half the support DeBettencourt is expected to make use of.

Central, Eastern, Tech and Western's track teams were busy yesterday tuning up for the much-looked-forward-to interhigh track meet tomorrow at Central Stadium. Central, with its greatest team in years, hopes to score its second straight high school championship in two days.

4 Games Here Test Fate Of Nats

Yanks Likely to Use Young Johnny Allen on Pitching Mound.

Johnson Says Team Improved in Spirit, Ready for Test.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

WHEN a team suddenly gets the idea that it is headed in the general direction of Pennantville, it finds that practically every game is one of those "crucial-test" things, and so it is with the Nationals these days. When the playing dates were given out last February, the Washington Club felt that it already had two strikes called on it when it discovered that it was to play about half of its first-third season games with the teams which figured to be its keenest rivals—the Mackmen and Yankees.

But these outfits were met as they came along, and Manager Walter Johnson's charges stepped out and beat the pair eleven successive times after losing their first two to the A.'s and their first one to the Yanks. Then they suddenly got the idea that they might be able to win the American League flag, after all, and played brilliant ball until they came a cropper in New York last week and dropped the last three after having won the first two of the set.

Nats Ready for Test Today.

The series played havoc with their pitching staff and all the Nats could do against the lowly Boston Red Sox here Sunday and Monday was to get an even break. Skipper Johnson decided that a full day of rest Tuesday, with plenty of work yesterday would do his charges the most good in prepping for a continuation of the Yankees' series, which starts in Griffith Stadium this afternoon and ends on Sunday, and this program was followed.

And, according to Johnson, his henchmen showed plenty of pep in yesterday's drill. All of his moundsmen indicated that they are ready to go, while the number of baseballs driven out of the park by the battters caused the "front office" to moan at the expense. "I'm confident we'll make things pretty hot for the Yanks in this series," the Nat leader vouchsafed.

"General" Alvin Crowder put on the finishing touches yesterday for the mound assignment he will draw this afternoon in the opener of the series and Johnson impressed upon his entire box-staff the fact that, in addition to bearing down when Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig are at the tee, they also must do so against two others—Second Baseman Tony Lazzeri and Catcher Bill Dickey, who right now are second and third, respectively, among the league's leading hitters.

Johnny Allen, a rookie right-hander, who pitched his second consecutive shutout against the Nationals in New York last Saturday, after having held them hitless here on May 3 for five and one-third innings, is expected to do the allen flinging today.

Allen Good Prospect, But Green.

Last season, he starred with Toronto, winning 21 games and losing 9. He has plenty of speed and depends upon it almost entirely, but is reputed to be wild. In 249 innings last year he walked 100 and was charged with 13 wild pitches, but that he was good when he got the ball over the plate is indicated by the fact that he fanned 139.

Despite his two shutout victories in his last starts, Allen is still green and has yet to prove himself. Because of a wild spell against the Nats last Saturday, he was within a ball of being yanked, for he had packed the bases and had the count three and two on Sam West, but the latter saved him by striking out on a bad ball. McCarthy had a relief pitcher ready for use in case West walked.

"Allen unquestionably is a great prospect," said Johnson yesterday, "but he hasn't got our jinx, as the Yanks think he has, and my boys promise him a very busy afternoon when he takes the slab. We've beaten every good pitcher that has faced us this season, except Stewart and Gray, of the Brownies. This includes Grove, Earnshaw, Walberg, Gomez, Ruffing, Pennock, Ferrell, Uhle, Lyons, Russell and MacFayden, and I don't believe that any rookie like Allen can come back and trim us a second time."

The release on option of Pitcher Bob Friedrich, former Holy Cross luminary, by the Nationals to the Richmond Club, of the Eastern League, was announced by President Clark Griffith yesterday.

CRASH KILLS AUTO RACE MECHANIC

Benefield, Driver, Is Seriously Hurt at Indianapolis.

INDIANAPOLIS, May 25 (A.P.).—Harry Cox, 28, of Indianapolis, mechanic riding with Benny Benefield, 25, of Indianapolis, was killed late today when the car in which they were practicing for the 500-mile race here Monday, lost a wheel in the first turn, plunged over the outer wall and struck a tree.

Both men were thrown clear of the racer. Cox apparently was killed immediately. Benefield was injured.

The race car was the same one in which Joe Caccia and his mechanic were killed while practicing for the race here last year. It had been rebuilt for Benefield to drive.

Not Traveling at High Speed.

Benefield and Cox were just starting a circuit of the motor speedway track when the accident occurred. They were not traveling at a high speed.

As the car emerged from the first turn, it lost the left front wheel. The little speedster swerved into the lower retaining wall, then skidded to the top of the curving brick surface and plunged over the outer wall. It struck the top of one tree and crumpled against the trunk of another.

The mishap was the first serious accident at the track this year.

Hospital physicians reported Benefield was suffering a possible concussion of the brain, and that X-ray pictures will have to be taken before the seriousness of his injury can be determined.

Yankees Score 11 Times As Exhibition Starts

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., May 25.—Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig failed to blast any baseballs out of the park here today, but the American League leaders, nevertheless, spent the off day on their schedule bowling over the Cumberland Colts, Middle Atlantic League champions, 19 to 6, before about 1,000 persons.

The Yankees, who were en route to Washington, sharpened up their batting eyes with a devastating attack that produced eleven runs in the opening. Frank Croseti and Lou Jorgens both had home runs. Gehrig slashed out three hits in four trips and Ruth connected for a double and single. Hall, local outfielder, made a homer. In winning, the Yankees lost temporarily the services of reserve infielder Eddie Farrell, who had to be carried from the field after twisting his ankle following a slide into third.

Twenty-two Crews Enter College Races

New York, May 25 (A.P.).—With the lone exception of Wisconsin, the varsity, junior varsity and freshman fleets of the Poughkeepsie regulars were entered and drew positions today for the annual regatta on the Hudson, June 20.

Twenty-two crews in the three races, numerically the same as last year, lined up for the draw. Wisconsin withdrew because of desire to concentrate on the 2,000 meters Olympic trials in July at Worcester, rather than the 4-mile varsity battle on the Hudson.

Eight varsities were entered, six junior varsities and eight freshmen boats.

The lanes for each race, and starting times, all Eastern daylight, follow:

Varsity, 7:15 p. m.—1, Syracuse; 2, California; 3, Washington; 4, M. I. T.; 5, Cornell; 6, Navy; 7, Columbia; 8, Pennsylvania.

Junior varsity, 6:15 p. m.—1, Syracuse; 2, Cornell; 3, Navy; 4, M. I. T.; 5, California; 6, Columbia.

Freshman, 5:15 p. m.—1, California; 2, M. I. T.; 3, Navy; 4, Syracuse; 5, Cornell; 6, Washington; 7, Columbia; 8, Pennsylvania.

Don to Try Today For Speedboat Mark

Gardone, Italy, May 25 (A.P.).—Kaye Don, British speedboat driver, said today he would make an attempt tomorrow in his Miss England III on the speedboat record of 111.712 miles an hour held by Gar Wood.

Don put his boat in the water today and tuned the motor, but made no attempt at speed because of the rough water. He said he had notified officials he would not make the record attempt until tomorrow and therefore could not have made a record even if conditions were satisfactory.

FORD TO BRAVES.

Boston, May 25 (A.P.).—Horace Ford, veteran National League infielder, today was signed by the Boston Braves. The Somerville player, who got his major league start with the Braves, has seen service with the Philadelphia Nationals, Brooklyn, Cincinnati and the St. Louis Cardinals. He was released from the latter club several weeks ago.

Manager Bill McKechnie will use Ford as a utility infielder.

BRAVES HOLD NATIONAL LEAD

Brown, Rookie, Again Downs Vance and Dodgers, 4 to 2.

BOSTON, May 25 (A.P.).—Bobby Brown, the Braves' 20-year-old hurler from Nantasket Beach, who started his major league career a month ago by beating Dazzy Vance and the Brooklyn Dodgers, turned the trick again today and Boston held first place in the National League with a 4-to-2 victory in the final game of the series.

Brown gave only four hits, one less than he allowed the first time he faced the Dodgers, and struck out five. Vance allowed seven in seven innings before he was taken out for a pinch hitter, and three of them were bunched with a Brooklyn error in the second inning for three runs and the ball game.

Knothe's Doubles Scores Two.

Two were out in the second and Art Shires on first when the trouble started. Al Spohrer drove out a single and Tony Cuccinello fumbled Brown's grounder. One run came in and runners were on first and third. Then Fritz Knothe smacked a double which brought in two more tallies.

Frank O'Doul and Joe Stripp hit successive triples for Brooklyn in the first inning and the Dodgers scored their other run in the seventh, just before Boston made its final tally. Hack Wilson and Cuccinello drew walks and Slade sacrificed. Wilson tallied, while Lopez was grounding out.

Spohrer's double started the Boston rally, but he was trapped between third and home. Knothe, who hit into the play, stole second, took third on Lopez's wild throw and scored on Bill Urbanski's double.

Pirates Down Reds In Two Big Innings

Cincinnati, May 25 (A.P.).—Advancing again after a first inning barrage, the Pittsburgh Pirates took a second game from the Cincinnati Reds today, 9 to 4, and went into sixth place.

This time it was a five-run rampage, helped by fumbles by Heath and Hafey that put the Waner boys on base, to go home as Vaughan walked, Traynor singled, and Barbee and Suhr doubled.

Berly has been having a good season in the association.

Gomez, New Strikeout King, Likes to Ride Elephants

By JACK CUDDY.

NEW YORK, May 25 (U.P.).—Senor Lefty Gomez, new strikeout king of the major leagues, is galloping through big time baseball with all the comical flourishes of a clown on horseback.

This tall, skinny farmer boy from California has come to the big city, flicked back his hair and presented the fans with a hodge-podge of dazzling pitching, Broadway romance and cheese diets.

The "goofy Castilian," as he is affectionately called by his New York Yankee teammates, is one of the most genial chaps in baseball. He's an awkward beanpole of a fellow, who would rather be a comedian than a hurler.

He comes from the obscure town of Rodeo, Calif. His father was one of the first professional rodeo riders in the country, and he's following in his sire's footsteps.

"Only I like to ride elephants," said Lefty, when interviewed today at the apartment of his fiancee, beau-

Mrs. Moody Gains French Semifinals

Auteuil, France, May 25 (A.P.).—Play in the French tennis championships today advanced to the semifinal round of women's doubles and the quarter-finals of men's and mixed doubles with Americans still prominent in all three divisions.

Mrs. Helen Wills Moody and Elizabeth Ryan, favored American team, won their way to the semifinals of the women's doubles in a shaky victory over the Swiss-French Team of Collette Payot and Suzanne Barbier, 7—5, 5—7, 6—0. They will meet Senorita Elia de Alvarez and Josane Sigart in the semifinals tomorrow.

The American queen of the courts previously had paired with young Sidney B. Wood, jr., to defeat Cecile Durand Mercier and Francois Terrier, 6—3, 6—1, to gain a quarter-final berth in the mixed play. She and Wood will play the French star, Christian Boussus, and Mlle. Ida Adamoff tomorrow. Miss Ryan and Jacques Brugnon, French Davis Cup player, already were in the quarter-final round.

ADOBE POST, ODDS-ON, EASY WINNER AT WASHINGTON PARK

1-2 Shot Wins In Gallop by 5 Lengths

Brave and Bold Runs Second in Seven-Furlong Sprint.

Pari-Mutuel Scores at Belmont With S. Coucci Up.

WASHINGTON PARK, Ill., May 25 (A.P.).—Adobe Post, ridden by Jockey Charley Landolt and the shortest priced horse to score thus far at the Washington Park meeting, easily triumphed in the top race here at seven furlongs today. Struggling five lengths back of the victor came Brave and Bold and Black Strap.

Adobe Post, owned by Knebelkamp and Morris, covered the distance in 1:25 4-5 and paid $2.98.

Word was received from Col. Ed R. Bradley that his, Burgoo King, winner of the Kentucky Derby and Preakness, would be shipped here next week from the East to compete in the $50,000 American Derby to be run here on June 18.

Jockey Coucci Stars At Belmont,

Belmont Park Race Track, May 25 (A.P.).—Silvio Coucci, the Bronx kid who has become the apprentice riding star of the hour, "stole the show" here this afternoon. The promising Italian youngster scored his third triumph in as many attempts in the featured Spindrift Handicap, booting home J. E. Widener's Pari-Mutuel in a thrilling finish. The son of Fair Play nosed the Wheatley Stable's Blenheim, eight-to-five favorate, out of the purse largely because of superior horsemanship by Coucci.

Lightning Bolt was third, four spans behind. Pompeius was fourth with Spinach last. Pari-Mutuel covered the mile and a furlong distance in 1:49 4-5 and was quoted at four to one. The winner's share of the purse amounted to $3,210.

Pari-Mutuel was a trailer in the early running, while Pompeius showed the way to Blenheim, Lightning Bolt and Spinach. Coucci made his move after leaving the back stretch, the Widener colt moving up steadily around the bend. Coucci saved all ground possible turning for home, while Mills let Blenheim go wide. This decided the issue. After Pompeius quit, the winner and Blenheim staged a bitter duel. Pari-Mutuel got his nose in front and refused to give up this slight advantage.

JOE AND ASBESTOS

(Watch Sunday's Post for New Secret Code) —By Ken Kling

Asbestos hit another winner yesterday when Queensway won. The roll only went up 80 cents, but this same horse paid a nice price last time for us, so we can't complain about yesterday's odds. The code horse ran second. Bankroll is $56.59.

Latter also raced forwardly and held on well. DAUDET met with early interference, but was going gamely at end. VENNIE H. tired in the stretch. THROUGH OMOND stopped badly in the run home. LUCKY CARTER showed up a long lead in the early running, but tired badly in the last furlong. BEN BLAIR raced evenly and finished close up. CRUSHED STONE was running well when he was bumped at midstretch and lost his chance. SPUD bore out rounding the first turn, interfering with CHUM and THISTLE ARIOUS. CHUM was never dangerous after suffering early interference. COMSTOCKERY was off slowly, met with interference on far turn and seemed a trifle sore after pulling up.

WASHINGTON PARK.

DEAR AL:

Well, boy, I wish to apologize for mentioning that Brave and Bold might beat Adobe Post. Five lengths pulled up after letting Brave and Bold set the pace can't be explained away. But $5.58 to place is better than $2.98 to win, providing, of course, you play them that way. Started you off with a hot one again. This time it was Sun Gros at $22.30.

Here's some good ones at other tracks that you can try today: Mi

NET QUARTERFINALS TODAY

Six to Battle In Title Tennis

Mitchell-Mason, Yen-Smith, Hunt-Considine Meet.

Winners to Join Hermann in Semi-final Round.

SIX of the best tennis players in Washington will fight it out for the right to go into the semi-final round of the City of Washington tennis championships today on the courts at the Sixteenth street reservoir. Matches will start at 3 o'clock.

Dooly Mitchell will meet Dick Mason, one of the dark horses of the tournament, at 4 o'clock, while Youngson Yen will attempt to continue his trek through local tennisdom by turning back Lieut. Gerald Smith, one of the hardest hitters hereabouts. Gilbert Hunt, who at 16 possesses more strokes than the entire field, plays Bob Considine, former champion, at 3 o'clock.

Hermann Already in Semifinals.

Three heated winners will emerge out of these matches, to join Gene Hermann in the semifinal round—a round he reached by upset victories over Joe Olhausen and Anthony Latona.

The men will, however, hold but a measure of the spotlight today. Quarter-final matches in women's singles demand attention. Alice Davis, hard-hitting daughter of the former Secretary of War and national doubles champion, has already reached the semifinal. At 4 o'clock today, Mrs. Charles P. Stone, defending champion, meets a threat in Reba Kirson, Baltimore ace.

At 4:30 o'clock Mrs. Ruth Martinez, District champion, plays Mrs. Wyeth, and Frances Walker meets Sara Moore.

Mitchell and Mason have met once before, last year in a Public Parks League match. Mason held a 5-0 lead and several set points, but lost it at 10-8. His steadiness is liable to trouble Mitchell. Yen and Smith are antithetical players, the Chinese being given to crafty chops and weird topspin, and the young naval medico hitting flat and hard. Hunt is favored to dispose of Considine.

Rutley-Ladd Win Feature Doubles.

Yesterday was given over to doubles and produced one spirited match in which Joe Rutley and John Ladd defeated Murray Gould and Muscoe Garnett, 4—6, 6—3, 6—3. Rib-straining rallies, sustained even though all four men were hitting the ball hard, featured the match. At one point Garnett, on the dead run, tripped and skidded 10 feet on his bright yellow tennis shirt.

One match was checked by the fall of night. Joe Olhausen and Bob Considine were leading Maj. Dorst and Lieut. Smith, 1—6, 6—1, 4—2, when further play became impossible. The third set will be replayed today.

MEN'S DOUBLES.

Second round—Ladd and Rutley defeated Gould and Garnett, 4—6, 6—3, 6—3. Olhausen and Considine were leading Dorst and Smith, 1—6, 6—1, 4—2.

WOMEN'S DOUBLES.

First round—Stone and Wyeth defeated Deck and Totten, 6—2, 6—0.

Second round—Stone and Wyeth defeated Graham and Cochran, 6—2, 6—0; Kirson and Moore defeated Miller and Morris, 6—1, 6—2.

MIXED DOUBLES.

Second round—Mr. and Mrs. Deck defeated Dorette Miller and Evans, 2—6, 8—6, 6—1; Mrs. Colloday and Yen defeated Philpitt and Baker, 6—3, 7—5.

TODAY'S SCHEDULE.

Men's Singles.

Quarter-finals, 3 o'clock—Considine vs. Hunt.

Quarter-finals, 4 o'clock—Yen vs. Smith, Mitchell vs. Mason.

Women's Singles.

Quarter-finals, 4 o'clock—Mrs. Charles P. Stone vs. Reba Kirson.

Quarter-finals, 4:30 o'clock — Frances Walker vs. Sara Moore, Mrs. Ruth Martinez vs. N. C. Wyeth.

Desjardins May Dive At Pool at Glen Echo

Efforts are being made by the management of Glen Echo Park swimming pool to secure the services in June of Pete Desjardins, Olympic diving champion, who will visit Maj. R. B. Lawrence, of Bethesda, Md., during that period to give special instruction to his daughter Onalene. District high-board diving champion, and to John Broaddus, rated one of the best of the men divers in the city.

The Glen Echo pool will have Pat Delaney as its director this year. Delaney is well known around Philadelphia. He will supervise free swimming.

Georgetown Netmen Beaten by Navy, 5 to 4

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., May 25.—Tennis players of Georgetown University bowed to Annapolis Midshipmen in a nip-and-tuck battle here today. The score was 5 to 4. The Hilltoppers proved one of the toughest foes the Tars have encountered this season.

DOUBLES — Loughlin and Johnson (Navy) defeated Mitchell and Crowley, 6—2, 10—8; Gold and Reiter (Navy) defeated Ferguson and Doyle, 8—10, 6—2; 6—3; Berberich and McBride (Georgetown) defeated Raymond and McAfee, 8—6, 6—4.

Crofton Group Gains Agua Caliente Control

Agua Caliente, Mexico, May 25 (A. P.).—Control of the Agua Caliente resort company passed today into the hands of James M. Crofton, president of the Agua Caliente Jockey Club; Baron Long, San Diego hotel man, and Joseph M. Schenck, Hollywood film magnate.

Wirt G. Bowman, president of the company, which operates the Agua Caliente Hotel, spa, golf course and casino, announced last night he had sold his stock and would resign May 31. His place will be filled at that time.

SPORTS DEPT. WINS.

The Post Sports Department Sloths defeated the rheumatic City Room Nine, 11-6, in a game which sank to lower depths than the national pastime has been forced this year.

SANDLOT DUST

BARRING upsets the fight for the first half flag in the junior division of The Post's Capital City League will be between the Georgetown A. C., coached by "Buck" Trundle, and Dixie Polish Co., piloted by V. M. Lawrence. It is a noteworthy fact that teams coached by these men always are well up near the top at the end of every pennant chase.

The two clubs are deadlocked at this time with the dark horse of the race, Southwest Merchants, for the league leadership. Each of the trio has turned in a pair of victories in as many starts. The Polishers created a surprise by trimming Fussell-Young, a preseason favorite, by a score of 5 to 3 in their first game. Last week they polished off Swann Service by the surprisingly large score of 15 to 5. Georgetown swamped Mount Rainier, 18 to 4, in its opening game, and followed up this victory with a 10 to 3 decision over Fussell-Young.

Southwest Merchants, a typical sandlot club with one of the players acting as manager, scored over the Wheeler Club, 14 to 1, its first time out, and defeated Dor-A, 11 to 7, last week. The team may, or may not be of championship caliber, only time will determine that, but it is certain to make trouble for the leaders.

Vienna Fire Department's team will meet Capitol Heights Memorial Day at 3 o'clock. Vienna's Sunday game has been called off.

Auth's will tangle with Army War College on the Washington Barracks field today at 5 o'clock.

Ciro's Italian Village nine is seeking a game for Monday with a team having a diamond. Call Manager Tony Burruto at Metropolitan 7959.

Fair in Rockville To Open August 17

Elaborate Plans Are Being Made for Farewell Summer Event.

Rockville once more will be the scene of the colorful fair which for 77 years has been held there by the Montgomery County Agricultural Society, President Clarence L. Gilpin announced yesterday. The fair will be held August 17, 18, 19 and 20.

Sale of the Rockville Fair Grounds to the county board of education for use as a school site and athletic field is pending, but this will not interfere with its use for the farewell fair.

This probably will be the most spectacular fair in the history of the association, as it is planned to sing the "swan song" of the time-honored institution in a fitting manner. The fair probably will be more in the nature of a monster carnival than an agricultural fair, with elaborate displays of fireworks for the last three nights.

The tax rate for the town of Edmonston, Md., has been set at 25 cents on the $100, a reduction of 10 cents from last year's levy. The 1930 rate also was 25 cents, but was raised last year to finance a program of improvements, including repairs to streets.

D. C. Nines to Visit Alexandria Sunday

Notre Dame Preps, Maryland Macs to Meet Virginia Juniors.

Special to The Washington Post.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., May 25.—Two fast Washington baseball teams will be played by the Virginia Juniors in a double-header on the R. F. & P. field Sunday. In the first encounter the locals engage the Notre Dame Preps, leaders in the midget class of the Capital City loop, at 10 o'clock, while the nightcap fray finds the Maryland Mac, one of the best clubs in the junior division of Washington, tackling the locals.

Herbie Young, coach of the nine, has signed Titcombe, former Alexandria High twirler, and Lacey, late outfielder with the Old George Mason High outfit. These two boys will give the Virginians extra strength.

An important practice will be held Friday afternoon on the ahipyard field at 5 o'clock. The drill will be followed by a meeting to be at the Washington Times office, King and Columbus streets, at 7:30 o'clock.

The Port Meade Tank Corps nine will be here on Sunday for their annual battle with the St. Mary's Celtics Team, it was disclosed today by Director Charley Corbett, of the locals.

Doc Dreifus, ace of the Celts, will probably hurl this game. Dreifus is playing with the Commerce Team in the Washington governmental loop.

In preparation for their game Sunday with the Front Royal All Stars the Alexandria Fraters will drill on Hunton Field Thursday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock. Cliff Wood, coach, expects to shift his line-up for this game.

ADOBE POST, ODDS-ON, EASY WINNER AT WASHINGTON PARK

1-2 Shot Wins In Gallop by 5 Lengths

Brave and Bold Runs Second in Seven-Furlong Sprint.

Pari-Mutuel Scores at Belmont With S. Coucci Up.

WASHINGTON PARK, Ill., May 25 (A.P.).—Adobe Post, ridden by Jockey Charley Landolt, and the shortest priced horse to score thus far at the Washington Park meeting, easily triumphed in the top race here at seven furlongs today. Struggling five lengths back of the victor came Brave and Bold and Black Strap.

Adobe Post, owned by Knebelkamp and Morris, covered the distance in 1:25 4-5 and paid $2.98.

Word was received from Col. Ed R. Bradley that his, Burgoo King, winner of the Kentucky Derby and Preakness, would be shipped here next week from the East to compete in the $50,000 American Derby to be run here on June 18.

Jockey Coucci Stars At Belmont.

Belmont Park Race Track, May 25 (A.P.).—Silvio Coucci, the Bronx kid who has become the apprentice riding star of the hour, "stole the show" here this afternoon. The promising Italian youngster scored his third triumph in as many attempts in the featured Spindrift Handicap, booting home J. E. Widener's Pari-Mutuel in a thrilling finish. The son of Fair Play nosed the Wheatley Stable's Blenheim, eight-to-five favorate, out of the purse largely because of superior horsemanship by Coucci.

Lightning Bolt was third, four spans behind. Pompeius was fourth with Spinach last. Pari-Mutuel covered the mile and a furlong distance in 1:49 4-5 and was quoted at four to one. The winner's share of the purse amounted to $3,210.

Pari-Mutuel was a trailer in the early running, while Pompeius showed the way to Blenheim, Lightning Bolt and Spinach. Coucci made his move after leaving the back stretch, the Widener colt moving up steadily around the bend. Coucci saved all ground possible turning for home, while Mills let Blenheim go wide. This decided the issue. After Pompeius quit, the winner and Blenheim staged a bitter duel. Pari-Mutuel got his nose in front and refused to give up this slight advantage.

JOE AND ASBESTOS

(Watch Sunday's Post for New Secret Code) —By Ken Kling

Asbestos hit another winner yesterday when Queensway won. The roll only went up 80 cents, but this same horse paid a nice price last time for us, so we can't complain about yesterday's odds. The code horse ran second. Bankroll is $56.59.

SUN GROS, off quickly, remained close to the pace in early stages and, getting to the front in the stretch, drew out to an easy win. TELAMON was never far away and, finishing gamely, held METAURUS. Latter also raced forwardly and held on well. DAUDET met with early interference, but was going gamely at end. VENNIE H. tired in the stretch. THROUGH OMOND stopped badly in the run home. FLYING D'S tired. FAYETTE PRINCE was shuffled back early and a trailer to the stretch, then closed ground, but was in close quarters at mid stretch. FETCH galloped off three furlongs before the start.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—BLACK COMET, $6.72, $4.02, $2.92; BACK LOG, $15.70, $10.06; FIDDLER, $3.60.

BLACK COMET went to the front at once and, racing well, held sway to the end to win handily. BACK LOG was close up at all times and was gaining slightly at the end but did not threaten. FIDDLER was in close quarters soon after the start but raced well thereafter to best FRENCH HONEY. FRENCH HONEY tired. STOCK MARKET threw his rider before the start and the boy appeared slightly injured in remounting and was of little help to the gelding during the race. Others were outrun.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—NITUMA, $8.96, $6.30, $4.26; HILENA, $14.72, $6.74; ABSOLUTION, $6.42.

NITUMA, never far from the pace, forged to the front after half the distance and, taking a good lead in the stretch, held HILENA. The latter, probably best, was in close quarters in the early running and again in the stretch, but was going resolutely at the finish. ABSOLUTION made up ground on the outside. SPARTAN LADY also closed much ground. INDIAN MIST and UNTIMELY tired in the stretch. TWO SLIPPER could never get to the front and weakened in the last furlong.

FOURTH RACE—One mile. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 3-year-olds. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:58½. Off at 3:59. Winner, Everglade Stable's b. c. (3), by Dodge—Quaulty. Two-dollar mutuels paid—DYAK, $6.12, $4.08, $3.82; BILLY JONES, $16.50, $10.32; DURANGO, $18.40.

DYAK followed the pace closely under restraint to the stretch, then went to the front, then drew into a long lead in the final furlong. BILLY JONES was close to the pace at all times and raced sweetly to the finish. DURANGO, slow to get going, was a trailer to the stretch, then came strongly on the outside and was going fast at the finish. DIS DAT was within striking distance of the leaders in the early stages, but failed to respond when called upon. SOPHIST and THUNDERTONE tired badly when the real racing began. HABANERO showed a poor effort, being outrun throughout. ASTUTE ran a good half. GOLD TIP ran away seven furlongs before the start and galloped far back of the others.

FIFTH RACE—Seven furlongs. Purse, $1,500; allowances. For 3-year-olds. Start good. Won eased up; place, driving. Went to post at 4:25½. Off at 4:30½. Winner, Knebelkamp & Morris' ch. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—ADOBE POST, $2.98, $2.50, $2.26; BRAVE AND BOLD, $3.58, $3.08; BLACKSTRAP, $2.52.

ADOBE POST was permitted to trail the field in the early running, but came fast in the last quarter to cut down the leader's advantage and, getting to the front in the last furlong, drew out to win eased up. BRAVE AND BOLD was in close quarters on the far turn, but raced gamely and was best of the others. BLACKSTRAP acted badly in the barrier and was not good enough. RENEWED finished fairly well. HIGH PROOF tired in the stretch. VA CARRIENDO was never a serious contender.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:56. Off at 4:56½. Winner, Mrs. E. Denemark's ch. f. Two-dollar mutuels paid—WATERFRONT, $46.12, $18.02, $8.78; LUCKY CARTER, $7.32, $5.00; BEN BLAIR, $5.86.

WATERPORT, never far from the pace, improved his position gradually in the stretch and outgamed LUCKY CARTER in the final drive. LUCKY CARTER opened up a long lead in the early running, but tired badly in the last furlong. BEN BLAIR raced well and finished close up. CRUSHED STONE was bumped at midstretch and lost his chance. SPUD bore out rounding the first turn, interfering with CHUM and THISTLE ARIOUS. CHUM was never dangerous after suffering early interference. COMSTOCKERY was off slowly, met with interference on far turn and seemed a trifle sore after pulling up.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won handily; place, driving. Went to post at 5:22½. Off at 5:24. Winner, J. P. Two-dollar mutuels paid—LION HEARTED, $16.20, $7.76, $5.40; BRAINS, $61.24, $23.96; ED LARK, $4.70.

LION HEARTED was sent forward steadily after a quarter and, overtaking BRAINS in the stretch, raced into a good lead to win easily. BRAINS showed good speed in pacemaking and held on fairly well. ED LARK came gamely on the outside in the stretch, but could not get up. REJUVENATION moved up stronmly approaching the stretch turn, but being near the end, CHIP was bumped rounding the first turn, could not get to the leaders and met with slight interference from REJUVENATION in the stretch. CORAL BEACH and NEALON KAY tired. ROY was in close quarters turning into the back stretch.

NET QUARTERFINALS TODAY

Six to Battle In Title Tennis

Mitchell-Mason, Yen-Smith, Hunt-Considine Meet.

Winners to Join Hermann in Semi-final Round.

SIX of the best tennis players in Washington will fight it out for the right to go into the semi-final round of the City of Washington tennis championships today on the courts at the Sixteenth street reservoir. Matches will start at 3 o'clock.

Dooly Mitchell will meet Dick Mason, one of the dark horses of the tournament, at 4 o'clck, while Youngson Yen will attempt to continue his trek through local tennisdom by turning back Lieut. Gerald Smith, one of the hardest hitters hereabouts. Gilbert Hunt, who at 16 possesses more strokes than the entire field, plays Bob Considine, former champion, at 3 o'clock.

Hermann Already in Semifinals.

Three heated winners will emerge out of these matches, to join Gene Hermann in the semifinal round—a round he reached by upset victories over Joe Olhausen and Anthony Latona.

The men will, however, hold but a measure of the spotlight today. Quarter-final matches in women's singles demand attention. Alice Davis, hard-hitting daughter of the former Secretary of War and national doubles champion, has already reached the semifinal. At 4 o'clock today, Mrs. Charles P. Stone, defending champion, meets a threat in Reba Kirson, Baltimore ace.

At 4:30 o'clock Mrs. Ruth Martinez, District champion, plays Mrs. Wyeth, and Frances Walker meets Sara Moore.

Mitchell and Mason have met once before, last year in a Public Parks League match. Mason held a 5-0 lead and several set points, but lost it at 10-8. His steadiness is liable to trouble Mitchell. Yen and Smith are antithetical players, the Chinese being given to crafty chops and weird topspin, and the young naval medico hitting flat and hard. Hunt is favored to dispose of Considine.

Rutley-Ladd Win Feature Doubles.

Yesterday was given over to doubles and produced one spirited match in which Joe Rutley and John Ladd defeated Murray Gould and Muscoe Garnett, 4—6, 6—3, 6—3. Rib-straining rallies sustained even though all four men were hitting the ball hard, featured the match. At one point Garnett, on the dead run, tripped and skidded 10 feet on his bright yellow tennis shirt.

One match was checked by the fall of night. Joe Olhausen and Bob Considine were leading Maj. Dorst and Lieut. Smith, 1—6, 6—1, 4—2, when further play became impossible. The third set will be replayed today.

MEN'S DOUBLES.

Second round—Ladd and Rutley defeated Garnett and Gould, 4—6, 6—3, 6—3; Olhausen and Considine were leading Dorst and Smith, 1—6, 6—1, 4—2.

WOMEN'S DOUBLES.

First round—Stone and Wyeth defeated Deck and Totten, 6—2, 6—0.

Second round—Stone and Wyeth defeated Graham and Cockrell, 6—2, 6—0; Kirson and Moore defeated Miller and Morris, 6—1, 6—2.

Quarter-final round—Walker and Martinez defeated Sard and Claudel, 6—2, 6—2.

MIXED DOUBLES.

Second round—Mr. and Mrs. Deck defeated Miller and Mrs. Evans, 2—6, 8—6, 6—1; Mrs. Colloday and Yen defeated Philpitt and Baker, 6—3, 7—5.

TODAY'S SCHEDULE.

The Glen Echo pool will have Pat Delaney as its director this year. Delaney is well known around Philadelphia. He will supervise free swimming.

SANDLOT DUST

BARRING upsets the fight for the first half flag in the junior division of The Post's Capital City League will be between the Georgetown A. C., coached by "Buck" Trundle, and Dixie Polish Co., piloted by V. M. Lawrence. It is a noteworthy fact that teams coached by these men always are well up near the top at the end of every pennant chase.

The two clubs are deadlocked at this time with the dark horse of the race, Southwest Merchants, for the league leadership. Each of the trio has turned in a pair of victories in as many starts. The Polishers created a surprise by trimming Fussell-Young, a preseason favorite, by a score of 5 to 3 in their first game. Last week they polished off Swann Service by the surprisingly large score of 15 to 5. Georgetown swamped Mount Rainier, 18 to 4, in its opening game, and followed up this victory with a 10 to 3 decision over Fussell-Young.

Southwest Merchants, a typical sandlot club with one of the players acting as manager, scored over the Wheeler Club, 14 to 1, its first time out, and defeated Dor-A, 11 to 7, last week. The team may, or may not be of championship caliber, only time will determine that, but it is certain to make trouble for the leaders.

Vienna Fire Department's team will meet Capitol Heights Memorial Day at 3 o'clock. Vienna's Sunday game has been called off.

Auth's will tangle with Army War College on the Washington Barracks Field today at 5 o'clock.

The Dixie Polish uniors will meet at 1121 B street northeast Friday night at 7:30 o'clock. They will drill Saturday at 3 o'clock on the Rosedale Playground field.

Sears Insects will go through their paces today at 3:30 o'clock on diamond No. 1 of the Monument Grounds. All players are requested to report promptly.

Sholl's Cafe nine is scheduled to practice today at 5 o'clock on diamond No. 3. A game is wanted for Monday. Call Georgia 4746-W. Sunday the team travels to Middleburg, Va., for a game with the team of that town.

Congress Heights would like to book a game for Saturday and one for Monday. Call Lincoln 1470-M.

Horning Jewelers are seeking an out-of-town game for Monday. Call Atlantic 4420-J after 7 p. m.

Capital All-Star midgets are angling for games. Call Lincoln 5481-J.

Federal Storage has a diamond and would like to arrange Saturday games. Call Business Manager Nick Valenza at Wisconsin 2478 after 6:30 p. m.

The Miller Furniture Co. nine will drill today at 5 p. m. on the Fairlawn field. All players are requested to report promptly.

Diamond Cab turned in a 13-to-8 victory over the Army War College nine yesterday. Saturday the Cabmen meet the Anacostia Eagles at Shady Oak. Sunday they will try conclusions with the Indianhead Cardinals on the latter's field, while Cabin John will be met Monday.

Ciro's Italian Village nine is seeking a game for Monday with a team having a diamond. Call Manager Tony Burruto at Metropolitan 7959.

D. C. Nines to Visit Alexandria Sunday

Notre Dame Preps, Maryland Macs to Meet Virginia Juniors.

Special to The Washington Post.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., May 25.—Two fast Washington baseball teams will be played by the Virginia Juniors in a double-header on the R. F. & P. field Sunday. In the first encounter the locals engage the Notre Dame Preps, leaders in the midget class of the Capital City loop, at 10 o'clock, while the nightcap fray finds the Maryland Mac, one of the best clubs in the junior division of Washington, tackling the locals.

Herbie Young, coach of the nine, has signed Titcombe, former Alexandria High twirler, and Lacey, late outfielder with the Old George Mason High outfit. These two boys will give the Virginians extra strength.

An important practice will be held Friday afternoon on the shipyard field at 5 o'clock. The drill will be followed by a meeting to be at the Washington Times office, King and Columbus streets, at 7:30 o'clock.

The Fort Meade Tank Corps nine will be here on Sunday for their annual battle with the St. Mary's Celtics Team, it was disclosed today by Director Charley Corbett, of the locals.

Doc Dreifus, ace of the Celts, will probably hurl this game. Dreifus is playing with the Commerce Team in the Washington governmental loop.

In preparation for their game Sunday with the Front Royal All Stars the Alexandria Fraters will drill on Hunton Field Thursday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock. Cliff Wood, coach, expects to shift his line-up for this game.

FAIRFAX CLUB GIVES PRIZES FOR FLOWERS

SONG FOR AN AVIATRIX.

To Londonderry, to Londonderry
Across the deep blue sea—
To Londonderry, to Londonderry,
To get some Irish tea!

LIFE'S LITTLE MYSTERIES.

THE more you think of Amelia Earhart Putnam's flight from Newfoundland to Londonderry, the harder it is to understand why so many wives regard putting the car in the garage after dark a major adventure.

THE USUAL PERCENTAGE.

"Mrs. Putnam confessed after landing that she had only $20 with her."—News item. "Well," said the Little Woman when she read about, "she probably asked her husband for $50, and that's what he gave her."

Twenty dollars is more than enough for any woman on a trip of that type. It makes certain she won't stop in Paris to buy a hat.

WITH MUSTARD.

Perhaps I may mean something
In the great plan on high,
But at the drug store counter
I'm hailed as "Ham on Rye!"

My sympathy, Aphasia;
You're in an awful plight,
But I'm not known as ham on rye,
I'm cheese and egg on white.

STEEL OUTPUT GAINS FAIL TO COVER LOSS

Ingot Production in Nation Drops to 24 Per Cent of Capacity.

New York, May 25 (A.P.).—Larger steel output in some districts has not been enough to balance losses elsewhere, and ingot production for the entire country has declined to 24 per cent of capacity, from 25 per cent last week, said the Iron Age today.

A few further price advances are in prospect on automobile body stock and some other special finishes of sheets and on hot rolled strip steel, but most of the current prices probably will be reaffirmed for the next quarter, the review asserted.

Most consumers of steel, the review added, seem to be no more than mildly interested in third quarter prices, having so little work in view. An automobile manufacturer is asking for prices on steel for 10,000 of a new series of small cars on which production will be started in June or July.

Structural steel has taken a little spurt in the past week with lettings of about 18,000 tons. The review points out that railroads are doing very little buying, but the financial relief that is being afforded through the Reconstruction Finance Corporation is expected soon to pave the way for some orders for the carriers.

Although weakness continues in steel scrap markets the Iron Age composite price is practically unchanged at $7.41 a gross ton.

Also unchanged are the composite prices on finished steel at 2.087 cents a pound and pig iron at $14.06 a gross ton.

The automobile outlook, according to this review, holds some promise for light car buying, but medium and higher priced groups face unsatisfactory situations.

Markets and Business in Review and Outlook

By Lawrence Sullivan

THE failure of the automobile industry to make any significant progress this spring in its vigorous sales drive has put an end to whatever hopes were held in the business world that motor production might provide the stimulant for a general industrial revival.

With the peak of the spring replacement demand about passed, auto sales, for all types of cars and trucks, still are running slightly less than half of the 1931 rate and about one-third of the 1930 figure.

For the first four months of 1932 domestic automobile production, as reflected by factory sales reported to the Bureau of the Census, were 503,734 vehicles. For the same period of 1931 the figure was 1,005,132 vehicles, and for the period January-April in 1930, 1,444,047.

* * * *

A MINOR offset to this picture is the fact that while the peak of the year's sales normally are registered in April, the production curve this year continued upward through the last half of April and the first three weeks of May. It is still going up, which gives promise that the final figures for 1932 will be considerably better than would be indicated by a mere projection of the January-April figures on the normal seasonal curve. Yet it already appears likely that the total output for the current year will not reach 2,000,000 vehicles. The total United States production in 1931 was 2,389,738 vehicles, against 2,355,986 in 1930 and 5,622,000 in 1929, the all-time peak.

* * * *

WITH a current motor registration of 26,000,000 in the United States, the normal replacement demand—as estimated by the Automobile Chamber of Commerce, on the basis of seven years average service from every vehicle—should be approximately 3,500,000 cars a year. Allowing for the normal American exports, a smoothed-curve production of 300,000 cars a month may be regarded as a long-time normal. By comparing this figure with the production of 118,959 units in March, 1932, and 148,013 units in April, one gains a fair picture of the position of industry today.

* * * *

THE most hopeful element in the picture is that many of the important internal adjustments in the industry already have been made.

With the stage thus set for substantial improvement as soon as the national psychosis of depression and fear is broken, there appears ample justification for the spirit of firm confidence which rules today among the leaders in the automotive trade.

For 23 consecutive months, domestic automobile sales have been at a rate far below normal replacement demand. During these 23 months, including April, 1932, factory sales have totaled 2,600,000 vehicles less than the normal replacement figure for the period. Thus there is in the United States today, even allowing for a 20 per cent shrinkage in absolute demand, a dammed up need for some 2,000,000 automobiles and trucks.

Deflation Runs Wild.

FURTHER convincing evidence that the tide of deflation has more than run its course is found in the current rate of returns and earnings on blue-chip stocks.

Despite the drastic decline in security values during the last two and a half years, thirty market leaders on the New York Stock Exchange now are paying more than 9 per cent return on current market values. The rate of dividends and payments on these thirty selected stocks as of May 23 was 80 per cent better than at the end of 1922 and 150 per cent better than at the peak of the market in 1929.

These facts were developed in a recent analysis of prices and earnings by the Administrative & Research Corporation of New York.

At the market close December 31, 1922, the average price of the 30 stocks was $44.87, average distributions for the year being $2.30, or 5.13 per cent.

At the highs of 1929 these stocks averaged $172.81 in price and distributed $6.18 during that year, or 3.81 per cent.

At the market close May 23, 1932, the average price was $26.93 and rate of distribution was $2.44, or 9.1 per cent.

The stocks considered in this analysis included such leaders as Allied Chemical, American Can, American Radiator & Standard Sanitary, American Smelting, American Tobacco, Borden, Du Pont, Eastman, U. S. Steel, Westinghouse, Woolworth, American Telephone & Telegraph, Electric Bond & Share, Atchison and New York Central.

LIFE UNDERWRITERS ELECT JOHN LYNCH

John McElfresh Is Chosen as First Vice President; Farquhar, Treasurer.

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

John P. Lynch, of the New York Life Insurance Co., was elected president of the District of Columbia Life Underwriters Association for the administrative year, 1932-33, at a meeting of the association's directorate yesterday. He succeeds David S. Bethune of the Equitable Life Insurance Co., of New York.

John L. McElfresh, Connecticut Mutual, was elected first vice president, succeeding Philip L. Baldwin, Northwestern Mutual, and Horace Winter, Travelers Insurance Co., follows J. E. McCombs, Mutual Life Insurance Co. of New York, as second vice president. The new secretary is George T. Black, Sun Life Insurance Co., who succeeds Daniel J. Harrison, of Massachusetts Mutual Life Insurance Co. George B. Farquhar, Penn Mutual Life Insurance Co., was re-elected treasurer.

Mr. Bethune was chairman of the meeting of directors and Mr. Harrison, secretary. Other directors in attendance were Paul D. Sleeper, Aetna Life Insurance Co.; Mr. McElfresh, Mr. Lynch, Thomas P. Morgan, jr., Mutual Life; Mr. Winter and Carl Smith Dow, Northwestern Mutual.

Representative Malcolm Baldridge, of Nebraska, will address the National Retail Credit Convention on his bankruptcy reform act now pending in Congress on the morning of June 22 at the Mayflower Hotel. Bankruptcy reform will be a featured part of the convention which will be in session in Washington June 20-24.

There is a strong feeling among retailers in connection with the present American bankruptcy act. This act was enacted in 1898 when 90 per cent of the retail business was on a cash basis. Now that more than 50 per cent is a credit business, the retailer feels that he is not properly protected under the legislation as it now stands. The present bankruptcy reform movement is due also to the fact that retailers are now nationally organized and can make their views known and felt, something that was impossible in 1898.

MARKET COMMENT

Robert C. Jones & Co.—We do not share in this wave of extreme pessimism. High grade bank stocks and industrials are selling far below intrinsic values. Substantial profits will be made by those who have the courage to buy on all reactions.

G. M.-P. Murphy & Co.—The average of bond prices as well as all three stock averages made new lows as it became obvious that unless Congress displays unprecedented speed the business men of the country will have to wait another month before knowing what allowance to make for 1932 taxes and whether operating costs for the final six months are to be weighed down by a full year's levy for taxes on their special products.

Waggaman, Brawner & Co.—Continued liquidation forced a lower level of prices in Wednesday's market. Bank stocks shared in the weakness and some new lows were registered. The present low prices, after over two years of liquidation and tremendous reduction in security loans, offer an opportunity for investment seldom equaled. The market is in condition for a very sharp technical recovery on any favorable news.

Liquidation Drags Stocks And Bonds to New Lows

Trading Is More Active Despite Slumps Inspired by Disappointments in Trade and Capital Data; Curb Prices Break Sharply.

Saturday Holiday Abandoned.

New York, May 25 (A.P.).—The New York Stock Exchange will remain open on Saturday, the board of governors decided today.

A petition, signed by nearly 600 members, requested the closing of the exchange on that day to extend the Memorial Day holiday.

By JOHN L. COOLEY.

New York, May 25 (A.P.).—Securities were again borne down by liquidation today and trading became a bit more active in both stocks and bonds.

Share weakness continued to be of a rather selective nature in that utilities, tobaccos and foods were particularly depressed. Many second-grade bonds suffered acutely, although highest rated issues did not escape pressure.

A spongey bond market might alone have accounted for the heavy stock market, but to this adverse influence were added such familiar factors as Washington uncertainties and disappointing trade statistics. Dollars weakened against European gold currencies. Wheat made fractional net gains, but its rally failed to impress shares.

Declines are Numerous.

Although net losses were small in such equities as U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Westinghouse, Standard Oil of New Jersey and American Can, declines of two points or more were numerous elsewhere. In this group came American Tobacco "B," Liggett & Myers "B," Borden, Drug, Norfolk & Western, Wrigley, Union Pacific, Hershey and Pacific Lighting. Union Pacific preferred lost 4, American Sugar preferred 6, Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit preferred 7 and Public Service of New Jersey 7 per cent preferred 5½. General Foods was down 3 at one time, later halving this decline. Pennsylvania Railroad closed at 8, off a point. American Telephone broke through its old low, selling at 93½, and was down 1¼ net. Consolidated Gas, People's Gas and North American were somewhat heavier.

Sales totaled 1,307,982 shares, the largest volume in a fortnight.

The upward movement of foreign exchanges established rates for French francs and Dutch guilders that assure additional gold shipments in view of the present frame of mind abroad, and withdrawals of about $20,000,000 for export were reported late in the day at the Federal Reserve Bank. Some metal was taken by Great Britain.

Steel Operation Spotty.

Steel operations are very spotty and lower rates of activity in some lines this week more than offset advances in others, with the result that Iron Age's average ratio declined to 24 per cent of capacity against 25 per cent a week ago.

There appears to be some difference of opinion in the industry as to whether a further price advance should be attempted, but consumers, said the review, "seem to be no more than mildly interested in third quarter prices, having so little work to do." The outlook for light motor cars is "fairly promising," but in other groups the prospects appear less attractive.

Dividend actions of the day involved the ordering of regular quarterly payments for Electric Power & Light preferred shares which have been selling at large yields. Both stocks rallied. Power production is running close to 13 per cent below a year ago, averaging 12.7 per cent below for the week ended May 21.

Bonds Continue Decline.

The bond market resumed its downward journey, with all corporate categories plumbing new low depths for the year. Only the United States Government section held to a comparatively steady position.

In the face of some severe losses, especially in the railway department, trading activity was only moderately greater than that of yesterday.

Sales totaled $11,708,000, par value, while the average for 60 principal loans dropped seven-tenths of a point.

The Federals were somewhat easy in the early part of the session, but some of them recovered substantially before the close. Two of the Liberties and two of the Treasuries actually recorded small gains and the remaining declines were fractional.

Among Heavier Losses.

The carriers were generally depressed by poor earnings reports. Losses of 1 to 16 points were suffered by some transportation liens. Although the lower-priced speculative bonds were subjected to the greatest pressure, a number of the higher grade issues joined the decline. Among the latter were Santa Fe convertible 4½s, which dropped 3 points for a new year's low.

The heaviest sufferers included liens of Baltimore & Ohio, Boston & Maine, Canadian Pacific, Central Pacific, Chesapeake & Ohio, Chicago & Northwestern, Rock Island, Delaware & Hudson, Erie, Great Northern, Missouri Pacific, New York Central, New Haven, Northern Pacific, Southern and Union Pacific.

The utilities and industrials displayed much more resistance than the rails.

Although the oils were steady, loans of power and light and communications companies sagged. National Dairy Products 5½s were heavily traded for a loss of 1½ points. Amusement company bonds were also weak.

The strength of British 5½s helped to steady the foreign category. These bonds made another new high mark at 104⅜. Bonds of Sweden and Uruguay were also firm. Austrian 7s of 1943 lost 1 point, but the 7s of 1957 gained 2 after early losses. Japanese issues weakened, both the Government 5½s and 6½s, and the Oriental Development 5½s and 6s dropping to new lows for the year with declines of from 1 to 4 points.

Curb Breaks Sharply.

Curb shares broke rather sharply in the most active trading since the second week of April. Selling engulfed the utility shares in substantial volume, and some of the recently firm oils gave ground easily. A number of industrial specialties also slipped off sharply.

Consolidated Gas of Baltimore and American Gas & Electric dropped 3 and 2 points, respectively, to new minimum prices, while Electric Bond & Share, Niagara Hudson and United Light "A" slipped off about ¼ point to the lowest prices of the depression. Some of the preferred issues followed, Electric Bond 6 per cent selling at 19, off 4¼, and American Superpower second preferred at 10, off 6.

The weekly power consumption figures showed a shrinkage of 12.7 per cent from the like week of last year, but that was slightly better than the 13.1 per cent decline reported a week previously.

FORD MOTORS LOSE $53,586,000 IN 1931

Boston, May 25 (A.P.).—The Ford Motor Co. balance sheet as of December 31, 1931, as filed with the Massachusetts commissioner of corporations, shows profit and loss surplus of $655,302,247, compared with $708,888,247 on December 31, 1930, giving an indicated loss for 1931 of $53,586,000.

This compares with an indicated profit for 1930 of $44,460,823 or $257.52 a share on the 172,645 shares of capital stock, par $100, and profit of $81,797,861 or $473.79 a share in 1929.

The above figures do not take into account such dividends as may have been paid to the three owners, Henry Ford, Mrs. Henry Ford and Edsel Ford.

Only through the balance sheet filed annually with the Massachusetts commissioner of corporations is the public permitted to learn anything about the financial operations of the Ford Co. Under its charter the company is not obliged to issue any other statements and all of the shares are held within the Ford family.

Electric Power Preferred Rises

Regular Quarterly Dividend Is Announced, Due on July 1.

New York, May 25 (A.P.).—Preferred stocks of the Electric Power & Light Corporation, which have declined sharply this year on rumors of prospective dividend commissions, rallied sharply today in advance of declaration of the regular dividend rates by directors.

The directors announced that the regular quarterly payments of $1.75 a share on the $7 first prefered stock and of $1.50 on the $6 preferred shares would be made July 1 to stock of record June 10.

No action was taken on the common dividend, this subject not being due for consideration until next month.

Electric Power & Light Corporation is one of the principal members of the Electric Bond & Share group.

The $7 preferred stock of Electric Power & Light broke from a high price of $64 this year to a low price of $12.25. Today it advanced as high as $17.25 and closed at $15 for a net gain of $1 a share.

The $6 preferred, which broke from a high this year of $55.50 to a low point of $10.50 rushed up to $14.75 a share, at which price it closed for a net gain of $4.25 a share.

The common stock advanced fractionally to close at $3.50.

Electric Power Output Decreases for Week

New York, May 25 (A.P.).—Electric power output for the week ended May 21 totaled 1,435,731,000 kilowatt hours, a slight decrease from the preceding week and off 12.7 per cent from the corresponding week of 1931.

The central industrial region continued to show the maximum decline, 16.4 per cent. The Chicago district showed a decrease of 13.8 per cent; Atlantic seaboard, 9.9 per cent, and the Pacific Coast, 9.2 per cent.

Number of declines	468	373
Stocks unchanged	155	134

Stocks.

In the heaviest trade in a fortnight, utilities, tobaccos and food shares were under heavy pressure. The industrials held up fairly well, but the averages closed at new lows.

Bonds.

Only the United States Governments showed firm resistance in the spongy market. The corporate averages fell to new lows.

Curb.

Sharp breaks in the utilities and weakness in oils following reports of additional drilling in Texas, toppled the general market. Power consumption and car loadings were both unfavorable.

Wheat.

Rumors of strong Wall street support, sustained by additional damage reports from the Southwest, advanced Chicago futures 1 cent. The close was at about the day's best.

Cotton.

Reports of further mill curtailment in the Carolinas were partially offset by New Orleans buying in New York. Liverpool cables were weak. The New York close was about unchanged from Tuesday's, at the top for the day.

BANKS' CREDIT PLAN SPREADS TO CHICAGO

Federal Reserve and Heads of Industries Confer on Stimulating Trade.

Chicago, May 25 (A.P.).—The campaign to loose the purse strings of the Nation's credit spread to the Middle West today with formation of a committee of industrialists and bankers "to consider ways and means of making more effective the Federal Reserve System's open market policy and of stimulating business."

Sewell L. Avery, president of Montgomery Ward & Co., and the U. S. Gypsum Co., was named to head the committee, consisting of five other industrialists and five bankers.

Today's meeting followed almost exactly the pattern of New York conferences last week in which Owen D. Young was made chairman of a similar coalition. Ogden L. Mills, Secretary of the Treasury, and Eugene Meyer, governor of the Federal Reserve Board, came from Washington to meet with Chicago and Midwest leaders.

McDougal Calls Meeting.

The conference was called by James B. McDougal, governor of the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago. Similar meetings will be called in the other Federal Reserve districts.

Secretary Mills said the trip by himself and Governor Meyer was made in the interests of a "general expansion of credit and revival of business" and to give the Midwest financial leaders a picture of the situation in Washington.

It was generally conceded that the program would seek to release surplus money accumulated by Federal Reserve Banks, a program which was expected to expand credit in channels not reached by various Government organizations now functioning.

Avery Active in Chicago.

Avery, head of the Chicago coalition, has been active not only in financial but also in civic affairs. Soon after the election of Mayor Anton J. Cermak in 1931 he was made chairman of the mayor's nonpartisan advisory committee to help solve the city's financial problems. He is a director of the United States Steel Corporation, Armour & Co., and many other corporations.

Named by Gov. McDougal to serve with Avery were: George A. Ranney, vice president and treasurer of International Harvester Co.; Gen. Robert E. Wood, president of Sears-Roebuck & Co.; John Stuart, president of Quaker Oats Co.; D. F. Kelly, president of the Fair Department Store; Fred W. Sargent, president Chicago & Northwestern Railway; George M. Reynolds, chairman of the board, Continental Illinois Bank & Trust Co.; Melvin A. Traylor, president First National Bank of Chicago; Albert W. Harris, chairman of the board, Harris Trust & Savings Bank; Philip R. Clarke, president Central Republican Bank & Trust Co., and Solomon A. Smith, president Northern Trust Co. All are Chicagoans.

Among the others attending the meeting was John Ballantyne, director of the Detroit Branch of the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago.

Campbell Is Suspended By Curb Exchange Body

New York, May 25 (A.P.).—The New York Curb Exchange today suspended from regular membership Samuel M. Campbell after he had announced his failure to meet engagements.

Campbell, a private trader, was admitted to the exchange in 1919.

WHEAT PRICE HIGHER ON BROADER BUYING

Crop Reports and Rumors of Grain Pool Aid Rise; Corn and Oats Up.

Chicago, M 25 (A.P.).—Confident buying, coupled with the presence of two widely known speculative leaders, gave a fresh upturn to wheat prices today, more than offsetting early declines.

Evidence accumulated that the trade was sceptical any great improvement of the winter wheat crop prospect would result from rains. Instead, belief apparently grew firmer that the bu of damage to winter wheat was permanent.

Wheat closed firm at the day's top, ½ to ⅝ cent above yesterday's finish, corn varying from ⅜ to ⅝ cent advance, oats ⅛ to ¼ cent off to ¼ cent up, and provisions at 10 cents setback to a rise of 2 cents.

Reports that a Wall street pool was operating on the bull side of the wheat market were the subject of considerable attention, and served in some degree to encourage purchasing during the last hour. Talk was heard also that the speculative leaders whose presence on the exchange floor had aroused gossip were planning to devote more time hereafter to commodities rather than the stock market.

More potent bullish factors, however, were advices that the big wheat belt of south central Kansas was showing indications of plant damage from March freezing, and that much of the crop elsewhere was heading short, promising but a scanty yield even under the best circumstances hereafter.

Another stimulus to price rallies was an official estimate putting the condition of Nebraska wheat at 58, against 72 a month ago and 96 at this time last year.

Word was received also that France had increased her import quota 5 per cent, and that Argentine shipments overseas this week had been reduced to 1,764,000 bushels, compared with 3,541,000 the week previous, and 3,996,000 a year ago.

Meanwhile, the first truck load of new Texas wheat was reported today as having been marketed, and there were predictions the 1932 wheat harvest would be under way all over Texas within a fortnight.

Corn and oats swayed with wheat, although lagging somewhat on account of signs of a bigger movement of corn after termination of the planting season.

Provisions averaged lower, responsive to weakness of the hog market.

COLT DENIES LAXITY IN KREUGER LOANS

New York Banker Tells of Taking Diamond Match Stock Collateral.

New York, May 25 (A.P.).—S. Sloan Colt, president of the Bankers Trust Co., one of four banks which loaned $4,000,000 to the International Match Corporation, denied today that when the question of renewal of the loan came up "all other details" were brushed aside in view of the fact that 350,000 shares of Diamond Match Co. stock were put up as collateral.

Mr. Colt testified before Oscar W. Ehrhorn, referee in bankruptcy, in the hearings into the bankruptcy of the International Match Corporation. He testified that when the first unsecured loan was not paid the question of collateral came up.

Lee, Higginson & Co., bankers for the match corporation and American bankers for the late Ivar Kreuger, Swedish match king, suggested the Diamond stock, which was found "acceptable," Mr. Colt said.

Counsel for the Irving Trust Co. asked the witness if all other matters were not "unimportant," compared with the control of the stock. Mr. Colt denied this was true. A moment earlier in his examination the banker admitted that the 350,000 shares of Diamond stock represented 33 per cent of the stock outstanding, and that a block of stock that large might constitute "working control of the company."

Detroit Fails to Obtain Machinery Order Gains

New York, May 25 (A.P.).—So far Detroit has not felt any stimulation of machinery and equipment orders by reason of the strenuous efforts of the automobile industry, but there is still room for hope, reports the American Machinist.

New England has received several encouraging orders for machinery lately and demand for small tools is slightly improved, according to this authority.

Market Support Small For Leading Rail Issues

New York, May 25 (A.P.).—Little support was forthcoming today for railway securities. In addition to adverse traffic trends, E. G. Buckland, president of the Railroad Credit Corporation, announced that some $100,000,000 would be necessary to meet the carriers' interest charges this year, and that it was estimated only around $60,000,000 would be available for this purpose in the first ten months of 1932.

The Interstate Commerce Commission originally figured the roads would receive between $100,000,000 and $125,000,000 in increased freight rates authorized last winter.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

TOM MOLINEAUX, who was freed by his master as a reward for whipping another Negro fighter in Virginia, won the title of first champion heavyweight of America by easily beating all comers. With the prospect of a large purse, he worked his way to England in 1809 and after a few preliminary bouts, a year later he met Tom Cribb, who was then English champion.

According to contemporary writers Molineaux escaped being hit until the twenty-third round. Even then he had the better of the fight, and in the beginning of the thirty-first round landed a terrific body blow which felled the Englishman.

After he struck what undoubtedly would have been the last blow of the fight, however, Molineaux lost his footing in his attempt to get out of the way of the falling English champion. He stumbled and plunged headlong into one of the ring posts. He was rendered unconscious by the blow.

The rules of fighting in those days called for 30 seconds' rest after each knockdown, and both fighters were revived and sent back into the ring. Cribb's endurance, for which he was noted, came to his aid in the thirty-third round when, after two successive rest periods, he was able to thrust a feeble punch to Molineaux's face. The latter went down, and out.

The real knockout, later examination revealed, resulted from Molineaux's dive into the ring post. He had fought the last two rounds with a fractured skull.

25 DISTRICT BILLS FACE DEATH UNLESS HOUSE GRANTS TIME

Consent of Entire Chamber Must Be Obtained to Get Action.

NUMBER OF MEASURES ARE URGENTLY NEEDED

Another, on Street Closing, Is Added to List as Group Reports It Favorably.

Only with assent of the entire House membership can the District get further legislative time this session, Representative Henry T. Rainey, House Democratic floor leader, made clear last night.

With 25 local measures awaiting House action, Representative Rainey said he "would do all he could" to get time for the District some night next week. He pointed out, however, that only by a unanimous consent arrangement can the time be granted.

Thus it is entirely possible the impasse brought about by open break Monday between House District committee members and Representative Thomas L. Blanton (Democrat), Texas, may leave the District the loser.

Twenty-four bills were left on the calendar when Chairman Mary T. Norton's clash with Representative Blanton over the Bowman securities bill held up any action at the last District session.

Yesterday another bill was added. The committee voted to report favorably a measure authorizing District Commissioners to close useless streets and alleys, after first submitting their plans to the National Capital Park and Planning Commission.

Are Urgently Needed.

A number of measures left on the District calendar are urgently needed this session, among them two bills permitting the industrial development of Buzzards' Point in South Washington.

One of the measures, closing certain streets, must be enacted if the Potomac Electric Power Co. is to build its $5,000,000 power plant this fall. Another must be passed before the Philadelphia, Baltimore & Washington Railway can construct a railroad extension into the area.

The revenue and appropriations tie-up in the Senate has checked District legislation just as severely in the upper chamber. Among the major bills awaiting the consideration of that body is the traction merger, already approved by the House.

BAPTISTS HEAR PLEA TO ESCHEW POLITICS FOR DRY CANDIDATE

Federal or State Control of Liquor Denounced by Local Attorney.

CONVENTION SPEAKER RAPS CANADIAN PLAN

Missionary and Men's Work Discussed at Fifty-fifth Annual Meeting.

Stating he believed he was speaking for the Christian consciousness of the country, T. B. Jarvis, local attorney, addressing the fifty-fifth annual meeting of the Columbia Association of Baptist Churches yesterday, said, "We do not care whether the presidential candidates are Republicans or Democrats so long as they are dry." His topic was, "Shall the Bootlegger Win?" Mr. Jarvis said a recent study he made revealed that Canada had more bootleggers now than it had before governmental control of liquor. Referring to local enforcement, he said Government officials never had fully enforced the law.

The situation, however, he said, is not as bad as it was in preprohibition days. He said that before prohibition was enforced there were more speakeasies than saloons. Government control would just be putting Uncle Sam into a white apron in competition with beer-runners and State control would split the Government, Mr. Jarvis added.

Women Members Speak.

Yesterday was the last day of the annual meeting of the association which was held at the Calvary Baptist Church, Eighth and H streets northwest. The morning session was conducted by women members of the association. Miss Kathleen Mallory and Mrs. E. H. Cressy addressed the group. Mrs. George A. Ross, Mrs. R. F. Mancill, Mrs. H. B. Waddey and Mrs. Erna Embrey participated in the session.

The Rev. Earl Cressy, speaking to the association on mission work in China, said: "The Chinese have a native suspicion that missions have an ulterior motive in building schools and churches, and to allay these fears we have established institutions controlled and operated by the Chinese."

He told the group that all that he did in the missionary field was to aid their efforts, and that the natives are given leeway in all matters of management.

Men's Church Work Stressed.

At a banquet held in the evening, W. W. Everett, moderator of the association, spoke on "The Need and Value of a Men's Organization in Washington." He emphasized the value of work by men in the church, through social contacts and Christian fellowship.

"There are activities that are essentially men's work in the churches," he said, "and it is necessary to organize into groups to better accomplish this work."

C. C. Tillinghast, head master of the Horace-Mann School for Boys at the Columbia University, said Christian service must begin in the home and develop through example and service until molded into conviction.

The Southern Baptists convention will be held in Washington next summer, it was announced. The Rev. Hight G. Moore, of Nashville, Tenn., is the secretary of the organization. The Rev. H. W. G. Millington is arranging the local reception of the convention. About 5,000 are expected to attend.

Youthful Trio, Glen Echo Bound, Visit Police Instead

This trio yesterday started to Glen Echo, but were turned back by Private W. H. Bell, of the Traffic Bureau (also pictured). Richard "Whoopee" Williams, 3, is standing aloof, Ralph Scaggs, 5, is nearest Private Bell, behind Johnnie Sfarnas, 5.

Repeated Efforts to Get Ride to Park Result Only in Trip Home.

A trio of determined tots yesterday were set back in their project to go to Glen Echo to ride the flying horses. Instead they got a ride with a friendly policeman in a taxicab back to their homes near Judiciary Square.

The children are Ralph Scaggs, 5, and Johnny Sfarnas, 5, both of 509 E street northwest, and Richard "Whoopee" Williams, 3, of 509 F street northwest.

With blue skies beckoning, they left their homes yesterday and started to walk to the amusement park which lay beyond the horizon. At Eleventh and F streets northwest they decided that walking would not do the trick and lacking funds, they attempted to sneak on the front platforms of westbound street cars discharging passengers.

Several motormen discerned the designs of the would-be stowaways and circumvented them. After several attempts Traffic Policeman W. H. Bell also caught on. He rounded up the trio and took them to police headquarters in the cab. All-day suckers were provided while the addresses and identities of the young holidayers were being ascertained.

They didn't know their addresses, they told the police, but a tour of the neighborhood was made and the children soon recognized their homes and were turned over to anxious parents.

SENATE UNIT BACKS PATRICK AS UTILITY BODY'S HEAD AGAIN

Opposition to Chairman Fails to Develop at Meeting of Committee.

GROUP GIVES APPROVAL TO FIVE DISTRICT BILLS

Blaine Measure to Remedy Deeds of Trust Release Abuses Favored.

The Senate District committee yesterday voted to approve the nomination of Maj. Gen. Mason M. Patrick for another term as chairman of the Public Utilities Commission.

At the same session five District bills were ordered favorably reported, including the Blaine bill to remedy deeds of trust release abuses and two measures clearing the way for industrial development of Buzzards Point.

No opposition to Gen. Patrick developed at the meeting, although House criticism of the chairman, growing out of his stand for metered taxis, was alluded to by the members.

Praised By Copeland.

"I don't agree or disagree with him on the meter issue," said Senator John J. Blaine (Republican), Wisconsin. "I think it's largely a matter of law."

Senator Royal S. Copeland (Democrat), New York, said Gen. Patrick "has made a fine commissioner."

Senator William H. King (Democrat), Utah, said he would not oppose the nomination inasmuch as the economy bill passed by the House and pending in the Senate would render it impossible for Gen. Patrick to continue to draw both Army retirement compensation and pay from the District.

The Blaine bill approved yesterday would prevent repetition of the situation growing out of the Swartzell, Rheem & Hensey Co. failure. Duplicate sets of notes and wrongful release of real estate properties would be guarded against by new laws governing the recorder of deeds' duties.

Construction of Spur.

The two bills affecting the industrial development of Buzzards Point would permit the Philadelphia, Washington & Baltimore Railroad to construct a spur into the territory by extending its Navy Yard tracks, and authorize closure of streets at the site of the Potomac Electric Power Co.'s proposed $5,000,000 plant. Officials testified the company would begin construction this fall, putting hundreds of men to work.

The committee ordered a favorable report on the King bill regulating foreclosure of mortgages and deeds of trust, specifying that no final decree of sale be entered in any proceeding to foreclose a mortgage until expiration of three months from the date of the entry of an interlocutory order.

A fifth bill provides for exchange of land between the Commissioners and the Office of Public Buildings and Public Grounds at Ingraham street and Riggs road, in connection with erection of the new Keene School.

Year's First Heat Victim Felled Here

With the thermometer within a degree or so of the season's high mark for the year, Washington recorded its first heat prostration yesterday. The official high was 89 for the day, the peak reached in the late afternoon. There was a range of 28 degrees, for the mercury stood at 63 early in the morning. The temperature at the kiosk was 92.

The continued warm spell brought out one of the infallible signs of spring. May flies from the river flats began their metamorphosis and hundreds were clustered on every lamp pole on the Memorial highway between Washington and Alexandria. The flies were reported to be a pest on the highway below Alexandria, with thousands fluttering over the road. By next week they will invade the city proper as the larvae burst through their shells into the adult stage.

The first prostration victim was Richard Crowner, colored, 35 years old, of 1408 Twenty-seventh street northwest, overcome while working in the rear of 1421 Twenty-seventh street. He was removed to Emergency Hospital. His condition is not serious.

GLASSFORD INSISTS CROOKS LEAVE CITY

Tells Administrative Squads to Aid Clean-Up Started by New Bureau.

"We must rid the city of the criminal element which has become so prevalent in Washington lately," Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, superintendent of police, declared in a short address to the various assembled administrative squads at Police Headquarters last night.

Gen. Glassford said that the new crime prevention bureau would play a major part in cleaning up the city but that he wanted every member of the force to cooperate to his utmost with the new bureau, which was organized a short time ago by the superintendent. The police chief also commended the holdup and robbery squad for its work during the last few days.

A drive conducted by the squad last week-end headed by Detective Sergt. Larry O'Dea, resulted in the round up of about 100 prisoners, 75 per cent of whom were said to have criminal records. Classification of each man were recorded and turned over to the bureau of identification in the Department of Justice, and copies filed at police headquarters for further reference.

About 40 of the original 100 rounded up have been released, and those who have no ties in the city have been told to get out of Washington.

INCOME TAX FOUGHT BY DISTRICT GROUPS

Taxpayers' Union and Citizens of Dupont Circle Attack Plan as Unfair.

The graduated income tax suggested for the District of Columbia by the Bureau of Efficiency was opposed by the Taxpayers Union and the Dupont Circle Citizens Association in a statement issued last night.

The Taxpayers Union, a new group which urges Federal economy and the enactment of fair and sound tax legislation, has notified Senator Arthur Capper, chairman of the Senate District committee, that it wishes to appear before the committee to present objections to the proposed tax scheme.

In commenting on the graduated tax proposal of the Efficiency Bureau, Demarest Lloyd, executive secretary of the taxpayers organization, said:

"This method results in the payment of most of the tax money by relatively few persons. This is not only unfair to those persons, but means that a large body of citizens pay no taxes whatsoever; do not, therefore, perform their civic obligations and have no real interest in governmental expenditures.

"In good times, the 'soak the rich' income taxation will yield too much money, since avenues of expenditures are readily found. Then in bad times it yields too little. Witness the Federal Government's present plight."

As a substitute for the graduated income tax, the union and the citizens association advocate a general sales tax as the least burdensome and most fair method of raising substantial revenues.

'Twin' Parked Cars Play Queer Prank on Owners

The automobiles of Daniel H. Cave, Radnor Heights, Va., and Raymond Gralton, of Alexandria, Va., are as like as two peas in a pod. Both are maroon coupes. Both have Virginia tags and are of the same year model.

Mr. Cave parked his car last night near Eleventh and Pennsylvania avenue northwest while he purchased a cigar. Mr. Gralton did likewise. They were not acquainted then, but they are now.

Mr. Gralton came out first and got into Mr. Cave's car, not noting the dissimilar license numbers. The ignition key fitted and away he went. Then Mr. Cave came out and saw his car gone. He didn't see Mr. Gralton's car. He called police.

A quick radio broadcast to police cars reached an Alexandria cruiser and 5 minutes later Gralton was stopped as he drove into town homeward bound. He was greatly astonished. Explanations followed.

Mr. Gralton came back to this city with the Alexandria policemen and he and Cave exchanged amenities and all was forgiven. Mr. Cave, however, later informed reporters he was stopped five times by police on his way home.
